HEAVY DUTY MOTOR BOATS.

The Engineer-in-Charge "City of Adelaide" Lifeboat, writes:—After about three years' continuous work, you might be pleased to know how your "INVINCIBLE" 50-h.p. engine behaved on a good long trip. This engine is the one installed in the South Aust. Govt. Lifeboat "City of Adelaide," stationed at Beachport.

On Monday, the 13th Nov., 1911, the Lifeboat received word to proceed at once to the scene of the wrecked ship which went ashore on the Ninety Mile Beach, and about ninety-seven miles from Beachport. We left here at 9.30 in the morning, and got to Kingston, sixty-eight miles, at 7 o'clock in the evening. There was a very heavy sea running, and we had a head wind to contend with.

On arrival at Kingston word came through that everybody was safe ashore from the wreck, so we had some refreshment, and came straight away back to Beachport. We covered a distance of over 60 miles on the return trip, as the sea was rougher than ever, and we had to keep a long way out to sea. The engines were running for about twenty hours, with an hour's spell in between. The engines ran splendidly, requiring practically no attention, except keeping lubricators full.

The propeller was continuously out of the water, owing to rough sea, and the governor kept the engine under perfect control.

The Lifeboat must always be ready for instant use, and for an emergency, so it is absolutely necessary that the engines should be perfectly reliable, which they certainly are. The boat has done several trips to Port Adelaide, in very severe weather, the distance being one hundred and ninety miles, and the engines have acted in the same reliable manner.

The boat is 55ft long, 14½ft beam, and draws 4ft 7in her full length. She is by no means a fine model, being very full in the bilge. The average speed is 8½ knots per hour.

INVINCIBLE ENGINES ARE ABSOLUTELY RELIABLE. WE GUARANTEE EVERY ENGINE FOR FIVE YEARS.

It has taken us many years of constant effort to build up our splendid reputation for HIGH ART WORK and our friends may feel assured that every order (even at this very low price) will receive our best attention, and the work will be our very best, and will prove a pleasure to our customer and a credit to our good name.

A BOLD STATEMENT.

But as true as it is bold. Some of these Frames are honestly worth the full 21/ without either the photos or the enlargement, and you are free to select the one of your choice without extra charge. No discount can be allowed off this marvellous offer.

A SOCIAL CUSTOM.

Every year we are charmed by tokens of love from friends who help to make life happy by their silent messages and fraternal greetings, with the season's compliments, in a well-chosen Christmas Card. The more chaste and artistic the card the more pleasure it gives. Many desire something quite new in this direction, something that will excite admiration and inspire thoughts of love. It is A SWEET IDEA to send your photograph as a Christmas present, especially when it is the work of a master artist, and finished with artistic taste, and mounted in our up-to-date style. Our Cabinet and Paris Panel Mounts are choice examples of the combined skill of the mechanic and the artist, and support a photograph RICH IN ARTISTIC MERIT. This combination of mount and photograph is admitted by artists to be AN IDEAL LOVE TOKEN.

CHAPTER XVII.

THE LETTER IS WRITTEN.

The Hackney road, even under the brightest conditions, is not attractive, and there are streets turning out of it which are far worse than the main thoroughfare. Poverty and squalor are there, and crime too; yet there are factories, some perhaps using much labour at a pittance in order that a few men may live in luxury, some paying a fair wage for a reasonable return. The rabid socialist, here as elsewhere, condemned them all without distinction. These factories, he argued, were the visible signs of that organised oppression of the poor which, according to the socialist creed, is so dear to the heart of the rich; but then these hot-headed reformers are mostly ignorant folk, who see a very little way into the future.

The dirty walls of Collier's Paper Works added to the depressing appearance of one street, perhaps the most dismal in the neighbourhood; but those who were employed in the works considered themselves fortunate; the pay was good, and the work was constant. Compared with other paper works it was not a large factory, and the number of hands was comparatively small, but it was generally considered an important business, had several special lines, and some secret processes which were safeguarded by being passed in their various stages of manufacture through different hands. The business was a private one, and if Collier were a rich man he made no show of his wealth. He was seldom away from the factory, and personally superintended every department; he came early and left late, and it would have been difficult to find a keener man of business. Few of his employees, or of those with whom he was brought in contact, could boast of having got the better of him, yet even those who considered him a hard man were ready to admit that he was a just one.

At the end of a long passage Collier had a private office, the door of which he always kept locked. A telephone communicated with an outer office, and it was understood when the master was in his sanctum he was not to be disturbed except by means of this telephone. As a rule he transacted his business and saw his customers in a small room adjoining the general office; his room at the end of the passage was sacred.

This morning, however, he was not alone there. He had pushed back his chair and swung round from his desk in order to face Frederick Hampson, who occupied a worn armchair, and two men who stood side by side near the wall. One of these men had his right arm in a sling and was finishing a long story.

"And this is what I got," he said touching his injured arm.

"Have you had it properly looked to?" Collier asked.

"Yes, sir. Oh, the doctor's one who won't talk, no fear of that. He's clever, but 'liquors up,' so he takes what patients he can get, and asks no questions. He says the arm will be all right in no time."

"You were quite sure of your man, I suppose?" Hampson said.

"Quite, and he recognised me. I was under-porter for a time at the Insurance Company, you remember."

"That's rather awkward, isn't it?" said Hampson.

"Does it matter?" said Collier carelessly. "We've failed this time, but the matter does not rest here. It seems to me, Marks, you ran a little too soon. The man was practically helpless, I take it; you could have struck deep enough with your left arm."

"And the woman would have put a bullet through that, too," was the answer. "She's a crack shot, gov'nor, that's what she is."

Collier smiled.

"I'm not blaming you; I am only suggesting that the chance was worth taking."

"I think she'd have aimed a bit lower the second time, and had me through the head," Marks returned; "that's the impression I got. She's not the sort what stands on any ceremony, and I reckon she doesn't often miss what she aims at."

"Curse the girl," said Hampson emphatically. "What is the man's condition, Marks? Could he be moved, do you think?"

"I don't know, sir. He didn't move to defend himself, only just put up his arm. Seemed to me there was something the matter with his legs."

"Through an accident, do you mean, or from weakness after an illness?"

"Well, I didn't spend much time in taking observations," Marks answered, "but most likely from an accident. If he'd only been ill he would have made more of an effort, I think."

"You can't suppose he was shamming?" said Hampson.

"I'd lay my last shilling against that," was the answer.

"There is no doubt we have got to move quickly," said Hampson, turning to Collier, "and we must make certain of success next time. The police are probably on the watch by now."

"That's dead certain, sir," said Marks. "I'm going to keep out the the way until my arm's all right; it's evidence against me as it is now."

Collier opened a drawer in his desk.

"Yes, and you had better get into another part of London for a bit. Here is some money; mind and keep close. Were you seen at all, Johnson?"

"I had a shot at another chap who ran after us, but he wouldn't recognise me again," answered the other man.

"There is nothing more to be told?"

"No, sir," Marks returned, "only you might give any other man on the job a caution about that young woman. To do anything satisfactory you want to get her out of the way."

"We'll manage that," said Collier. "You can go, and you too, Johnson, but come the moment I send for you."

The two men left the room.

"Marks is right, we must get rid of the girl," said Collier, when he and Hampson were left alone. "She is in the swim with them, that is evident, or she wouldn't be going about with a revolver in her pocket."

"As a matter of fact, Marks missed his chance," said Hampson.

"I think so, but it may be true that the second shot would have been through his head. At any rate, we have got to construct a new plan."

"And our difficulties are multiplied tenfold," said Hampson.

"Does that frighten you?" asked Collier. "The greater the difficulty, the greater has been our success, as a rule. I have a plan, or part of one, already; possibly you can fill in some of the details."

More than an hour elapsed before Hampson left Collier's sanctum. It would appear that the plan evolved was satisfactory, for, as he passed down the dirty street, there was a smile on his face. He had to walk to Shoreditch Church before he could get a cab. He drove to the British Museum, where he dismissed the cab, and walked to his flat in Bloomsbury. For some time he occupied himself with the papers in his desk, destroying some, and carefully locking others away. Then he packed a large portmanteau, or rather put a few more articles into one that was already packed, and proceeded to pack a small bag. Before closing this he looked round the room, mentally reviewing what he had done, and making certain that he had not forgotten anything he wanted. This mental operation took him some time.

"Accidents will happen, and it is well to be prepared," he said to himself.

He had his luggage transferred to a cab, which the hallporter got for him.

"Will you be away long, sir?" the porter asked.

"No, only a day or two, a week at the outside. Keep my letters."

Hampson dropped his large portmanteau at a forwarding agent's in Cannon-street, writing the label for it in the office; the bag he booked at Cannon-street Station, and then he walked to Coleman-street slowly and thoughtfully.

Maurice Wedmore was just leaving the office, but he turned back with Hampson.

"I want to see you," he said. "I should have come round this evening."

"I have saved you the trouble."

"Storr called upon me this morning," Wedmore went on. "Are you sure, Hampson, that you have not misjudged Kesterton? Storr seems to think you have."

"I think not."

"That is hardly enough: we want certainties. Kesterton saw Storr yesterday, and made no secret of what he was doing. He has managed to get hold of a friend of his nephew's, a fellow in the Admiralty. Kesterton feels convinced that this friend knows something, but he is cautious, and not inclined to talk much."

"This may be true, or it may not," Hampson returned. "You have heard my story, and you may take my word Kesterton is playing a double game. He didn't give any full particulars of what he is doing, I warrant."

"I think it would be well if you went round and saw Storr. He is very doubtful about Kesterton, and we cannot afford to make mistakes. There is another thing worrying Storr. He says there was a whisper on the Stock Exchange concerning the Insurance Company this morning; nothing definite, nothing to take hold of—you know the kind of thing. A denial is impossible because there is nothing to deny. Have you any news?"

"Yes; you have got business which takes you to Wychester."

"When?"

"To-morrow."

THE DUKE OF DEVONSHIRE.

It is rather a curious thing, but by no means untypical of the British character, that since England definitely became mistress of the world, after the Napoleonic wars, she has produced few really great statesmen. Of course, there are many who have served the country worthily, and some who have towered above their fellows; but even these in comparison with their predecessors or with their contemporaries across the Channel have lacked that wideness of outlook and singleness of purpose which are supposed to distinguish the statesman from the mere politician. Generally speaking, Britain has entrusted her destinies to men who could bring into politics no more than the qualities which made them so estimable in private life—most scrupulous integrity, an intense if somewhat narrow patriotism, considerable shrewdness in dealing with men and affairs, and a solidity and resolution which opponents would call obstinacy. To this was added the tradition of government in which till recently the political leaders of Britain were brought up, and the result was that broadly speaking never have British Cabinets contained so many mediocrities (using the term in no offensive sense) as they have during the past century, and at the same time never has the government been better carried on.

Very typical of his country and of his time was Spencer Compton Cavendish, afterwards eighth Duke of Devonshire, whose life has found an exhaustive historian in the hands of Bernard Holland, C.B. He came of a family whose scions "went in for" politics as a matter of course, just as in other families the eldest son is destined for the army or the Church, and after graduating at Cambridge with no particular distinction he equipped himself for political life by being attached in 1856 to a special mission to Russia on the Czar's accession. On his return in 1857 he was elected Liberal member for North Lancashire at the age of 24, and thus commenced a Parliamentary career which continued without cessation till 1907. Indeed, his biography is practically the political history of England for these 50 years, for, as Mr. Holland points out, "during almost the whole of that time he was either in office or taking a leading part in opposition, and most of the period was crowded with important events relating to home and foreign policy. . . If this book is too long . . . it is the fault not so much of the writer as of the subject."

Although the Marquis of Hartington (as he became in 1859) entered Parliament without any of the preliminary training that modern opinion would demand, he soon showed himself equal to his opportunities. In 1863 he became one of the Lords of the Admiralty, and then Under-Secretary for War. Thenceforth he filled with credit many offices, including those of Postmaster-General and Secretary for Ireland. In 1875 he became Liberal leader in the House of Commons; and after the defeat of the Conservatives in 1880 many hoped and more expected to see him made Premier. The Queen, in accordance with constitutional usage, sent for him; but Mr. Gladstone was at the time master of the situation, and Hartington gave way to him, himself becoming Secretary for War. It was during his tenure of this office that Gordon's expedition took place, and Khartoum fell. Later judgment has associated Gladstone and Granville equally with Hartington in the odium of Gordon's "betrayal," but at the time in many quarters he was chiefly blamed. Mr. Holland publishes some very interesting correspondence that passed over the matter. He does not seek to exonerate his subject, for Hartington was too clear-sighted to be under any delusion as to Gordon's fate unless help were sent. "He did not deceive himself," writes the author, "nor allow himself to be deceived by others . . . . he understood Gordon far better than did most of his colleagues . . . . and he knew that in Gordon's position he would not himself have abandoned his post." However, Hartington was constitutionally lethargic—this tendency formed the staple of "Punch's" caricatures of him—and inclined to defer action to the last possible moment. A strong leader might have galvanised him into activity, but Gladstone's irresolution harmonised too well with his colleague's passivity, and when they finally did move it was too late.

The Duke of Devonshire is a signal instance of the futility of party names in British politics. He began as a Liberal, the party of progress, yet few men were less receptive of progressive ideas, and more inherently conservative. Parties and politics might change, but the Duke remained the same. Hence, when the Liberals under Gladstone gradually became converted to Home Rule for Ireland, Devonshire refused to follow, and in 1885 became head of the Liberal Unionists, who had an independent existence for 10 years. By 1895 the difference between Liberal-Unionist and Conservative had practically ceased to exist, for the Conservative had yielded to the spirit of the age, and become at least as Liberal as the Liberal of a generation before. Consequently the Duke consented to enter Lord Salisbury's Ministry. But the Conservatives in turn modified their ideas, in accordance with the changed conditions, and became champions of tariff reform; the Duke would have none of this, and became leader of the Freetrade Unionists, until his death in 1908. Thus, nominally he was in the course of his lifetime identified with four parties, which rather gives the impression that his opinions changed. This is not the case. It is safe to say that young Cavendish in 1857 and the Duke of Devonshire in 1907 were substantially the same. He did not join these parties, but these parties grouped themselves around him.

As a speaker, the Duke of Devonshire will be remembered for his matter rather than his manner. His constitutional impassivity (to call it by no harder name) prevented him ever from being a great orator. Indeed, he is said himself to have yawned during one of his speeches. But whatever the faults of delivery and form, they were sound, and packed with shrewd wisdom. Mr. Holland quotes an appreciation by Lord Rosebery:—"His speeches were not always enthralling to listen to, though they were listened to with veneration and respect. They were read all over the country, as the speeches of no other private person were read, for their close argument and reasoning power. We could have spared a dozen more facile rhetoricians for one speaker such as the Duke of Devonshire."

It is too soon to anticipate the verdict of posterity, and Mr. Holland does not attempt to do so. But from his volumes we get an excellent and thorough account of one who was a notable figure in English politics for half a century, one perhaps of no outstanding ability, but one whose sincerity, integrity, and disinterestedness enabled him to fill many important offices with credit to himself and usefulness to his country. THE DIAMOND.

Precious stones in general, and diamonds in particular, have always exercised a curious fascination over mankind. Why is not very obvious. Their glamour is not entirely due to their beauty, because many commoner stones are scarcely inferior to the diamond in point of appearance. Nor does it depend entirely upon value, because there are metals and stones rarer than diamonds, over which no one becomes enthusiastic. Probably the secret lies in the fact that in diamonds, as in nothing else, are combined the two desirable qualities of beauty and price. However that may be, all who are interested in precious stones, and many who are not, will enjoy reading "The Diamond," by W. R. Cattelle. The author treats his subject most exhaustively, and gives a complete account of the diamond in history, commerce, and literature.

It is curious to note that this stone has been long in coming to its own, simply through its superlative excellence. Of course it was known from time immemorial, and its name is synonymous with hardness. That, and not its beauty, struck beholders, and it was its hardness that prevented it from revealing its beauty. It was long before diamonds could be adequately cut, and an uncut diamond is to its polished fellow as moon to sun. Hence, even in the fifteenth century the diamond took no very high place among precious stones; but when at last methods of cutting were perfected it became the queen of jewels.

We are apt to think of diamonds merely as ornaments for a fair lady's neck or a monarch's crown. Mr. Cattelle reminds us of their greater significance. They have bathed countries in blood, and enslaved whole peoples; they have dictated the price of the world's money market; they have opened up the jungles of Brazil, and transformed the seclusion of the almost uninhabited veldt of South Africa into populous progress. Indeed, if Australia owes much of her development to gold, South Africa owes still more of hers to diamonds.

Mr. Cattelle proceeds to describe diamond-getting in various parts of the world (including New South Wales), all the processes of cutting, the means of distribution, and the regulation of the prices. He also gives us the description and history of some of the famous stones of the world, which, leaving a trail of treachery and murder, have found an asylum among the Crown jewels of Europe, and have ceased to exercise their baleful glamour on the greedy hearts of men. He also gives an account of various experiments by which chemists have endeavoured to make artificial diamonds, and hints for future experimenters. The author seems to know all that there is to be known upon the subject, and has turned his knowledge to account by writing a most interesting book. CATHEDRALS OF CENTRAL ITALY.

A beautiful and interesting book is "The Cathedrals of Central Italy," by T. F. Bumpus, in which the author describes the cathedrals embraced in a tour from Turin to Rome. His route took him through Genoa, Florence, Pisa, and many other towns whose cathedrals are less known, but hardly inferior in point of beauty. Books of this type are by no means uncommon nowadays, but Mr. Bumpus adopts rather a new method. He first of all gives a general description of what he has seen. Then in subsequent chapters he writes of the arts subsidiary to architecture as exemplified in the cathedrals he has visited. The churches in Italy are, of course, the finest repositories of ecclesiastical art in the world, and many of them were built or decorated at a time when the greatest masters found inspiration in religious subjects to a greater extent than is now the case, and the highest honour that an artist could win was to be asked to assist in beautifying a cathedral. The result is that nowhere can be found finer specimens of sculpture, mural painting, stained glass, and mosaic work than in some of the churches in question. Finally the author takes certain typical examples of the Gothic and Romanesque styles, and describes their architecture in greater detail. The book is illustrated by photographs and reproductions in colour of the paintings of Stafford Leake, and will be full of interest both for those who renew old acquaintance and for those who make it for the first time.

MINOR FICTION.

Mr. E. Phillips Oppenheim is quite at home in the world of high political intrigue, and his stories in this vein are always interesting. His latest upon such lines, "The Double Four," is no exception to the rule. "The Double Four" is the symbol of a secret society which, at first a criminal organisation, had reformed, and at the time of the story exercises a strict but benevolent control over international affairs. Peter Ruif, ex-member of the society, is dragged from his rural retreat and set at the head of "The Double Four," and after being equipped with a title and a fortune is launched into the diplomatic world in London. His principal task is to frustrate the schemes of Bernadine von Hern, a German, and how he outwits him at every turn, extricates himself from apparently hopeless positions, and finally defeats him for ever, form the subject of the book. The author wields a dexterous pen, and shows masterly ingenuity in the elaboration of dramatic situations and exciting incidents. (Published by Cassell and Co.)

In "The Electric Gun," by H. Johnston, the scene is laid in this State, 40 years hence, when socialism has triumphed. The people find that so far from winning freedom they are ground down beneath a most ruthless tyranny of the bureaucrats. The hero leads a rebellion against the oppressors, and finally succeeds in liberating Australia. In the intervals of revolutionising he falls in love, and here, as in other matters, he is also successful. A powerful instrument of liberation was the electric gun, an American contrivance that by projecting a powerful current mows down the ranks of the enemy. (Our copy from George Robertson.)

"Troubled Waters," by L. Cope Cornford, describes the fortunes of three children, Ida Borlase, a daughter of a northern cotton spinner; Dick Denial, a waif of the streets who became a Labour leader and Cabinet Minister until his constituency lost confidence in him; and Nevil Romney, son of a charming old captain, who was early left fatherless, and whose mother marries an unscrupulous adventurer, who possesses, however, several redeeming features. The author gives a vivid picture of Labour conditions and politics in London, and among the mills and foundries of the north, and has contrived to write an exceedingly interesting novel. (Published by Blackwood.)

In "Deborah," by Agnes G. Herbertson, the heroine, of whom we know nothing, save that she is a lady in distress, takes the place of the real maid, and goes into service in a lonely house at the edge of the sea, where Timothy Dean lives alone but for a cat, a dog, and three tortoises. Timothy is a delightful fellow, queer, absent-minded, and loveable, and we feel that Deborah will finally bestow her hand upon him, but this is not to be. He has two friends, Clough, huge, masculine, and self-centred, who entirely ignores the new maid, save to warn her against setting her cap at her master, and Straight, with less character but more sympathy, who at once sees that she is not what she seems, and makes love to her. In due course it appears that Deborah has run away from a wealthy but undesirable husband, who is killed in a motor smash; she finds that she is in love with Clough, and Clough, much to his surprise, finds that he is in love with her. The reader will have a sneaking sympathy for Timothy. He is obviously the more attractive man, and until the end it would appear that Miss Herbertson had intended Deborah for him. However, Clough has many fine points, and we do not grudge him his success. (Published by Methuen and Co.)

"The Bolted Door," by George Gibbs, has rather a familiar opening, although the story develops upon more original lines. An American millionaire bequeaths his fortune to his nephew and niece, on condition that they marry within a year; otherwise it is to go to charity. The pair have disliked each other as children, and when they meet to discuss the matter find that their dislike has become hatred. However, they both need the money; she because she is a gay society butterfly, without other means of support, he because he is an engineer, who wishes to carry out his inventions. They agree to a formal marriage, on the understanding that a divorce shall follow as soon as possible, and that in the meantime both shall go their own way. The hero soon succumbs to the fascinations of his bride, but she refuses to change her attitude, and encourages the attentions of an old admirer, a kind of Don Juan; who, if novelists are to be believed, is a not uncommon feature of American society. The husband turns for consolation and help to a friend of his wife, and he even mistakes his feeling of affection for her for something deeper. There are misunderstandings and stormy scenes, but the reader is prepared for the reconciliation which comes. In this case, however, it is delayed. The wife, convinced of her husband's infidelity, has almost committed herself, when she is saved by his dramatic arrival. The fortune which caused all the trouble is lost in a bank smash, but the hero's inventions bring them fame and fortune, and all ends well. The author has taken a well-worn subject, but he has contrived to play variations on the old theme, and gives us a picture, somewhat after the style of R. W. Chambers, of life in the smart set of the Eastern States. (Published by Appletons; our copy from Angus and Robertson).

CHRISTMAS BOOKS.

An infallible sign of the approach of Christmas is the enormous number of publications intended as gift books, suitable for every age, sex, purse, and order of intelligence. It is wonderful what improvement the last few years have brought to this class of work. New mechanical devices are being constantly perfected, and the result is that, quite apart from the contents of the books, the printing, general get up, and illustrations are, as a rule, remarkably good. Two very beautiful books, for instance, reach us in the "Great Engravers' Series," edited by A. M. Hind, and published by Heinemann. They are "Andrea Mantegna," the Italian pre-Raphaelite, and "Albrecht Durer," of Nuremburg, described by Longfellow as "the evangelist of art." Each contains a brief account of the man, and reproductions of some of the best-known examples of his work. Mantegna is the subject of another monograph by Mrs. Arthur Bell, in the "Masterpieces in Colour" series (T. and E. Jack, London), in which, however, the reproductions are in colour. Another volume in the latter series is "Filippo Lippi," by P. G. Konody, and in each case the value of the illustrations is enhanced by the excellent letterpress written by critics who are admittedly authorities on the subject. Other beautiful gift books are "Days with the English Poets" and "Days with the Great Composers" (Hodder and Stoughton; our copies from Angus and Robertson), consisting of essays upon Tennyson, Browning, and Byron, and upon Beethoven, Schumann, and Mendelssohn respectively, with reproductions of famous pictures, illustrating passages in their lives and works. Some of these reproductions represent the summit of the lithographers' art.

Other books very suitable for presentation are those in the "Poetry of Life" series (Harrap and Co.), of which Matthew Arnold, Coleridge, Gray, and Lowell now appear. These, which are under the general editorship of Mr. W. H. Hudson, give a short life of the poet, a critical estimate of his work, and selections from the best of his poems. Mr. Hudson's name is a sufficient guarantee for anything of which he assumes the responsibility, and the critical portion of these little books has been put into competent hands.

Motorists should appreciate "My Motor Book," by W. Pulitzer and J. R. Monsell (Kegan Paul and Trench). It is a diary in which a record of each day's travel, incidents, and companions may be kept, interspersed with humorous illustrations, verses, epigrams, and the like.

Children are, as usual, especially well catered for this year. The younger generation have much to be thankful for. Not so long ago it was considered essential that children's books should have an improving tendency, and in our youthful days we were forced to read of characters, invariably high-minded, who moved in a sphere of exalted morality. Now all this is changed. That hardy annual, for instance, the "Boy's Own Paper," which we have received from the publishers, is as wholesome a volume as one could wish, yet there is nothing of the preacher about it. There are stories, long and short, of school life and adventure, subjects of perennial interest to youth, and articles on sport and hobbies which should interest everybody, and keep many a pair of hands from idleness. The companion volume, the "Girl's Own Paper," naturally is upon less virile and more domestic lines, but it is admirably suited for its readers, and its stories are quite free from the namby-pambyness and mawkish sentimentality which disfigure so many books written for girls. For still younger folks there are "The Little Folks' Annual" (Leisure Hour Publishing Company) and "The Rosebud Annual" (Clarke and Co.), whose stories and illustrations are of a simpler nature, befitting their less experienced readers. In a humorous vein is "Buster Brown Up To Date" (W. and R. Chambers), which describes in highly-coloured pictures the even more highly-coloured adventures of Mr. Outcault's famous identity. Australian children are sure to enjoy "The Think-man and the Sunset Fairies," by Neelia, two stories of Australian fairy life illustrated by the author.

Besides annuals and the like, there are numerous connected stories suitable for presentation. From W. and R. Chambers we have received a number of such, which will appeal in particular to girls. Mrs. L. T. Meade, whose inspiration in these fields seems never to run dry, is as usual worthily represented by two volumes. "The Girls of Merton College" is a bright and entertaining story of a group of girl graduates at a college, somewhat resembling Girton, within the University of Oxbridge. In "The Doctor's Children" she describes the excellent influence which, thanks to the training of a devoted mother, a family of children had upon a little friend less fortunately situated than themselves. Miss May Baldwin has also two excellent books. "The Girls' Eton" is the story of two cousins, one from the wilds of the Highlands, the other a conventional Londoner. Neither of them has been to school until by a combination of circumstances they are sent to one which, as the title of the book indicates, is for girls what Eton is for boys. "Teddy and Lily's Adventures," by the same author, tells how an English girl and her brother make holiday with an Italian family in a castle in Tuscany. Here they learn that Italian ways of thinking and acting, though not as English ways, have their good points, and that life, even in a place where bullock carts are the usual means of locomotion, can be not only interesting, but even exciting and full of adventure. "An Uncomfortable Term," by Raymond Jacberns, is another good tale. It principally concerns the effect produced at St. Clare's by the addition of several girls from St. Rudolph's, a school famous for outdoor sports, but where the girls cared for little else. The St. Clare's girls are just the opposite, and at first there is considerable friction between the two sets. However, a new girl, nicknamed "The Boy," comes on the scene, and by precept and example pours oil upon the troubled waters.

It is said that nowadays the younger generation will not read standard fiction, but if that is so it is not for want of its being rendered "easy" and attractive on the part of publishers. Messrs. T. and E. Jack, for instance, have brought out in a form suitable for boys and girls Sir Walter Scott's "Redgauntlet" and "The Fortunes of Nigel," and E. P. R. James's "Forest Days." In each case the editors have retained the story and all the exciting incidents, but have cut out the descriptions and discursions of which both these authors are fond, and which are said to pall upon the modern youth. He will now have no excuse for their neglect. Similarly history has been made palatable in "The Story of the Crusades," by E. Wilmot Buxton, and "Heroes of the Middle Ages," by E. M. Tappan, both published by Harrap and Co. The former tells of the rise of Islam, the various Crusades, the winning of Jerusalem and Constantinople; the latter gives an account of various noteworthy personages, from Alaric the Visigoth to Joan of Arc. Both combine instruction with interest in a highly successful fashion. "Stories of the East for Children of the West," by M. E. Hume Griseth (Religious Tract Society), is a collection of episodes of Oriental life told in a readable fashion, while adults as well as children will appreciate "Stories of Indian Gods and Heroes" (Harrap and Co.), which consists of various legends and superstitions of Hindoo folk-lore, told by W. D. Monro, and beautifully illustrated by E. Paul. "Birds and Beasts" (Geo. Allan and Co.) is the title of a number of entertaining animal stories translated by A. R. Allinson from the French of Camille Lemonnier, and illustrated by E. J. Detmold.

The "Jewish Chronicle" mentions the remarkable result of a sermon preached at Birmingham by the Rev. G. J. Emanuel, B.A., on the recent Day of Atonement. Mr. Emanuel appealed to his congregation for voluntary gifts for the purpose of renovating the synagogue in place of a tax upon members, which had already been agreed upon, but by which the necessary money would be forthcoming only in three years. In less than four days over £1600 was voluntarily subscribed in response to Mr. Emanuel's appeal. Mr. Emanuel has been minister to the congregation nearly 50 years, and was a close personal friend of John Bright.

MUSIC AND DRAMA.

The Melba Opera Company will close their Australian engagement with eleven final appearances at Her Majesty's Theatre, opening on Monday, December 11, with Mme. Melba and Mr. John MacCormack in "Romeo and Juliet." The new works will be by Verdi, "Aida" and "Otello," neither of which has been heard since Signor Hazon conducted them at the same playhouse 10 years ago. Mme. De Vere Sapio, who had appeared during the regular Italian season at Covent Garden as Aida six months before she repeated the impersonation in Australia, was then very fine in the part, and a hit was made by the dramatic tenor, Commendatore Larizza, a much decorated singer who died soon after his return to Italy. The production of these works will give prominence to Signor Zeni, of whom little has yet been said. This artist, who is not quite 30 years of age, studied medicine, and was duly qualified before he embraced an operatic career, making his debut at Bologne with Campanini in "Sansone e Dalila." His success led to engagements in Venice, Naples, Turin, Rome, and Madrid. Since then he has appeared in the principal countries of Europe in a wide range of operas. Recently he concluded a long season in Warsaw as first dramatic tenor, appearing in "Aida," "Quo Vadis," "Otello," and "Carmen." After leaving Australia he returns to Warsaw for a brief season, then goes to Buenos Ayres with Toscanini. Signor Zeni has a striking stage presence, and being 6ft 4in in height, makes an heroic figure. Mme. Korolewicz Wayda and Mme. De Cisneros will both sing great roles in "Aida," thus renewing the delights of last season. The directors of J. C. Williamson, Ltd., officially quote the expenses of this grand opera venture at £4000 a week, a sum which probably and legitimately includes a proportion of the preliminary outlay, so that it may be some years before the same works are staged on as costly a scale.

Mr. Lewis Waller, who is coming here next year with Miss Madge Titheradge as leading lady, has just made his debut in New York in "The Garden of Allah" at the Century Theatre (formerly the New, or Millionaires', Theatre), where the author, Robert Hichens, superintended the great spectacular production on the immense stage. Mr. Waller was welcomed with great enthusiasm as Boris Androvsky, the desert monk who succumbs to the lure of the world, marries, and then remorsefully returns to the Trappist Monastery. The play lasted four hours, and was divided into four parts and an epilogue. A desert sandstorm, the desert at night, with its star-clustered sky, a native dance-hall, and views of Beni-Morn, formed the spectacular surroundings for the essential parts of the romance. The opening scene, "The Spirit of the Desert," was wordless. It showed long reaches of sand dunes in daybreak. A caravan moved slowly across the stage, consisting of a procession of Arabs, mounted on horses and camels, followed by women and children leading pack mules, and a herd of goats. Then the Sheikh on a camel rode alone into the desert, dismounted, and made his religious obeisances as the curtain fell.

Miss Eva Mylott is returning to Sydney for a short visit in the middle of 1912. This artist, who left this city nine years ago to study in Paris, and after singing in London for a season left for America, has now a fine position in the United States, and forwards from Chicago, under date October 22, the details of a long tour on which she was starting that day. The contralto was leaving for St. Paul and Winnipeg, with engagements with choral clubs one evening after another, winding up this month as contralto soloist in the "Messiah" at Des Moines, Cleveland, Waterloo, Syracuse, the New York Oratorio Society (December 17), recitals with prominent New York clubs until December 23, followed by the "Messiah" early in the New Year at Winnipeg and Grand Forks, with engagements until May, when she leaves on a tour to the Pacific Coast. This has been arranged to admit of her sailing from Vancouver June 12, arriving in Sydney again on July 6. Miss Mylott is returning on purpose to see her mother, and will not remain on this side more than seven weeks, as in the latter part of September she has to be in New York to sign a contract for grand opera there, and in Chicago, Philadelphia, and Boston—a new departure in her artistic career—which she has been preparing for by study during the past two years, and about which she is naturally very anxious. In the concert-room this Australian artist is now recognised as one of the leading contraltos of America, and is paid such high fees for singing at society receptions that her visit here will represent a heavy loss. She will give a concert at Honolulu, however, and will probably sing once or twice at the Sydney Town Hall. Miss Mylott, whose rich contralto voice was heard with all the great musical societies here before she left for Paris under the advice of Mme. Melba, was a great favourite here, and her return to Sydney should prove widely welcome.

Berlin is enraptured with the prospect next year of a new piece for the Deutsches Theatre, from the great modern composer, Richard Strauss. It is to be something between an opera and a ballet, the composer defining it as a "divertissement," and it is inspired by Moliere's "Bourgeois Gentilhomme." It is, in fact, an opera within an opera, and the crux of the story is the ballet which M. Jourdain, the "Bourgeois Gentilhomme," offers to the Marquise. He has two troupes of artists, light opera and grand opera, and to please her decides that both must improvise on the subject of "The Problem of Truth." The graceful and melodious music of Strauss, very fresh in idea, though partly in the style of old opera, deals with Ariadne grieving because Theseus has deserted her, and rejecting the consolation of Zerbinette (Light Opera), who assures her she will heal her wound most easily by taking another lover. Ariadne replies by calling on Death to stop the beating of her broken heart. Just then young Bacchus, sorely hurt by the charms of Circe, who has turned him adrift, passes by, and Ariadne, mistaking him for Hermes about to conduct her to the Eternal Shades, transfers all her affection to him. But, instead of Death and Oblivion, he brings her fresh joy and new life. Ariadne relates this miracle to Zerbinette, who typifies Life; but the latter sees nothing unusual in it. She remarks that always and ever each new lover makes her forget the preceding. All these characters, Herr Strauss explains, are symbolical, and express that, whether with gods or men, "all things resolve themselves to the same end."

The Kennedys, a musical family of great talent, from this city, who made a small fortune by touring Queensland and this State, are now in Vienna. Master Keith Kennedy, well remembered in Sydney as a particularly clever boy-violinist, who appeared at many concerts, was the star of the family combination, which drew large audiences in India, Burmah, and the Malay States on their way to Europe. Mrs. Kennedy writes that her son and herself were kindly entertained in Vienna by Herr Leschetizsky, and by Herr Franz Lehar ("Merry Widow" composer), and that Keith is studying violin under the famous Professor Sevcik (formerly of Prague, where he taught Kubelik), and is doing well. Her other two sons are in London, at the Royal Academy of Music, studying 'cello and flute respectively and the young 'cellist recently appeared with success at the Austral Club.

Mr. Joseph A. Cave has just celebrated in London his 88th birthday in the peaceful retirement of the Charterhouse, to which institution he gained admission through the kindness of King Edward six years ago. It is claimed that he is the oldest living actor-manager, and before he retired he had passed 70 years on the stage. Mr. Cave was, however, almost always a manager in a small way. He was much identified with the Marylebone (Blood and Thunder!) Theatre, which he leased at £20 a week, and directed from 1858 to 1878, afterwards managed the Victoria Theatre, then the Alhambra for a little time, and eventually became general factotum in a subordinate way with Sir Augustus Harris at Drury Lane and Covent Garden. In this way he was known to a wide circle of artists. The oldest actor-managers of real celebrity on the English stage are probably Sir Charles Wyndham, George Rignold, and Sir John Hare; but compared with Mr. Cave these famous actors, with their first appearances dating back but half a century, are mere juveniles!

THE WORLD CHAMPIONSHIP.

The Argentine C.C., Buenos Ayres, has been endeavouring to arrange a match for the world championship between Lasker and Capablanca, coupled with an offer of £1000 to the winner, and £500 to the loser. "So far," says the "Times," "Lasker has not seen his way to fall in with the suggestion, partly because, as present holder of the title, he considers he has the right to choose the place of meeting."

SYDNEY AND SUBURBAN CHESS UNION.

Chess players in Sydney have long realised the benefits to be gained from the existence of a strong suburban chess union. We believe they all regret it should have gone into recess this season, and will be interested in the project to resuscitate it. Mr. J. B. Prowse, the hon. secretary, has convened a special general meeting of all chess players in Sydney and suburbs for December 5, at the Sydney School of Arts. He points out that both the Sydney clubs (large enough in themselves to provide two or three teams each) and the St. Leonards and Manly clubs, with one or two outside bodies who can furnish fairly strong teams, should come forward to help on the movement. The failure to hold this year the usual interstate chess contests, he says, is undoubtedly due in some measure to the failure of the S. and S. Union, for the interclub monthly matches helped to maintain the interest of chessplayers generally, and a good standard was kept up.

CHAMPIONSHIP OF AUSTRALIA.

Mr. Spencer Crakanthorp writes as follows:—

"Your suggestion that Mr. Viner and myself could play at Brisbane is one that has many claims to attention. I observed the same idea put forward in an issue of the 'Queenslander.'

"If Mr. Viner is willing, I will play him in Brisbane, each player bearing his own expenses, and I feel certain that the Queensland Chess Association would give us all possible assistance."

NEWS AND NOTES.

At a meeting held at Brisbane last week it was decided that a tournament for the draughts championship of Queensland shall begin in the third week of January next. The entrance fee was fixed at 5s. There will be three trophies for this event, besides the silver cup, valued at £5 5s, presented by Mr. R. Fraser. The stipulated qualification is six months' residence in the State.

Mr. Hugh Egan, champion of Victoria, intends to retire from club and tournament play at the close of this season. So young and enthusiastic a player will be a great loss to the game in the southern capital.

At a simultaneous exhibition at Pittsburg, G. A. Pierce gave a fine display against 23 opponents. His total score was 15 wins, 2 losses, 8 draws.

An exhibition of simultaneous play was given by Mr. F. Kaiser, the London champion, at the headquarters of the London City Club. His score was 16 wins, 6 draws, and 1 loss. Mr. J. Stratton secured the solitary win against the local champion.

Mr. Barker Woolhouse, who is now in his 94th year, was visited by Mr. F. Kaiser, and as the result of a keen crossboard encounter, the veteran secured two draws against the London champion.

The result of the team match, Dunfermline West End v Ramblers, at Edinburgh, was 6 wins each and 3 games drawn. In a 17-a-side match, Edinburgh defeated Leith by 10 games to 5, and 15 draws.

In the Des Moines, Iowa, city tournament, George S. Jennings won easily against eight contestants; score, 21 wins, 1 lost, and 7 drawn games. Harry D. Bruner and W. F. B. Clevenger tied for second prize. J. O. K. Smith, who came out so well against the English champion, did not enter.

The championship of Arkansas has reverted to George S. Watson, who defeated F. P. Leverett in a 20-game match by 8 wins to 6 and 6 games drawn. Frank G. Farmer has lost the championship of Kansas to T. F. Layne, who scored 6 wins to 3 and 21 drawn games.

When you feel the least bit constipated take Chamberlain's Tablets, and the trouble will soon be removed.—Advt.

CONCERNING CONSUMPTION.

Dr. Theodore Williams delivered recently the Harveian oration before the Royal College of Physicians on the present state of the fight against consumption. Dr. Williams reminds us that real knowledge of tuberculosis dates back no further than 30 years. At that time it was not known that the disease was due to a bacillus, and, with fatal consequences to all, it was supposed not to be infectious. Being a bacteria disease, of course, it is infectious; but, fortunately, it happens that the channels of infection are limited, and only knowledge and care are needed to avoid the danger. So far as fighting the disease is concerned, the only infection one need trouble about is that from other human beings. Moreover, the disease is not dangerous to others in all its stages. The main lines of defence are, therefore, stated to be:—(1) A compulsory notification of the disease, which will enable the health authorities to determine the danger of the special case; (2) the isolation of cases in the dangerously infective stages; (3) treatment in sanatoriums for cases not beyond cure. Dr. Williams does not speak very hopefully of the past results obtained by sanatoriums, but attributes the poorness of results to the term of treatment being too short or too long delayed. (4) The instruction and supervision in their homes of poor consumptives by means of hospitals in close connection with dispensaries and sanatoriums. It is to the crowded poor that the risk is greatest. But even here simple precautions and the removal of the most dangerous cases will reduce mortality enormously.

MOMENTUM IN EVOLUTION.

Professor Arthur Dendy made an interesting suggestion at the British Association in regard to cases where animals or parts of animals seem to have acquired some sort of momentum by virtue of which they grow far beyond the limit of utility. Is there any constitutional brake on growth; and, if so, are there occasions on which the brakes may be removed with results which ultimately prove fatal? Professor Dendy calls attention to the internal secretions, or "hormones," which in some cases act as a check on overgrowth. If it were advantageous for a structure to grow big, and if that structure were one which grew abnormally big when a particular internal secretion was absent, then natural selection would favour those individuals in which the relevant glands were least developed or least efficient. The glands might disappear or might cease to produce the particular hormone in question. The organ would go on growing larger; it would in the course of time reach its optimum; but the brake having been removed, further growth would proceed irrespective of utility. And as to exaggerated structures which never had any value as adaptations, Professor Dendy appeals to correlation. The removal of a gland which controlled the development of a frontal horn might be followed by the exuberant growth of an entirely useless excrescence.

THE FUNCTION OF LATEX.

The most recent contribution to this controversy is a paper by Bernard, in which some interesting new facts are given. This writer supports the view that latex functions largely as a depository of reserve food materials. He finds that the fruits of various latex-containing and rubber-yielding plants have abundant thick latex when young, whereas the ripe fruits contain very scanty and thin latex. This he regards as proof that the substances present in the latex are used up in the formation of the fruits and seeds after being converted into other food materials. Bernard also shows that when spurges are cultivated in air deprived of carbon dioxide, so that they cannot manufacture carbohydrate foods from external sources, the starch grains in the latex are corroded, and are apparently changed into sugar for the nutrition of the plant.

MODERN IRRIGATION.

The immediate application of scientific knowledge to everyday life is nowhere better illustrated than in the history of irrigation, and it is a characteristic of the man of science of to-day that he recognises the immense national importance of his subject, and works strenuously to infect his fellows with his enthusiasm. At present a comprehensive scheme of irrigation is being carried out in Mesopotamia, under the direction of Sir W. Willcocks, for whom the romance of this ancient country has passed away. There is a great difference between the delta of the Nile and the joint deltas of the Euphrates and Tigris. The Nile is in flood from August to October, and the turbid waters can be retained on the land in the historical basins of Egypt, and discharged back into the falling river in November. This permits of a winter cultivation without further irrigation. Such a system of irrigation is impossible in Mesopotamia. The rivers are in flood in March, April, and May, while the floods are followed by the rainless months of June, July, and August, in which irrigation must be practised if any crop is to be brought to maturity. So that while Egypt was for thousands of years the home of basin irrigation, Mesopotamia was the home of perennial irrigation. Beginning at Beled, the delta first consists of bare plains of clay with silt banks of countless canals, followed by alternate stretches of level country. On the Upper Euphrates and in the neighbourhood of Babylon are great stretches of salted land, interspersed with bare plains and low sand-drifts. The presence of 15 per cent. lime in the soil renders reclamation very easy compared with similar work in the dense clays of Egypt.

The Tigris-Euphrates Delta may be classed as an arid region of some 12,000,000 acres. A fair amount of irrigation is performed by "charads" worked by mules and oxen along the whole length of the Euphrates, and in scattered places on the Tigris. These areas, however, form but a small fraction of the delta, which is in need of irrigation on broad lines. To meet the requirements of irrigation the Tigris and Euphrates are happily placed in respect to their relative levels. The water of the Euphrates can be made to irrigate the whole area between Feluja and Koot, and also the lands on both the Hilla and Hindia branches, along their entire lengths. The Tigris, on the other hand, is capable of irrigating the lands north of Bagdad, which the Euphrates cannot reach, and also the whole of the lands along the course of the ancient Tigris from Koot to Nastra, as well as the country along its course past Amara. The present scheme includes a barrage on the Hilla branch, provided with 36 regulated openings, and a second barrage on the Euphrates south of Feluja, at the head of the existing canal. This will be the most effective irrigation work in the country. It will ensure perennial flush irrigation to the tract of land lying between Feluja and Mosaib, on the Euphrates, and between Bagdad and Koot, on the Tigris. From upstream of the barrage will take off two systems of canals. The first will be the right Tigris system, and the second the left Euphrates canal. During the floods the canals will be fed directly from the Euphrates, and taken under the left Euphrates canal by means of iron pipes. Pipe-crossings will also be provided for flood irrigation on the Tigris. In this way the main canal will be kept from silting up, and the country will not be deprived of the muddy flood waters so necessary for agriculture.

IN AGONY WITH ITCHING.

"About four years ago I broke out with sores on my arms like boils. After two months they were all over my body, some coming, and some going away. In about six months the boils quit, but my arms, neck and body broke out with an itching, burning rash. It would burn and itch, and come out in pimples like grains of wheat. I was in a terrible condition; I could not sleep or rest. Parts of my flesh were raw, and I could scarcely bear my clothes on. I could not lie in bed in any position and rest. In about a year the sores extended down to my feet. Then I suffered agony with the burning, itching sores. I could hardly walk, and for a long time I could not put on socks. All this time I was trying everything I could hear of, and had the skill of three doctors. They said it was eczema. I got no benefit from all this. I was nearly worn out, and had given up in despair of ever being cured, when I was advised by a friend to try Cuticura Remedies. I purchased Cuticura Soap, Ointment, and Resolvent, and used exactly as directed. I used Cuticura Remedies constantly for four months, and nothing else, and was perfectly cured. It is now a year, and I have not had the least bit since. I am ready to praise the Cuticura Remedies at any time." (Signed) E. L. Cate, Exie, Ky., U.S.A., Nov. 30, 1910.

Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold throughout the world, a sample of Cuticura Ointment, with 32-page book, will be mailed free on application to R. Towns and Co., Dept. 30 K, Sydney, N.S.W.—Advt.

"WET" OR "DRY?"

QUESTION FOR NEW ZEALANDERS.

THE COMING POLL ON NATIONAL PROHIBITION.

NEW LEGISLATION OPERATES.

BALLOT UNIQUE IN THE BRITISH EMPIRE.

On December 7 the men and women of New Zealand will be called upon to exercise their votes in regard to a proposition that has never before been put to any community in the British Empire. In addition to the ordinary local option, that has been in effective operation since 1894, by which separate licensing districts may remove licenses to sell liquor entirely from their local area, the question of national prohibition is now a vital issue of the moment. Should this be endorsed by 60 per cent. of the voters it will become illegal to make, have, or sell intoxicating liquor in the Dominion for other than medicinal, industrial, or sacramental purposes. New Zealand, being isolated by many leagues of ocean from other countries, it is clear that that country offers an opportunity for testing the efficacy of prohibition such as would be difficult to find in any other part of the world. Should the people decide to make this great experiment, the chances of its defeat by the machinations of the smuggler and the illicit distiller, or the "moonshiner," as they call him in the United States of America, are comparatively remote. Perhaps nothing that has yet been turned out of the somewhat prolific legislative laboratory in New Zealand offers greater prospects to the student of social economics—and of human nature. Hence it may not be unprofitable to glance over the history of the no-license movement in that country, and, perhaps, hazard a little speculation as to how the voice of the people is likely to determine this new question.

It will be found extremely interesting to trace the progress of the no-license movement in New Zealand. Under the law of 1894 five triennial local option polls have been taken, and the aggregate vote against the open bar has increased from 98,312 at the first poll in 1896 to 221,471 at the last, in 1908. Centesimally, the no-license vote throughout the Dominion has jumped from 37.82 per cent. of voters in 1896 to 53.45 per cent. in 1908; or from little more than one-third to more than half. Briefly, the conditions in the past have been these:—Three issues have been put to the men and women of the country—(1) Whether they would have in their respective licensing districts a continuation of the number of licenses existing at the date of the poll; (2) whether the number of licenses should be reduced; and (3) whether all licenses should be abolished. The second issue has been determinable on the bare majority principle: the third by a majority of three-fifths, or 60 per cent., of the voters; while the first issue depended, of course, upon the voting on the other two.

At the five polls the aggregate voting has been as under:—

	Continuance.	Reduction.	No-license.
1899	142,443	107,751	118,575
1902	148,449	132,240	151,524
1908	188,140	162,563	221,471

The number of districts where 60 per cent. of the voters have closed the hotels is now 12 out of a total of 76 into which the Dominion is partitioned. The number of liquor licenses in proportion to the whole population has been reduced by the no-license and reduction votes from one to every 341 people to one for every 764. That is to say, the drinking facilities have been reduced (so far as public-houses go) by as much as one-half, after allowing for the growth of population. Altogether 462 licenses have been abolished, and nearly one-sixth of the whole territory of the Dominion, carrying a population of more than 150,000 souls, has gone what is commonly termed "dry."

The no-license vote has reached such strength that each triennial poll is regarded by persons interested in the liquor traffic with increasingly grave apprehension. Not only have 12 districts swept the bars out, but many more have nearly done so. Auckland city, for example, has voted against licenses in this way:—

Auckland was thus only 6.12 per cent. short of carrying no-license at the last time of asking.

Wellington's voting against licenses has been:—

Similarly in Christchurch and Dunedin. The former's record is an advance from 34.82 per cent. in 1896 to 50.82 per cent. in 1908; and the latter has gone in the same period from 30.62 per cent. to 56.63.

Of the whole 76 districts the numbers having a bare majority against licenses at the five polls have jumped up in this remarkable way:—

These comparisons are compiled from official figures published in the "Government Gazette." Whatever else they may have been taken by different commentators to mean or suggest, it is impossible to escape the conclusion that there has been in New Zealand an advancing objection to the open bar, a growing determination to interfere with the retail traffic in strong drink, an increasing disregard for the interests of the trade.

And now a community with the foregoing record at the ballot-box—a community that has removed, in the aggregate, in a comparatively short period of years, one out of every two drinking places, is to be asked to remove them all at one time. More than that—very much more—the public is now given the option of sweeping liquors clean out of the islands into the sea.

The Act passed last year, under which the new vote is to be taken, leaves the local option question in the separate districts as before, except that the reduction issue is eliminated and the question narrowed to license or no-license. On a separate voting paper the issue will be:—

I VOTE FOR NATIONAL PROHIBITION.

Or, as the case may be,

I VOTE AGAINST NATIONAL PROHIBITION.

The results of the voting on the individual questions of local no-license and national prohibition will be definitely separate, unless there is a majority over the whole Dominion of 60 per cent. (three-fifths) for national prohibition, in which event all licenses will go and the manufacture, importation, or sale of drink will absolutely cease in four years' time.

This, it will be admitted, is a fairly serious proposition to put before any community. It will be the first time the people of any British country have had an opportunity to vote for prohibition. That is an important phase of the question that is frequently overlooked. No-license is not prohibition. No-license merely destroys the power to purchase liquor within the area whose people so will it by their votes, but it places no restriction on importation into the district. No-license does not, cannot, prevent a single soul from procuring as much liquor as he can pay for; all that it does, all that it can pretend or claim to do, is to lessen the conveniences for procuring drink. No prohibitionist has had a vote for prohibition before. What is, perhaps, of still more significance in view of the altered issues at the coming poll is the fact that hitherto the drinker and non-drinker have been able to join forces in closing down the public bars, because the former could do so without interference with his habits or his appetite. It would be altogether absurd to suppose or pretend that the great and growing vote against retail licenses is indicative of a corresponding antipathy to liquor. Those people who have promoted the no-license campaign and carried it to the lengths it has reached have undoubtedly owed much of their success to the support of men and women who are not abstainers.

There is every reason to believe that the no-license movement owes much of its voting strength to the important fact that it does not attempt to prohibit. The position may be very easily demonstrated. Let us take the Invercargill district, for example. At the poll in 1908 no-license was retained, the voting being 3046 against restoration of licenses, and 2394 in favour—a total of 5440 voters. But in the 12 months ended June 30 78,283 gallons of liquor were sent into that alleged "dry" area. Can anybody suppose that all this flood of beer and whisky went down the throats of the 2394 persons who voted for licenses?

The truth is that we have not satisfactory evidence that there is even a preponderating majority of the people, either against liquor or against licenses. A majority of voters does not prove sufficient in an important question like this, in which it is now proposed to make a new and drastic incursion into the personal habits and liberties of the community. To thoroughly understand the position, the statistics need to be analysed closely and regarded from all possible angles. Here is a view that has not before been presented for public inspection. At the last poll it is estimated that 96 per cent. of the adult men and women were on the rolls. The actual number on the Invercargill roll was 7053, or 96 per cent. of 7475. Yet no-license was carried by 3046 voters, or 40.75 per cent. of the adult population qualified to vote. Surely there is something in these figures to explain the paradox of a no-license community swallowing so much liquor.

Any people who have really cherished the delusion that the abolition of licenses means the removal of drink should study the official returns, taken from the records kept in the Magistrate's Court, according to statute law, of the quantities of liquor taken into the 12 no-license districts during the year ended June 30 of last year (the latest authentic information obtainable):—

District.	Gallons.
Ashburton	22,291
Bruce	16,335
Clutha	13,479
Eden	16,935
Grey Lynn	5,946
Invercargill	78,283
Masterton	26,547
Mataura	39,723
Oamaru	20,060
Ohinemuri	22,658
Wellington South	14,697
Wellington Suburbs	12,176

Of this liquor a fraction over 10 per cent. consisted of spirits, and the rest of beer and stout. In addition to the foregoing figures, Mataura received 13,692 bottles and 224 cases, and Oamaru 25,206 bottles and 336 cases of liquor.

These figures, it must also be remembered, represent merely the inflow that Government officials check in the ordinary course of their day's work. No doubt a good deal goes into such districts without being chronicled, and there is the obvious point that thousands of persons living in "dry" areas go into neighbouring "wet" districts to drink. (Wellington South, for example, is practically part of Wellington City, and residents in the former district have merely to step over the border line into the bar of the public-house.)

If it could be shown, however, that reduction of the license area of the Dominion by 17 per cent., and abolition of 50 per cent. of the drinking conveniences in the whole of New Zealand, in proportion to the population had been reflected in the habits of the people by an appreciable lessening of the per capita consumption of liquor—if this could be demonstrated, or even argued, the taking of drink into no-license areas would not depreciate the value of the general improvement. But the reverse is the case. The figures given below are accepted by all parties. They have never been challenged:—

Total for 41 years		£108,136,953

Here we have absolute proof that in the same period in which the aggregate voting against licenses—not, be it remembered, against liquor—has advanced from 37.82 per cent. of voters to 53.45 per cent., a growth of 15 per cent., the average outlay per head of population for the 12 months has gone from £2 19s 8½d in 1896, when the operation of closing hotels began, to £3 13s 1½d last year, an increase of 22.34 per cent. In other words, drinking has increased one and a half times as fast as the voting against the licensed sale of it.

So far the writer has never seen a satisfactory explanation of this from the point of view of the temperance reformers. These people are without a shadow of doubt doing all that lies in their power, according to their judgment, to bring about important and desirable changes in the habits of the people. Their motives are unquestionably altruistic; their aim is a high and worthy one. It is, however, rather curious that they have not done a little stocktaking in New Zealand before this, and seriously discussed whether the campaign of the last twenty years has produced results pointing in the direction of true reform.

The increased consumption of liquor and expenditure thereon really presents little difficulty of explanation. First and foremost, the agitation of the temperance workers has been more and more devoted to getting votes against the public bar rather than to persuade the community that to drink is evil. The admonition to take the pledge of total abstinence has been side-tracked in favour of an appeal to "strike out the top line." The number of total abstainers has probably decreased in proportion to population; if the number of drinkers is fewer the individual thirst is proved by statistics to have enormously increased. With prohibition as their watchword, the temperance enthusiasts have shaped their course to obtain no-license, which does not prohibit.

The main factor in bringing about a higher expenditure on liquor, as on other things, is the increased prosperity of the community. The people's spending power has grown very substantially, and as there has been no such thing as prohibition of liquor, and temperance advocates have largely ceased to preach so much against drink as against the drink traffic, the natural result is the greater consumption of liquor shown by the records. From 1896 to 1910 (the period of abolition of bars and more drinking), New Zealand's exports rose by £9 3s 1d, and her public borrowing by £19 9s 7d per head of population, representing a per capita increased inflow of money from abroad of £28 12s 8d. Is it any wonder, or any reproach to the community of the Dominion, that 13s 5d of this added influx of money has been expended in alcoholic refreshment? New Zealanders are no better and no worse than the communities of other average civilised countries. The records of the past certainly give little reason to believe that they are about to plunge into the great untried experiment of total prohibition of liquor.

In a nutshell, the position may be presented in this way: At the 1908 poll there were 537,003 persons on the electoral rolls. Another 4 per cent. were not on the rolls. Adding these, we get an estimated total number of adult men and women (residents of the Dominion) of 558,483. The number voting for no-license was 221,471, or 39.65 per cent. of the grown-up people having their homes and interests in New Zealand. If 63.35 per cent. of the people refuse to vote for no-license, which does not prohibit, and the whole community is increasing its consumption of liquor, what reasonable prospect is there of getting a 60 per cent. vote against liquor? And if, under all the circumstances, such a result should be obtained on December 7 next, would it be wise?

IN THE GARDEN.

THE FOUNTAIN PLANT.

The fountain plant, the popular name of Amaranthus salicifolius, is an annual of pyramidal habit, from three to six feet high, with long, narrow, pendulous rich golden yellow and crimson leaves. There are several varieties, all of a similar habit, but distinctly coloured foliage. One has leaves in which carmine, orange yellow, and green are the prevailing hues; another has blood-red leaves, with bright yellow edges; and another purplish brown or bronze ones. In the foliage of most of the other kinds some of these colours are exquisitely blended. In the coast districts it is the seasonable time to plant the first batch of seedlings, which should be allowed plenty of room. Although these plants attain perfection in the warmer parts of the State, they can be successfully grown if planted now in favourable positions in the cooler districts. The fountain plant and its varieties thrive in deeply-worked, light, rich soil, in a sunny and well-sheltered situation. They may be planted in masses, in groups, or as single specimens, and when judiciously arranged produce a very striking and pleasing effect in late summer and autumn. Amaranthus tricolor, an allied species, is popularly known as "Joseph's coat," on account of its particoloured leaves, in which red, yellow, and green predominate. There are several varieties in cultivation, and most have remarkably coloured foliage. They attain a similar height to the fountain plant, and thrive under the same conditions. Beyond keeping the ground clean of weeds, and well watering occasionally in dry weather, nothing further in the way of cultivation is necessary.

BOUVARDIAS.

During the unfavourable weather that prevailed over a part of the past month no class withstood the heat and scorching winds better than bouvardias. The great value of these plants consists in their compact habit and remarkable flowering qualities during the hottest part of the year. There are a large number of varieties now in cultivation, producing both single and double flowers of various brilliant colours, and some of the newer kinds have perfume as well. Those plants that have been flowering since early in the season will be benefited by a good mulching of some well-decomposed natural manure, or similar rich material, and an occasional good watering at the roots in dry weather. Bouvardias produce their flowers on the current season's growth, and where first-class results are aimed at this must be kept in a healthy, vigorous condition. Should any strong, well-rooted young plants still remain in pots they may be planted out when the weather and the soil are favourable. With a little attention such plants will flower profusely in late summer and autumn. Bouvardias attain perfection in the coast districts, but they can be successfully grown in those parts of the country where severe frosts are not experienced, provided the plants receive some slight protection at night during the colder months. These plants thrive in well-drained, fairly strong, deep, rich loam, but do well in any good garden soil, and only ordinary cultivation is necessary to success.

PORTULACCAS.

Few dwarf annuals are better adapted for producing a showy and very pretty effect in hot weather than the single and double flowering varieties of Portulacca grandiflora, popularly called sun plant. They are easily cultivated, rarely exceed nine inches in height, have succulent stems and leaves, and produce a profusion of brilliantly and variously coloured flowers, which are seen at their best when the sun is shining brightly. It is a good time to plant these annuals, which should be set out six inches apart. They thrive in deep, light, rich soils in a position fully exposed to the sun, and when well established withstand dry conditions without being checked to any serious extent. Portulaccas are admirably adapted for planting on rockwork, or in similar dry situations, where the soil is deep and loose enough for their fine roots to ramify easily. The only attention these plants require is an occasional watering until they become well established, and to be kept free from weeds.

NOTES.

In a garden at North Sydney there are growing a few specimens of that very pretty blue flowering Western Australian plant known to botanists as Trachymene caerulea. The plant does not appear to be known by a common name here, and it is very rarely seen in cultivation in the eastern portion of the continent. It grows from one foot to two feet high, has finely-divided leaves, and rather long stalks, each bearing a cluster of very numerous flowers, one to two inches in diameter. This charming plant will repay cultivation in the metropolitan gardens, as the climate of Sydney suits it admirably. It is easily raised from seed, and it thrives in sandy soil. There is a white-flowering variety of this plant in Western Australia.

Calla elliottiana, one of the so-called arum lilies, is now flowering freely in fairly moist, rather shaded situations. Its handsome green leaves are spotted and marked with white, while its large, rich pure yellow spathes (modified leaves surrounding the inflorescence) are most attractive and very beautiful. This is one of the best of all the callas, and can be successfully grown in large pots or tubs in the bush-house.

The Jacobea lily, Sprekelia formosissima, a dwarf bulbous plant, is now flowering freely. Its singularly shaped, large, brilliant crimson flowers produce a striking effect, and particularly so where grown in clumps. It does well in any good soil in the coast districts. There is a white flowering variety, but it is rare. The Jacobea lily can be successfully grown as a pot plant.

The yellow trumpet lily, Chlidanthus fragrans, is now producing a quantity of golden yellow flowers of exquisite fragrance. This hardy, easily-cultivated, dwarf bulbous plant thrives in rather strong loam, and does well in any good garden soil, but must have a sunny position. It shows to the greatest advantage when grown in small groups.

If caterpillars are disfiguring the foliage of the Virginian creepers (Ampelopsis quinquefolia, and A. tricuspidata) no time should be lost in spraying or syringing the leaves with a solution composed of Paris green, in the proportion of 1lb to one hundred and sixty or two hundred gallons of water, and a little soft soap added to make it adhesive. The former strength is more effective when the caterpillars have grown to a good size.

When the flower spikes of gladioluses that are being grown for succession are about 18 inches high, tie them to neat sticks to keep them upright. A light mulch will have a beneficial effect, and an occasional watering of weak liquid manure at the roots, if the soil in which they are growing is not rich, will assist the plants in developing fine blooms.

VEGETABLE GARDEN.

On well-prepared beds of rich soil sow the seeds of broccoli, cabbage, and cauliflower thinly and evenly, and leave them only lightly covered with soil, or with a light, fine mulch of decayed vegetable matter. Seeds that are sown now will provide plants for the autumn and winter crop. In dry weather water the bed two or three times a week through a fine-rose watering-can. If the seedlings are allowed to suffer from the want of moisture at the roots they will become stunted in growth and fail to give satisfactory results. When the young plants are about four inches high plant them out, and if favourable weather and soil are chosen they will not suffer by the removal.

Sow at intervals and in quantities according to requirements butter beans, dwarf or French beans, and Lima beans, under the same conditions as previously advised. Make additional sowings of beet, Brussels sprouts, carrots, celery, cucumber, squash, summer spinach, swede and white turnip, table maize or sweet corn, and vegetable marrow.

Where the water supply is unlimited seed for such salad plants as cress, lettuce, mustard, onion, and radish may be sown at intervals throughout the hotter months to keep up a constant supply. Water liberally celery and leek that are being grown for early supplies, otherwise the plants will be likely to run prematurely to seed.

Cuttings of sweet potato may now be planted 18 inches apart on low ridges two feet apart. Each cutting should have at least five joints, and three of these that have been deprived of their leaves should be inserted in the soil. If the ground is dry each cutting should be well watered immediately after it is planted. This prolific and nutritious vegetable gives the heaviest yields when grown in fertile, deep sandy loam, that has been brought to a good tilth.

All growing crops will be benefited by receiving a good mulching of partially-decayed vegetable matter, and this will also save much labour in watering.

When the tops of the onion crop turn yellow it is a sign that the bulbs are mature, and no time should be lost in pulling them, for if left too long in the ground in the warmer districts at this season they will deteriorate.

When—not Whether

The question which the reader should ask himself to-day is not whether he should buy the new Encyclopaedia Britannica, but when he should send his order. The former question is adequately answered by the letters from representative Australian purchasers which are quoted below. The latter question is answered by the fact that the price will be permanently increased next Saturday, December 9. The inquiry form given below will not appear again; you have only just time to use it and still secure the minimum price.

From Hon. A. A. Davey, M.L.C., Brisbane.

"I am delighted with the Encyclopaedia Britannica. It contains a wealth of authoritative and up-to-date information on, apparently, every subject of human interest. The arrangement of matter leaves nothing to be desired. It is adapted to the requirements of the busy man. The wisdom of the world is boiled down, yet presented without undue restriction of necessary detail; it is a library in itself. The light India paper bound in the flexible covers with the beautifully clear type make the handling of the volumes a pleasure."

From Mr. Jas. Allan, M.L.A., Governing Director of Messrs. Allan and Stark, Ltd. (Brisbane).

"I am fully satisfied. The Encyclopaedia is a mine of wealth—containing an abundant supply of the latest discoveries and general knowledge—a great storage of power."

From His Honor Judge Heydon, Judge of the Industrial Court.

"I wish to express to you the great pleasure which I derive from my new Encyclopaedia Britannica. For reference it is most satisfactory, and for reading it is delightful. It is really wonderful that such an immense mass of information should be conveyed in so interesting a way, packed in so small and convenient a space, and obtainable, at what seems to me so reasonable a price. I look at it every day with increased satisfaction."

From the Rt. Rev. the Bishop of Newcastle.

"The Encyclopaedia Britannica arrived admirably packed and in perfect order. I have already found it very useful, and its use will grow with closer acquaintance. The index is a marvel of clearness and comprehensiveness."

From Mr. H. R. Treatt, Accountant, Cobar.

"I have read every page of the prospectus with interest, and was thus constrained to have the complete set. I have already gotten about £3 or £4 worth of information therefrom, viz.: 'Hydraulics' and 'Weirs.'"

From Mr. E. A. Dreves, Produce Merchant and Carrier, Leichhardt.

"I am greatly pleased with the work both as regards the matter and the manner in which it has been compiled. The advantage of the use of India paper cannot be over-estimated and to those who desire to give their sons a thorough education the 11th edition is invaluable, inasmuch as it is not only a work of reference but a complete library in itself."

From the Rev. H. Saumarez Smith, Rector of St. Chad's, North Sydney.

"With regard to the book itself, I am delighted with it. I have already used it more in the few months I have possessed it than I used the 9th edition in the same number of years. It is so convenient to handle, and simply invites you to consult its pages on any and every subject."

From Professor R. D. Watt, Professor of Agriculture in the University of Sydney.

"The Encyclopaedia arrived in splendid order, and seems quite up-to-date, as may be judged from the accounts of the South African Union and South Polar Exploration."

From Mr. M. A. Martin, General Manager, Haymarket Permanent Land, Building, and Investment Co., Sydney.

"I find it replete with reliable information condensed and clarified by competent authorities. The India paper and flexible binding are a great advance on any previous work of reference."

From Dr. R. Hamlyn Harris, Director of the Queensland Museum.

"As regards my opinion of the 11th Edition of the Encyclopaedia Britannica, very little need be said, because it is a work which speaks for itself, and is too well known and too highly appreciated throughout the whole world to need many eulogistic terms applied to it. It is like a light in a dark place, casting its rays into the innermost recesses of the mind."

From Mr. A. Bastow, Architect, Melbourne.

"Beyond doubt the most useful and the finest work I have ever seen, and in connection with my professional work thoroughly up-to-date."

From Mr. H. A. Hunt, F.R.M.S., Commonwealth Meteorologist, Melbourne.

"I have perused the articles on Climatology and Meteorology, and consider both have been fairly and amply treated when the wide range of subjects embodied in the work is taken into account. The latest developments and phases of meteorological science are well and ably presented."

From Dr. John Box, M.B., B.S., Oculist and Aurist, Melbourne.

"I have already had some profitable hours from the new Encyclopaedia Britannica and am delighted with the up-to-date articles I have read. I foresee much profit and pleasure to my boys and myself from it."

From Mr. Molesworth Greene, Pastoralist, Rowsley.

"It seems to me a most valuable work. The print is excellent and the illustrations remarkably good. The India paper and binding are so light that the volumes can be easily and pleasantly read while sitting in an armchair."

From Mr. Percy Tough, Land Surveyor, Melbourne.

"The binding is excellent, and the information contained therein is of a character to make it an indispensable work not only to the student but to the person who would pass his or her leisure moments reading. It combines duty and pleasure during study, and forms an ornament and a library without other books."

From Mr. Thomas Fraser, Civil Engineer, North Sydney.

"The Encyclopaedia Britannica is an invaluable work of reference to all, especially to those whose work lies in the region of the applied sciences, and I cannot imagine how any professional man can do without it. To my mind the greatest feature of all in the last edition, the 11th, is the fact that all the volumes are practically up-to-date, and that means that it is worth more than many libraries to those who are engaged in the profession of engineering, or any of its numerous branches."

From Mr. Albert Nathan, F.C.P.A., Chartered Accountant, Sydney.

"I much appreciate the convenience of handling afforded by the India paper edition with limp covers, the up-to-date information contained therein, and especially the able and interesting article upon the history and progress of my own profession."

From Mr. T. B. Cribb, J.P., Ipswich.

"While the subject matter is up-to-date, the volumes are light, convenient, and so clearly printed that it is a double pleasure to peruse them."

From Mr. R. S. Sugars, Accountant, Melbourne.

"In its present form I should consider the Encyclopaedia would prove to be a highly desirable adjunct to the equipment of a modern business office. The index is quite a feature in itself, permitting any subject to be followed up in all its bearings from one reference."

THE LAST INQUIRY FORM.

To-day is the last opportunity for obtaining full information—if you have not had it—about the new Encyclopaedia Britannica. The form given below will not appear again. For two months the Press of the University of Cambridge (England) has been offering to send the prospectus and specimen pages, which clearly describe the great educational enterprise in which it is engaged. Thousands of readers have received this information in time to act on it. To-day there is only a week left before the price is permanently raised, and you will have barely time to obtain the prospectus and order-form before December 9, the last day for posting an order at the present price. To-day the minimum price of 15s. 10d. per volume is in force, and a single instalment of a guinea will secure the complete work. After December 9 you will have to pay considerably more.

THE GLEBE TRAGEDY

VERDICT OF MURDER.

ALLEGED STATEMENTS BY MOIR.

AN UNKNOWN RUSSIAN.

The Coroner's inquiry into the circumstances surrounding the death of an elderly man named Henry Trevascus, who was found murdered in a room at No. 1 Glebe-road, Glebe, on November 4, was concluded yesterday by the City Coroner, Mr. Stephen Murphy.

Mr. Robison appeared for the Crown; and Mr. W. A. Freeman watched the proceedings on behalf of Campbell Nairn Moir.

The morbid interest of the public, which was so markedly manifest on the preceding day, had considerably abated, and a bare score of men clamoured at the door of the court for admission.

Moir was escorted to the court in custody of the police, and occupied a seat immediately behind his solicitor, and next to his brother. Though obviously feeling the gravity of the position, he betrayed no unusual emotion. For the most part he conversed quietly with his brother and his solicitor.

The exhibits were the cynosure of the eyes of the public, especially the plough coulter. This is a solid piece of steel, about 20in long, and weighing about 6lb. It is shaped something like a butcher's cleaver, with a narrow blade, and on the flat sides were a few sepia-coloured blotches.

Detective Albert Edward Lonsdale, of Melbourne, said that on November 23 he was at the corner of Buckley-street, Essendon, with Detective Coonan, when he met Moir. Witness wrote the statement produced.

MOIR IN MELBOURNE.

The Coroner: Is there anything beside the statement that you can put in?

Witness: Yes. I said to Moir, "I am a detective of the police, and this is Detective Coonan. My name is Lonsdale. We are making inquiries for a young man of your description. What is your name." He said, "Alexander Carmichael." I said, "Are you a dentist's mechanic." He said, "No; I am a limelight operator." I said, "How long have you been living about here?" He said, "Two or three weeks." I said, "Where were you living before you came here?" and he said "at Ballarat." I said, "How long were you living at Ballarat?" and he said "nearly three years." I said "Who were you employed by there?" He said, "Mr. Simpson." I said, "Who is Mr. Simpson?" and he said "a big storekeeper." I said, "In what street is his place?" and he said "High-street." I said, "There is no street in Ballarat of that name." He said, "Yes there is, it is near the railway station." I said, "Where do your parents live?" He said, "My father is dead, and my mother lives at Ballarat." I said, "What is her address there?" He said, "Rose Ville, Reservoir-street, Ballarat."

I then searched him and found in his pocket a leather wallet with the letters C. N. M. in gold lettering. I said, "Have you ever been in Sydney?" He said, "No; I have never been there." I said, "Where have you always been?" He said, "In Victoria." I said, "Whereabouts in Victoria?" and he mentioned Camberwell and Kew as places where he had been living. We then took him to his home, and saw his wife there. I said to him, "How many brothers and sisters have you?" He said, "I have six brothers and two sisters." I said, "What are their names." He said, "William, Robert, Allen, Colin, Lindsay, and James; and Carrie and Jean." I said, "What are their surnames?" and he said "Moir." I said, "Then your name is Moir." He said "Yes. Alexander Campbell Moir."

We then searched his house and in a chest of drawers in his bedroom we found a number of dental instruments. We found in a kit bag in his room a number of letters which Moir admitted as being in his handwriting. They were mostly addressed to his wife. In the same bag we also found an empty razor-case and a razor in a tweed cover. We then took Moir, accompanied by his wife, to the detective office, Melbourne, where I read to him the provisional warrant, and charged him with the wilful murder of Henry Trevascus on October 31. After he had heard the charge, he simply said, "Yes." I then said to him, "I am going to ask you some questions bearing on the charge. You need not answer them unless you like, but if you do your answers will be taken down in writing and given in evidence against you at your trial." Detective Coonan, who was present, wrote down the questions as I put them to Moir, and he also wrote down the answers made by Moir. After the statement had been read over to him, he read it over, and then signed it, initialled some alterations, and wrote something at the bottom to the effect that it was correct.

STATEMENT SIGNED BY MOIR.

The questions and answers in the statement were as follows:—

How long have you known Henry Trevascus?—Since July, 1910.

Where were you on October 28 last during the day and up to midnight?—I decline to say.

Where were you on October 29 last during the day and up to midnight?—I decline to say.

Where were you on Monday, October 30?—I decline to say.

Did you call at Trevascus's house, No. 1 Glebe-road, Glebe, on Monday, October 30?—No.

When did you last see Henry Trevascus?—I saw Mr. Trevascus at his house, No. 1 Glebe-road, Glebe, at 9 a.m. on Tuesday, October 31.

Did you write the letter to Mr. Trevascus dated October 28, from Rose Ville, Penrith, making an appointment with him for Monday night, offering to sell him eight or nine ounces of platinum pins and gold filings and sign the letter L. R. Fisher, dentist, Emu Plains?—Yes; I wrote that letter, a copy of which I have seen in the "Police Gazette."

Witness, continuing, said that Moir was then locked up, and on November 24 was handed over to Detective Walker.

ALLEGED ACCOUNT BY MOIR.

Constable Percy Andrew Ramsay, stationed at Randwick, then entered the box and gave evidence of a sensational character. He said:—"On the morning of November 25 at 5 o'clock I went on duty at the city watch house, Melbourne. I opened the cell door occupied by Moir and said, 'You are Moir.' He said, 'Yes.' I said, 'A nice mess you have got yourself into.' He said, 'Yes.' I said 'I will get you a cup of tea. The Salvation Army lassie will be here in a minute with some tea.' He said, 'No, I have had some breakfast sent in. I had some tea. They sent me eggs up, which I never eat. It is my own fault, though. I never told them.' Just then the Army lassie arrived in the corridor. I closed the cell door and attended to the other prisoners with the Army lassie. In about fifteen minutes I returned to the cell where Moir was. I said to Moir, 'I see by the papers you come from Hawthorn.' He said, 'Yes.' I said, 'My people have lived up there since about 1888.' He said, 'I left there when only a youngster.' I said, 'How is it you got into this trouble? Whatever possessed you to do it.'"

Witness detailed the following story, which he stated Moir then told him:—"I will tell you in confidence how it all happened. I have not told the detectives anything. On the Saturday before the murder I met a man named ——. He is a Russian, I think. I proposed that we should go and rob Trevascus. On the Tuesday following I went to the building where Trevascus was and I saw the girl that is employed there. I asked the girl, 'Is Mr. Trevascus in?' and she said, 'Yes.' I went upstairs through the glass door and unbolted the other door. The Russian then came in and I introduced him to Trevascus as a friend of mine. When Trevascus had his back to the Russian the Russian hit him on the head with an iron bar. He fell to the floor. I then went out of the room down the stairs and asked the girl for a piece of paper. I came upstairs and put the piece of paper by the door."

Witness stated that he interrupted the narrative to inquire what Moir went to get the paper for, and the latter replied, "It was only a gag."

Continuing the story related by the witness, Moir said: "I then left the building and went over to the station opposite, and watched the place so that the Russian could not get away without me seeing him. At 9.30 the Russian came out, and told me he had got £50. He gave me £25."

Witness, continuing his evidence, said:—"I said, 'The blow on the head, did that kill him.' He (Moir) said, 'I think so, but to make sure the Russian must have cut his throat. I did not see him do it. The Russian then said, 'If you get caught don't squeak on me, and if I get caught I won't squeak on you. It won't take the police long to get on our tracks.' If I had cut his throat I would have blood-stains on my clothes, and the razor would have blood-stains on it. I gave the razor I had to the detectives. There were no bloodstains on that, so they won't be able to get me on that. I had hinted to my wife that I might be arrested, and if anybody called to say that I was out."

Mr. Robison: When this conversation had taken place, do you remember if Moir said the Russian knew Trevascus or not.

Witness: No; he said the Russian never knew Trevascus, but he (Moir) knew Trevascus very well.

Do you remember if Moir said anything about his own financial position at the time?—Yes; he said he was pretty hard up at the time.

The Coroner asked Detective Fullerton, who is in charge of the case, if any inquiry had been made about the alleged Russian.

Detective Fullerton said inquiries had been made, and it had been ascertained that the name given was not a Russian name. No trace could be found of any man of that name in Sydney.

In reply to the Coroner, Mr. Freeman said that, acting on his advice, Moir would not offer any evidence at this stage.

THE VERDICT.

The Coroner: I, being charged to inquire when, where, how, and by what means Henry Trevascus came to his death, having made such inquiry, I declare that Henry Trevascus, at No. 1 Glebe-road, Glebe, on October 31, 1911, died from the effects of injuries wilfully and feloniously inflicted upon him by Campbell Nairn Moir by means of a plough coulter and a razor, at the same place and on the same day, and I further find that in the manner aforesaid the said Campbell Nairn Moir did feloniously and maliciously murder the said Henry Trevascus.

Moir was then formally committed for trial.

AT THE POLICE COURT.

Subsequent to the inquest, Moir appeared at the Central Police Court, charged with the murder of Henry Trevascus.

Sergeant Mankey intimated that he had been informed that the inquest had closed, and that the accused had been committed for trial. There would, therefore, be no further evidence, so far as the police court was concerned.

Mr. Smithers to Moir: You are discharged, as far as these proceedings are concerned.

MORE PAY WANTED.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—In your issue of the 29th instant Mr. M'Gowen, Premier of our Labour Government, is credited with saying, in reply to a deputation re unskilled labour in the Railway Department, and urging the establishment of a minimum wage of 8s per day of eight hours. The Government informed the Commissioner that it was its policy to recognise 7s a day as a minimum wage. Now, sir, we have three definitions by eminent judges re this wage, and given after close investigation into the cost of living, etc., in the three cities concerned. In Melbourne, Mr. Justice Higgins, in the Harvester cases, said: "I consider 7s the lowest I can possibly award. This I consider the least a man can exist upon considered as a human being in a civilised community." He also drew a distinction between a bare existence and what he considered the fairness of the law meant as a living. The other Judges, one in Adelaide, the other in Perth, Justices Gordon and Burnside, defined 7s per day as "starvation point, and the actual poverty line." The information given to the Commissioner re 7s was given at the beginning of this year. The judgments referred to some three to five years ago. It is admitted on all sides the cost of living has increased greatly. The evil of employing men, and against whom special laws have been framed, preventing them from taking definite action to enforce their rights, is becoming more intensified every day. Men absolutely immersed cling in a despairing hope to a Labour Government for salvation. This then is our answer. The Government believes in the 8s per day minimum, and informs the Commissioner that their policy is 7s. I think when Mr. W. A. Holman again comes to woo the electors of Junee he will find it hard to convince many of his erstwhile supporters of any benefit obtained by the "believe in 8s and the policy 7s."

Junee, Nov. 29. I am, etc., LOCO.

ALLEGED WRONGFUL DISMISSAL.

English and Australian Copper Company, Ltd., v Johnson.

Mr. Knox, K.C., and Mr. Windeyer, instructed by Brown and Mitchell, of Newcastle (through Makinson and Plunkett), appeared for the appellant company; Mr. Wise, K.C., and Mr. Watt, instructed by Reid and Reid, of Newcastle (through Mr. W. T. Flynn), for the respondent plaintiff, Thomas Johnson.

This was an appeal against an order of the Full Court, dated March 6, refusing a new trial. An action was brought by Johnson to recover damages for wrongful dismissal, he at the time being manager of the company's smelting works at Waratah, near Newcastle. He was engaged for five years from January 1, 1908, at £600 a year for the first two years, £650 for the next year, £700 for the year 1911, and thereafter until the termination of the service. The company dismissed Johnson for alleged misconduct, whereupon he brought the action for wrongful dismissal, and was awarded £1325 damages. The Full Court refused to upset the decision, and the company now comes to the High Court. The main grounds of appeal are that the damages are excessive, and that the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court misdirected the jury.

The case stands part heard.

CLAIM FOR RESUMPTION.

Bignell v Municipal Council of Sydney.

Mr. Shand, K.C., and Mr. Broomfield, instructed by Mr. W. H. Mahony, appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. J. L. Campbell, K.C., and Mr. Pitt, instructed by Mr. Percy S. Dawson (City Solicitor), for the defendants. This was an action brought by Alfred Bignell against the Municipal Council of Sydney to recover compensation for the resumption by the defendant of a piece of plaintiff's land at Pyrmont Bridge-road, Camperdown, resumed by the council in January, 1910, for purposes of street improvement. The plaintiff sued, not only for the value of the land resumed, but for injury to the remaining portion, caused by severance. He claimed £1408, and the defendant council offered £910, which plaintiff refused to accept.

The case is still part heard.

NO. 1 JURY COURT.

RESUMPTION OF A FARM.

Stafford v Minister for Works.

Mr. A. A. Lysaght, of Wollongong (by his agent, Mr. B. A. M'Bride), appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. Pike, instructed by the Crown Solicitor (Mr. J. V. Tillett), for the defendant. This was an action brought by Henry Stafford, a farmer, against the defendant, to recover the sum of £3500 as compensation for the resumption in September, 1910, by the Government, of certain land of the plaintiff for the purposes of the water supply for Sydney and Wollongong. The defendant had estimated the value of the land at £835 18s, which amount had been tendered to the plaintiff and refused. The land consisted of 124 acres, situated on the Cordeaux River, to the south of Mount Kembla.

The case is still unfinished.

NO. 2 JURY COURT.

(Before Mr. Justice Pring and a jury of four.)

MOTOR CAR TRANSACTION.

CLAIM FOR £125.

Lonsdale v Cox.

Mr. Hammond, instructed by Mr. J. J. Mulligan, appeared for the plaintiff, Albert Edward Lonsdale; and Mr. Garland, K.C., and Mr. Boyce, instructed by Mr. C. Horace Eddie, for the defendant, Frederick Henry Cox.

Albert Edward Lonsdale, of Marrickville, sued Frederick Henry Cox, a medical practitioner, residing at Helensburgh, for the sum of £125, alleged to be due in respect to a promissory note dated June 24, 1911, and made payable three months after that date.

It was alleged that defendant negotiated with plaintiff in June of the present year for the purchase of a motor car. The price agreed upon was £225, and the defendant paid a deposit of £100, after a trial of the car, and gave a promissory note for the balance.

The defendant said that the agreement between them was that the plaintiff should deliver a British-built car of 1910 model, and practically new, but the car was not of the model agreed upon, or practically new.

His Honor, in summing up, said it was the duty of the defendant to satisfy the jury as to his defence, which was that what he contracted to buy was a motor car of 1910 model, and practically new. If it was not what he contracted to buy he was, of course, not bound to take it; but even if they were in favour of the defendant on that part of the case they would still have to consider a point submitted by Mr. Hammond, which raised another question in the case. That was that though defendant knew afterwards that the car was not of a 1910 model, or practically new, still he accepted it as a compliance with the contract. If he did, he was not entitled to succeed, and the verdict would be for the plaintiff for £125.

The jury returned a verdict for the defendant. On the application of Mr. Hammond a stay of proceedings for a fortnight was granted on condition that plaintiff paid £70 into Court.

INDUSTRIAL COURT.

(Before Judge Scholes.)

LITHGOW STRIKE.

PAY OR SUFFER PUNISHMENT.

Mr. Waldron, on behalf of Messrs. G. and C. Hoskins, applied for the issue of warrants against men concerned in the Lithgow strike, such men not having paid their fines.

Mr. J. Dixon, who appeared for the defendants, said he had had word from the Attorney-General's department to the effect that most of the fines had been reduced to £2 2s. Three members of the Enginedrivers' and Firemen's Association were prepared to pay £4 4s, and five others would pay before next Wednesday, some £3 3s, and others £3 3s. He asked the Court to allow the men to pay the fines by instalments, as many of them had been out of work owing to the strike. Many of them were also in a very bad way.

His Honor said he had received from the Attorney-General a minute of the executive approved by the Governor in respect of certain of these fines. Being an executive minute, it was not for publication, he took it. But he could say the effect of it was that the men were fined four guineas each, and those fined £3 3s were reduced to £2 2s, while the others remained as they were.

These fines were inflicted on September 19. The men were fined for striking, said his Honor, and they were still out of work, so far as the Court knew in consequence of their wrong act. The case was that, being out of work, their fines might be held over longer. The Court had, in its discretion, held these matters over, first, because the men were out of work, and then as there was a prospect of their returning to work. The Court was now of opinion that such reason was worn out. Another position arose when the matter was referred to his Excellency the Governor for the exercise of mercy in regard to the fines and penalties. This Court then thought it was its duty to hold the matter over for a reasonable time to allow it to be settled. It had now been settled, in which it appeared to the Court to have been a reasonable time. Taking the circumstances into consideration now that the matter with regard to the remission of fines had been decided by the executive, the question of holding over the issue of these warrants, for the reason that the men could not pay had been revised. It was too late. It was clearly laid down that a justice of the peace (and his Honor was sitting as a justice of the peace) might hold over the issue of warrants for a reasonable time. His Honor had done so according to his discretion. He thought the time was now exhausted. These men were punished by fine, in default imprisonment. Every opportunity had been given them to pay those fines. Now that the men could not pay, the Court could not hold it over any longer, and the time had come when the men must pay or suffer their punishment. But seeing that the men did not actually know the result of the Governor's decision, he would postpone the issue of the warrants for one week, and unless the amounts of the penalties and costs were then paid these warrants would issue.

QUARTER SESSIONS.

(Before Judge Murray.)

ROBBERY IN COMPANY.

Thomas Sichel was sentenced to two years' imprisonment for robbery in company, the sentence to be concurrent with one prisoner is now serving for stealing. His Honor directed that at the end of six months if prisoner's behaviour has been good he may apply for a remission of the sentence or to be allowed out on license.

DR. PEACOCK'S CASE.

MR DUFFY REPLIES TO CROWN.

JUDGMENT RESERVED.

Argument in the two appeals of Dr. Peacock against the decision of the Victorian Supreme Court, sustaining his conviction for the murder of a young woman in Melbourne, was concluded yesterday in the High Court, when judgment was reserved.

Mr. Dethridge (for the Crown) submitted that the accomplice, Poke, had sworn practically that the prisoner was connected with an act which resulted in murder, and that the prisoner disposed of the body secretly.

The Chief Justice: There is evidence of the secret disposition of the body.

Mr. Dethridge: Is that not evidence that murder has been committed, and that the person who secretly disposed of the body is the criminal?

The Chief Justice: That is just the one point.

Mr. Justice O'Connor: From all the circumstances you draw the inference that, because the girl died under circumstances which made the prisoner afraid to disclose the death, he might have caused her death.

Mr. Justice Barton: It was open to the jury to infer that.

The Chief Justice: Is the secret disposal of the body so cogent?—It suggests, and renders even probable, that the prisoner was in some guilty way connected with the death. But is that sufficient?

Mr. Dethridge: I think so.

The Chief Justice: When there is a balance of probability, can the jury, as a matter of law, accept that which they think is more probable?

Mr. Dethridge: The law does not require independent proof of the whole crime as corroboration. It is sufficient if there is corroboration in a material part of the accomplice's evidence. There is sufficient independent evidence here of the secret disposal of the body.

Mr. Duffy, K.C. (for the appellant), replying to the Crown case, said that he must admit that each of the law points taken must stand on its own merits. One could not act as a support of the other. But if the Court came to the conclusion that there had been any misdirection, or wrongful admission of evidence, he thought it ought to quash the conviction. He supposed that there never had been a case in which an unfortunate prisoner had gone through a more severe trial, and in which it was clear if that had been done which ought to have been done, he would not have been convicted. The alleged confession of the prisoner was not made in the ordinary way, but had filtered through an accomplice. A statement of a most cryptic sort was supposed to have been made, and it filtered through an accomplice. The learned Judge at the trial then directed the jury that it was not to listen to the prisoner's account of the matter when it contradicted that of the accomplice. Further, his Honor did not tell the jury the important thing, that the evidence of an accomplice must be corroborated. And, finally, his Honor admitted damaging evidence—and it was admitted by everybody now that it was wrongfully admitted—and then, after leaving it there, took it out again. The result was that the prisoner had an almost hopeless trial.

Continuing, Mr. Duffy said that if the Court ordered a new trial it would be said, "This man would have clearly got off, in all probability, except for these serious mistakes. The serious mistakes were not his, but the Judge's. And now he is to be sent up again to try and get him under different circumstances." In the Victorian law there was power to order a new trial. But the practice was to order one where no harm could be done to the prisoner by it—where sending him back would not put him in a worse position than he was at the trial. That could not be properly shown. Looking at the whole series of mistakes, the prisoner had been subjected in such a way to danger that it would not be fair to submit him to it again. He submitted that there was no corroboration of Poke's evidence that an illegal operation was performed; and, further, that there was no admission of the performance of an illegal operation. It was open, on the whole of the evidence, for a reasonable man to conclude that the doctor was perfectly innocent.

The Chief Justice announced that judgment would probably be pronounced early next week.

LIFE IN LONDON AND THEREABOUT.

(CHRONICLED BY HENRY LUCY.)

Cabinet Changes.—Mr. Birrell's Opportunity.—How Lloyd George Gets his Bills Through—Winston Churchill's Unpopularity.—Grand Night at Gray's Inn.

WESTMINSTER, Oct. 27.

The Cabinet changes unexpectedly announced on the eve of the reassembling of Parliament effectually disposed of a persistent rumour. It was commonly taken for granted that, however other Ministers might be affected, Mr. Winston Churchill would be moved from the Home Office. A confident assertion was made that his destiny was Dublin Castle, and his appointed work charge of the Home Rule Bill. That was, when we come to think of it, a little hard on Mr. Birrell. In thankless circumstances he has for four years laboured for the administrative welfare of Ireland, and has, in common with some Liberal predecessors in office, seen his well-laid beneficial plans shattered by the House of Lords. That instrument being now rendered incapable of further mischief, opportunity presents itself finally of settling the ancient quarrel between the sister countries. That at such a time he should be shunted from the Irish Office, and the long-delayed harvest garnered by other hands, is a prospect that was not likely to fill his heart with satisfaction. He has no desire to play the part in the last act in the life of Moses coming in sight of the Promised Land after 40 years' toilsome journey in the wilderness. He will accordingly have charge of the Home Rule Bill—an arrangement that promises smoother passage than was probable under the capable but occasionally irritating leadership of Mr. Winston Churchill.

Mr. Lloyd George has introduced into constitutional practice a new way of dealing with great legislative measures. Time was, within quite recent date, when a Minister in charge of a bill explained its provisions on asking for the first reading, had it printed and circulated, thereafter sitting tight in suspicious resentment of amendments from any quarter. Mr. Lloyd George, on the contrary, desiring above all things to add to the Statute Book a workable measure, positively invites criticism, and meets his critics in friendly private conference, which partakes of the best attributes of discussion in committee of the House. The consequence is that he gets his bill through, edges being smoothed and sharp corners rounded to its great improvement. On Monday he met a representative body chiefly composed of editors and contributers to the leading papers in town and country. The meeting was arranged under the auspices of Sir Henry Dalziel, long time member for Kircaldy, who is himself making a novel departure in Parliamentary usage. He has a great idea of the soothing amenities of the dinner table. Early this session, whilst many members were new to Westminster, he invited some four score to dine at the Savoy Hotel to meet the Prime Minister, who thus came in contact with many of his supporters personally unknown to him. On Monday he invited 100 representative men to meet the Chancellor of the Exchequer at luncheon, and afterwards discuss the Insurance Bill. As things turned out, since the invitations were issued the Chancellor of the Exchequer had squared the militant friendly societies. There was not much left to discuss, but the Chancellor delivered a charming speech, brightened with assurance of the success of his measure.

The personal popularity of the Chancellor of the Exchequer even among the Unionists, is brought into stronger light by the antipathy the new First Lord of the Admiralty evokes not only in political, but in social circles. Mr. Winston Churchill, never averse to special distinction, probably enjoys rather than laments the undeniable fact that he is the most unpopular member of the Government. This feeling on the part of the Opposition in the House of Commons is obviously explicable. Winston, brought up in the sanctuary of Unionism, early in his career went over to the enemy, and what is most provoking, has prospered exceedingly by the move. As in the analogous case of Mr. Chamberlain, this is a departure in politics which is never forgiven, at least, not till after the lapse of years, and the disappearance from the scene of witnesses, whether sufferers or gainers by the change of front. An additional vexation to the Unionists watching Winston enthroned on the Treasury Bench is conviction that, with a little more skilful management on the part of Mr. Balfour, and with fuller exercise of patience on their own, a party sorely deficient in clever men might still enjoy advantage of Winston's services. From the first Mr. Balfour gave the cold shoulder to the son of his old Fourth Party colleague. When, in the spring of 1904, the young member for Oldham rising to continue a debate, the Ministerialists, in accordance with preconcerted plan, rose and left the House in a body, the thing was done. Before the session closed Winston crossed the floor, informally but effectually enrolling himself in the Liberal ranks.

These things sufficiently account for the personal dislike with which he is, in large matters as in small, openly regarded by the Unionist party. It is less reasonable that the antipathy should be carried beyond the political arena into the social circle. It is quite a common thing to hear it said that people decline to accept invitations to a dinner-party if they know they will meet Mr. Churchill at table. There is one good reason for this which has nothing to do with the actuality of the extreme resentment. He has contracted an inconvenient indefensible fashion of keeping dinner waiting. Asked for 8 o'clock or a quarter past, if he turns up at 8.20 or a quarter to 9 the hapless hostess thinks she is fortunate. This unpunctuality was ingrained in the late Duke of Devonshire, who occasionally carried it to extreme point. He not only habitually ignored the hour fixed for dinner, but occasionally forgot the engagement altogether. His conduct is not defensible. But there is a difference between a man of his weight and position and otherwise unique characteristics and one of the age and personal position of the late Home Secretary. It is, however, not on this account, reprehensible though the habit be, that a certain section of London society decline to meet Mr. Churchill at dinner. They regard him with something of that acrimonious detestation from which Mr. Chamberlain suffered at the hands of the same class before he found salvation.

The new First Lord of the Admiralty is not left absolutely desolate. The 16th of next month is grand night at Gray's Inn, and the Treasurer and Masters of the Bench have invited him to be the guest on that evening. Invitations to meet him have been issued to something like a dozen well-known men in both political camps. It will be interesting to know if any deny themselves the privilege of one of the pleasantest dinners of the winter season, on account of the prejudice indicated. I fancy not. The invitation card bears the pleasant announcement "no speeches." This is not a precaution against contretemps following upon Winston's oratorial excursion and alarums. It is in accordance with the immemorial custom of the ancient Inn. But though there are no speeches on grand nights at Gray's, there are three toasts. On the withdrawal of the cloth three raps resound at the head table, and the voice of the Treasurer, who presides at the feast, is heard saying, "Mr. Junior, I give you a toast to the King." From the other end of the table Mr. Junior, usually a mature young man, verging on fifty, repeats in sonorous voice, "The King," whereat all the company stand and drink his Majesty's health. After a short pause there are three more knocks on the table. "Mr. Junior," says the eloquent Treasurer, "I give you the Prince of Wales and the rest of the Royal Family." "The Prince of Wales and the rest of the Royal Family," echoes Mr. Junior from the other end of the table. Another interval, three more knocks, and then again the voice of the Treasurer, "Mr. Junior, Domus!" "Domus," repeats Mr. Junior. "Domus, Domus," is cried from every table, and so the last toast is drunk.

THE DURBAR.

THE INEVITABLENESS OF DELHI.

A ROSE-RED CITY HALF AS OLD AS TIME.

(BY THE REV. STACY WADDY, M.A., Headmaster The King's School.)

I.

"Delhi dur ast"—"It is a long way yet to Delhi."

These words are a proverb in India. There was once a King there; and his servants came and said, "Prince, the invader has beaten your armies here and here: he has taken this city and that." But the king settled himself down comfortably, and would say nothing but "It is a long way to Delhi yet." It was well worth while to get to a city that provided one invader with seventy million pounds' worth of loot! But it was a long way to go first.

The proverb will serve to express the feelings of the pilgrim as the strong ship thuds and plunges through the unquiet waters of the Australian Bight. "It is a long way yet to Delhi"—but it will be well worth travelling it to take part in one of the unique pageants of history, when the first white King since Alexander the Great sets foot upon its soil. "It is a long way yet to Delhi"; but anticipation is half the pleasure; and in the leisure of life on a great liner the time is filled and the pulse stirred with accounts of the last Durbar, programmes of what is to happen at this Durbar, talks about the Delhis of old that reach back for over 30 centuries, and of the great mutiny of 1857. Surely a man may count himself lucky who can say, "It is far yet to Delhi—but less far every day."

Amid the discussions and conversations, one question crops up less than might be expected, "Why is the Durbar at Delhi?" From the first moment when the King-Emperor announced that he intended to assume his Crown in person before the peoples of India, it has been taken for granted that Delhi would be the scene of the pageant. The native of India took it for granted; the Anglo-Indian statesman regarded it as a matter of course; and the visitor felt that of course if there was such a Durbar, Delhi would be its site. There must be a strong set of reasons behind, to cause such an entire unanimity of opinion. We know something of the readiness of rival cities to urge their claim to be the scene of prominent events. Delhi must indeed have strong rights when it is thought to be not even worth discussing whether the Durbar shall be here or elsewhere.

And the reasons that cause Delhi now to be the pilgrim's destination involve all the reasons that make India one of the world's fascinating countries to the traveller. All the reasons—except one. And that absent reason is a big one. There are many travellers who, even in a historic country, regard the present life of the people as their chief interest. To them, as it has been put, a living dog is of more interest than any number of dead historic lions. Now, if one is going to India to see the true native life of the place, it is not to Delhi one would go; not indeed to any city where the white face of the "sahib" is familiar, unless it be Peshawur, at the foot of the Khyber Pass, on the far north-west. To study the native as he is, one would not go to a city where he has learnt that the white visitor may be despoiled of plentiful "backsheesh."

Yet the gathering of native Indians for the Durbar, to acclaim and hail the first of their Sovereigns they have had the chance to see, will surely bring a unique opportunity of seeing native life in all its thousand and one diversities. In one of the world's really old and really great stories, the "Ramayana," telling of the life of the Hindoo when first he came to India, we find a description of just such a gathering as may be anticipated for the festival of the Emperor in 1911. Rama, whose name is still daily repeated in India, was to be crowned king. Far and wide went the tidings; from far and wide flocked the loyal subject and the curious visitor to see Rama crowned about three thousand years ago, as we are now crossing five thousand miles of sea and land to see George assume the crown in A.D. 1911. The description given by the old writer would serve not badly for the decorated Delhi of to-day.

"The people of the city, both man and boy, matron and maid, were in great joy, and decorated the glorious city. Then rose banners and glittering streamers and flags, fluttering gaily in the breeze. On the lofty towers of the temples were they hoisted, which pierce the sky even to the clouds; where pathways crossed in the green gardens, and on each warehouse and shop; on pavilions bright and gay, on lofty trees giving wide shade. And the thronged people listened with joy to actors and nimble dancers, and singers with right lay. The women wore garlands well-scented, the merry maids lit the censers, and sweepers cleared the wide streets and sprinkled water. There were rows of trees, and posts, and on them they hung strings of lights, that the midnight might be as midday.

And of Rama's consecration spake the burghers one and all,
And the men from distant hamlets poured within the city wall;
From the confines of the Empire, north and south and west and east,
Came to see the consecration and to share the royal feast.

It just shows how strong are the claims of Delhi to be the Imperial city of India, when the obviously strong reasons that might be, but are not, urged for other cities are mentioned. If the Durbar is intended to show the Royal person to as many of his colonial subjects as possible, how can Delhi compare with Calcutta—a small up-country town compared with one of the most crowded centres of population in the world? And if the Durbar is the outward and visible sign of white rule, why should it not take place in one of the Babylons that the invader has built—Calcutta or Bombay or Madras, which have no history but that of the white conquerors from over the "black water?" And a greater reason still—Delhi is a Mohammedan city. But two hundred and fifty millions of the inhabitants of India are Hindu, and if in that tangled jungle of a creed they agree on anything it is in condemning the Mohammedan to endless hell. There is no sacred soil at Delhi, whereas at a dozen places in India there are shrines and centres so sacred that the veriest blackguard dying there is assured of Paradise. If the Durbar is for the sake of impressing India, and if India is above all Hindu, why should not Benares or Juggernath be its scene?

A strong reason, truly. Yet not even the clamorous "babu" has thought it worth while to raise the question. If India has a function to carry out, let Delhi be its site. The decision is instinctive, and beyond debate. Why?

There are three sets of people concerned—the native of India, the Anglo-Indian statesman, and the visitor. For different reasons each concurs in selecting Delhi.

To the native of India it is for old sake's sake. There is none so deeply conservative as the Indian. "It is dustoor" (custom) is a sufficient answer for doing or suffering the most inconvenient things. And for many centuries Delhi has stood to him for royalty and empire. It was the custom that the King should live at Delhi. It was the custom that almost godlike honours should be paid to him there in the most magnificent of palaces that surely a monarch ever inhabited. The custom lasted on long after the poor old figureheads of monarchs at Delhi had been deprived of all real power. One rebel race after another fought against their Emperors; but the custom that there should be a titular King at Delhi was not interrupted till it seemed to be almost as inevitable as a law of nature. There might be power elsewhere, but for royalty, why where would it be sought but at Delhi?

We are so accustomed nowadays to the idea that we are the acknowledged rulers of India that it will come as a surprise to most people to know that, even 60 years ago, the nominal ruler of India was a King in Delhi. Long after Clive had won the battle of Plassy and Wellington had clashed with the fiery few and won at Assaye; long after Warren Hastings had consolidated the British power; even after we had conquered one claimant after another for the rule of India—Mahratta and Sikh, and greatest of all, the French—yet for all that, the British envoy never approached the King of Delhi without making a present and offering him all the outward signs of a subject approaching an all-powerful ruler.

So it is part of the Indian outlook, one of the things that are taken for granted, that when Empire is to be displayed Delhi shall be its centre. The Durbar shall be there.

If that is so to the native, then it is one great reason why it shall be so to the Anglo-Indian statesman as well. For England has found out that the secret of rule is considerateness. Not "divide and ride," but "understand and rule." Natives cannot be ruled by patting their backs or smoothing their hair. There must be all-needful power and severity. But at the back of it all has been, and is, a considerateness for the people ruled which makes the British rule of India a new era in the history of the world's statesmanship. The statesman knows what Delhi means to the native; that to him is the most convincing reason for acquiescing in the decision.

In reading the story of the great mutiny of 1857, the sentimental importance of Delhi comes out very clearly. The first news that went to England was of handfuls of British engaged in desperate struggles against overwhelming forces of rebel Sepoys at many different places. So it was at Lucknow, round the glorious Residency that no Englishman can see without a thrill of the pulse. So it was at Cawnpore, where, alas, relief came too late, and the saddest tragedy in British history was enacted. So it was at Delhi, at Agra, at countless other places; so it seemed likely to be all over India.

Then, out of the mad rage and awful anxiety it began to become clear that the situation at Delhi was different from that at other scenes of strife. Why did not the garrison at Lucknow retreat? They were hemmed in; they could not; Henry Lawrence gave the watchword, "Every man die at his post." Why did not the heroic band at Cawnpore retreat? Alas, they tried to, and met their doom, which maddened England as perhaps no story has ever done. Sir John Tenniel's cartoon of "The British Lion's Vengeance on the Bengal Tiger" stands unique in our history—witness of a time when the mildest "saw red" and clamoured for indiscriminate slaughter and revenge.

But why did not the force at Delhi retreat? For a totally different reason. It was not that they could not; but they would not. At Lucknow our people fought for life; at Delhi they fought for Empire. Both Sepoys and British knew it well; the stakes were on the board; the prize was India. So on the ridge outside Delhi, for three months a tiny army set its teeth and besieged a walled city. Surely there never was such a story of fighting! Surely there never could be no such sublime "cheek" as that of those few tenants of the Ridge.

Delhi was India. So on that Ridge the generals said they could not, and the statesmen said they must, take Delhi. Every mutinous regiment at once made for Delhi. Every spare British gun and soldier was at once hurried to Delhi. The fate of India was there played for. And in one of the most heroic assaults ever delivered, it was settled. Nothing was lacking to round off the episode; its leader died, like Nelson, in the moment of victory; the King of Delhi was captured, tried in his own palace, deposed, and banished. India was ours. The remaining resistance was only the desperation of the doomed.

And if the native and the statesman agree in locating this unique pageant at Delhi, the visitor from abroad has certainly no quarrel with it. For there could not be a more picturesque setting for a splendid pageant. There is a gorgeousness both of past and present, a flavour of the wonderful and dramatic, that is obvious even to those who know least of the past.

Take your stand upon the ridge at Delhi. Climb to the gallery of the Mutiny Monument. Better still, go out to the most beautiful tower that earth can show, the Kutab Minar at Old Delhi. From one or other spot look out over the plain. What does one see?

There are the "rose-red walls of Delhi, half as old as time." Here is a patch of ground where men have lived—really lived, not merely existed—lived and struggled for wide Empire for over 30 centuries. What is it that makes a place historic? That great issues, good or bad for more people than those who lived close by, have there been decided. Then Delhi is historic. What makes a place interesting to the eye that sees back beyond the present? That great men, men who could see their way through big problems, men with will like a dividing spear, have there lived and dreamed, and planned, and risked. Then Delhi is interesting. We must not wander into a history far too little known, for none could be more dramatic; but a place where Tamburlaine and Akbar, Prithir Raja, and Aurungzeb and Shivaji, John Lawrence, and John Nicholson, and Hodson, and Lord Lake, have done great and characteristic deeds, must rank high in the first-class of cities that are really interesting.

As a background to the coming pageant of December 12, 1911, we look out upon a city and a desolation. A city containing the most glorious palace ever built where lived the most luxurious court ever known, which, coming to the knowledge of Europe about the time of Queen Elizabeth, made the splendour of the Great Moghul a proverb and a dream. And a desolation the like of which can be seen nowhere else. Forty-five square miles of ruins surrounding a living city! "History has no record of a time when there was not a commanding city on the banks of the Jumna." At least eight fortified cities have stood on this site; the plain has been swept by a hundred armies, and heard the roar of a thousand battles. Massacre, ruin, fire, all the ghastly accompaniments of clashing nations, Delhi has heard them all, not once, but over and over again. The great Tower of Victory of eight hundred years ago will look out over this, the greatest of its pageants, the symbol of the rule of the greatest of its conquerors. The scene will feast the eye, and it will move the mind to something deeper than a mere boastful glorying in guns and battalions.

LORD STRATHCONA'S FEAT OF TRAVEL.

Although in his ninety-second year, Lord Strathcona, High Commissioner for Canada, has just accomplished a travelling feat which would tax the energies of many younger men. In 16 days he has travelled 10,000 miles, and transacted much important business. He reached Euston by the boat train on his return from Winnipeg recently, and looked none the worse for his "hustle." Lord Strathcona left London on September 22 (states a London contemporary), and in the evening boarded the Mauretania. On her arrival at New York, he left immediately on a 1600-mile train journey to Winnipeg, where he was due two days later to attend an important meeting of the Hudson Bay Company, of which he is a director, and which was the object of his journey. After a few hours in Winnipeg, Lord Strathcona left again for home, travelling via Ottawa, Montreal, and New York, where he joined the Mauretania again on her return voyage. On his way he found time to spend a day at Ottawa with Mr. Borden, the new Canadian Premier. When a press representative asked him, on his arrival in London, the secret of his extraordinary virility, he said that he did not know it himself. "But there is no secret about my journey," he added; "that is due to the speed with which we are able to travel in these days. I do not claim any credit for it. It is due to the remarkable developments which have taken place in shipping and locomotive engineering." When it was pointed out that few men over 90 years of age could stand such a rush across ocean and continent, Lord Strathcona replied: "Oh, ninety is middle age in these days of travel." On the average Lord Strathcona travelled just over 620 miles per day. The detailed distances covered are as follows:—Outward journey: London to Liverpool, 201 miles; Liverpool to New York, 3053 miles; New York to Toronto, 400 miles; Toronto to Winnipeg, 1237 miles. Homeward journey: Winnipeg to Montreal, 1414 miles; Montreal to New York, 384 miles; New York to Liverpool, 3053 miles; Liverpool to London, 201 miles. Total, 9942 miles.

There are thousands of persons to-day enjoying good health because they took Chamberlain's Tablets.—Advt.

SYDNEY.

THE QUEEN CITY OF THE PACIFIC.

(BY A.M.)

CURIOSITIES.

The evolution of Sydney will issue from two influences—that of the corporate civic activity of government, and that of the individual civic activity of citizenship. In reality they are the one influence, for there can be no effective civic government without individual citizenship, which, indeed, is the essential impulse of all government. At present the city is in a condition on the one hand of municipal awakening, and on the other hand of municipal confusion. Pride of citizenship will have to urge the one to its goal, and by so doing disperse the other. The commercial growth of Sydney is everywhere evident. But we are not concerned here with that. At least we are only concerned with it in so far as it points the moral in view. In the opinion of the writer, Sydney cannot be regarded as a great city while its existing civic deficiencies persist. There are too many of them. Its commercial growth magnifies the city's importances, and fans the fortunes of its business community. But it does not help the city's needs as a city. Rather, it emphasises them, draws attention to them, drags them from their aforetime hidden insignificances into the light of day. The business development of Sydney, that is to say, is one-sided civic development. Notwithstanding Sydney's prosperity, the fabric of the city is in most places at standstill; in some places is substituting for undistinguished mediocrity an upbuilding that is only a little less mediocre. In a few places the city grows by painful inches towards real civic stature. The interior economy of Sydney is defective in a hundred details. Modern civic equipment which has become a commonplace in other cities of the world, is as yet unthought of here, or if thought of at all, thought of only with a view to further thought some day, somehow. And if our business prosperity has done little for the outer adornment of the city or the inner economy of civic organisation, it has certainly done little for our development in the things of the spirit.

The awakening of Sydney to its needs—its deficiencies, that is—is most obvious in the recent practical work of the City Council upon road schemes, in the occasional concern of the Government as to the advisableness of doing something, and in the individual provision here and there for beautification of what has too long sufficed for the material fabric of the city. That awakening is also obvious in manifestations which, though they are generally allowed to drift into the limbo of the might have been, indicate, for all that, some sense of recognition that things are not what they ought to be. Such are the recommendations of the Royal Commission of 1908, which emphasised, or disclosed, civic defects of a range wide enough to condemn any city as below its function. Such also are the complaints of individual citizens, more and more insistent, as to various detail of civic paraphernalia. Unfortunately, we have the defects of our qualities, and it is our way that these efforts toward citizenship shall be but sporadic, fragmentary, at more or less long intervals, and easily to be replaced in public interest by the latest ephemeral excitement. So, from being urgent complaint they dwindle to a murmur and they die. They deserve so much more of us too. For they are well-based, and they voice real needs, and focus obvious defects. Think, for example, of that aspect or our ill-equipped civic economy which is concerned with the growth of the city on the North Shore of the harbour. There, side by side with a civic transformation, is a monument of official incapacity. The system of communication which served that northern outskirt when it was a scattered hamlet, still serves it, hopelessly inadequate, obsolete, a grotesque anachronism. There is the harbour traffic, too, and its hotch-potch of confused congestion in the narrow area of Sydney Cove, where numerous ferry services are allowed to jostle their way into the Quay, with all their old and local out-of-date methods of passenger handling thick upon them. There is the condition of the Quay itself, as an outlet of harbour traffic, and of city traffic. The crudity of that danger zone, where everything is left to blind chance, and civic supervision is helpless, is a disgrace which no European or American city would allow to exist at all, to say nothing of making no attempt upon its extinction.

There is further the tramway system of Sydney itself. That, as we know, is airily summed up by authority, whenever a festive occasion gives opportunity to say something, as "the best in the world." What that may mean, precisely, is not quite clear, but the writer, having travelled in the trams of many great cities, seems to remember for one thing a widely-used and increasingly favoured medium of motive power by conduit, which did not disfigure the streets with overhead wires. He knows also that in those cities such disgraceful overcrowding as that of the Sydney trams, so far from being encouraged by authority, would be put down with a decisively firm hand. Certainly, in none of those cities was a suburban railway terminus held to be a "central" station, when it was really far outside the middle of the city, and, as a consequence, trams were not called upon to perform the functions of a city railway. The writer is absolutely certain, further, that wherever he travelled on a tramway system, whether at Glasgow in the north of Britain, or Bristol in the south, or in Berlin in northern Germany, or Naples in southern Italy, or in any town from New York to Vancouver, he met with no such lack of skill in tram driving as that endured by Sydney travellers to their constant inconvenience by jolt and jerk and their frequent danger. These things may be held to be part and parcel of a "best system in the world." On the other hand, that summing up of our tramway achievement may be but one more example of the leisurely self-complacency which passes so freely among us for critical acumen. If, by chance, the claim is based upon the bulk totals of tramway passenger figures, the fact should not be lost sight of that in Sydney the tram is practically the only public vehicle. There are no 'buses, and the cab traffic is a small thing. In London £10,000 a day is spent in cab fares alone, and there are 7000 taxi-cabs on the streets, beside hundreds of motor-'buses, to say nothing of the complex of underground traffic. And that consideration last-named suggests at its height the feebleness of our claim to possession of "the best tramway system in the world." For the surface tramways in the central streets of Sydney belong to the traffic systems of years ago. They are unequal to their task; they are out of date; they are a civic anomaly. They are a slow-moving traffic medium usurping the place of a city and suburban underground railway scheme which should by now be well in hand, but has advanced no single step beyond its recommendation stage of years ago. The trams in the central streets of Sydney are virtually a street railway system, with all its disadvantages and none of its conveniences. The danger to the public, moreover, in this best system in the world is already great, and is increasing daily. The traffic provision in New York includes the ghastly overhead railway system—the combined ugliness and din of which ruins the appearance and the comfort of every street in which it runs—a surface tramway, and underground tubes. There are thousands of motor vehicles in New York, the result being that the surface trams running upon narrow thoroughfares similar to ours, are constantly immersed in a procession of the swifter moving vehicles. Passengers board and leave those trams at constant and unceasing risk, in the muddled traffic control of the American metropolis, of life and limb. Motor car use is in its infancy here, but growing rapidly. Soon, now, we shall begin to kill people by the simple process of knocking them down by motor-cars as they leave the trams.

The resumption work of the City Council, admirable as far as it goes, is most impressive in respect of its revelation of what requires to be done, and of what remains to do. Oxford-street is just now opening out to its intended breadth. If anyone will stand a minute in Oxford-street and make a careful survey of the surroundings which used to be hidden, but are now temporarily visible, he will be amazed at the stretch of mean streets and poor habitations disclosed to his view. The extensions on the other side similarly reveal the city in those localities as needing not so much opening up here and there, as wholesale demolition and replanning. There are other curiosities of the civic organisation of Sydney, both in respect of its central manifestations and those of its growing suburbs. They deserve detailed examination, with special reference to the fact, daily more apparent, that Greater Sydney, and the comprehensive scheme of municipal government for which it stands, is our only chance of achieving a great Sydney. And Greater Sydney must come quickly if it is not to be faced with an impossible task.

THE CHURCHES.

THE CHURCH AND DEMOCRACY.

The Bishop of London in his recent address at the Anglican Church Congress made some interesting observations on the subject of the Church and the labour movement. Why, he asked, had the Church not more influence upon the rising tide of democracy? He noticed with thankfulness that in England the labour movement was avowedly and definitely religious, as witness the addresses of Labour members and their active participation in Christian work. Why were they not looking more than they were to the historic Church of England for sympathy, guidance, and advice? He believed the first reason was that, consciously or unconsciously, churchmen were influenced still by class prejudice; and, secondly, that this spoiled the real sympathy which the Church wished to give. The toiling millions were not interested in their ecclesiastical controversies, or whether, for example, a stole was legal. There was nothing whatever wrong with the Church or its sacraments, its ministry, or its ceremonial. What was amiss was fatal class prejudice and caste feeling. These must be laid aside for ever; they must lay aside the parish manner and let their working-class friends know their real tastes, loves, and aspirations. They must cease to believe that anyone who did not come regularly to church was therefore irreligious, and must frankly recognise that good in any form could only come from God. "May," said the Bishop in conclusion, "this congress help to turn the tide."

The Archbishop, Dr. Wright, leaves Sydney on Monday for Bathurst, where he will assist in the enthronement of the new Bishop, which will take place on Tuesday. On Wednesday he will hold a confirmation at Christ Church, North Sydney, on Thursday at St. John's Church, Ashfield, and on Friday at Christ Church, Enmore.

Next Saturday, commencing at 6 a.m., the members of the Churches of Christ in and around Sydney will unite in an effort to erect a church building of considerable dimensions in one day. The site fixed is on the corner of St. Hellier's and Parramatta roads, Auburn, opposite the Sydney Meat Preserving Company's works. The building will be twenty-five feet by sixty-six; and when completed will seat one hundred and sixty, and provide three vestries. One hundred and twenty men have enrolled, including the architect, Mr. W. H. Terry, and several master builders. The ladies of the Auburn congregation, in conjunction with the sisters' conference of the Churches of Christ in New South Wales, will attend to the catering for the men. Coaches will run from the Auburn railway station to the ground at frequent intervals.

Mr. S. S. Addison, B.Sc., president of the Australasian Christian Students' Union, says that the movement in Australia and New Zealand has a membership of 3682 students and professors in 68 unions. Unions have been formed in the Royal Military College of Australia and the Brisbane University, in both of which practically 75 per cent. of the students have joined, and a number have taken up Bible study. The movement in Australasia now employs five secretaries. The student volunteer movement has a membership of 307 men and women, who have signed the declaration to become foreign missionaries. Of this number 86 have sailed for the foreign field.

Anglican churchmen are looking forward with much interest to the visits of several well-known English clergymen, who are coming to Australia shortly, including Bishop d'Arcy, of Ossory, Canon Simpson, of St. Paul's, London, and the Rev. J. Watts-Ditchfield, the well-known social reformer. The Bishop of London is also likely to visit Australia in connection with the Brisbane Church Congress in September, 1913, and on his way will deliver a series of addresses in Sydney and Melbourne.

In aid of St. Clement's Church, Marrickville, a four days' sale of work and fancy fair was opened in the school hall by Mrs. C. Barnett on Wednesday. There was a very large attendance. The school was prettily decorated, and the stalls—12 in number—were well loaded with goods. The amount of takings on the first day was £85 10s 7d.

The Rev. J. H. Williams, rector of Cudal, and the Rev. Mr. Marina, of Peak Hill, have (with the sanction of the Vicar-General), exchanged parishes. Rev. H. E. Rodgers, of the Forbes parish, has taken up his duties at Cudal as curate.

The Right Rev. Monsignor O'Haran has been staying at the Bishop's House, Ponsonby, N.Z., intending shortly to proceed to Rotorua.

Speaking at Woollahra on Sunday, Dr. Donovan, K.C., made some interesting statements concerning the state of religious instruction in France, a country which was nominally Catholic. About one-third were Catholic, the rest either indifferent Catholics or infidels.

The Bishop of Goulburn will bless the foundation-stone of St. Mary's School, Crookwell, on Sunday next.

Dr. Gallagher, Roman Catholic Bishop of Goulburn, blessed the foundation-stone of a new church at Ariah Park on Sunday last.

Archbishop Kelly will lay the foundation-stone of the new school-church at Stanmore on Sunday, December 10.

At 8 o'clock on Thursday morning Archbishop Kelly, assisted by Archpriest Collins and Father McDermot, president of St. Patrick's College, Manly, held an ordination service in the Cathedral, which was attended by about 400 people, a good proportion being students. The service lasted about two hours. The Revs. A. Hennessy, N. McGloin, J. Lonergan, B. Roper, and Denis O'Keefe were ordained to the priesthood, and together celebrated Mass in association with the Archbishop. Father Brauer officiated as master of ceremonies.

The Rev. Thomas Gavan Duffy, youngest son of the late Sir Charles Gavan Duffy, will shortly enter on his work as a Roman Catholic missionary at Pondicherry, India.

A meeting was held at the residence of Mr. Wm. Pendlebury on Friday, November 24, to discuss the building of a Methodist church at Hurlstone Park. A large gathering was present, the Rev. Mr. Taylor, of Dulwich Hill, occupying the chair. It was stated that a sum of money was in hand for the purchase of the land, and a committee of five was formed to select a site. Another meeting has been arranged for December 8.

The Rev. A. H. Tolhurst has resigned the pastorate of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

The Rev. Geo. C. Grubb, M.A., after a series of very successful conventions in Victoria, has again returned to Sydney. Taking advantage of his presence, the Sydney Convention Band arranged for two conventions, one of which has just been concluded at Petersham. The second is to be held next week in the Pitt-street Congregational Church from Monday to Friday—afternoon sessions at 3.30, evening sessions at 7.45. The Rev. Geo. Grubb will be the chairman and one of the principal speakers. The Monday afternoon meeting will be for ministers only. Mr. Grubb is regarded as one of the best of convention speakers, and a clear and forcible exponent of Scriptural truth.

Mr. H. K. Gordon, deputation secretary of the British and Foreign Bible Society, will be returning next week from six weeks of deputation work in the south and south-west districts.

The Rev. F. C. B. Fairey has just concluded a month's deputation work for the society in the Riverina, taking in all the towns from Hay to Cootamundra.

The anniversary services of the Rawson Hall and Seamen's Mission were terminated on Wednesday evening by a tea-meeting in the main hall. A very large gathering was present, and in the unavoidable absence of Mr. E. Vickery the Rev. P. J. Stephen occupied the chair. The report of the work done by the mission during the year was presented by Seamen's Missionary Townsend, and showed that the attendance at the mission during the year had been more than doubled, in one week no fewer than 500 men having availed themselves of its hospitality. Addresses were also delivered by the Rev. H. C. Foreman and Mr. H. M. Hawkins.

A Christmas party is again being arranged by the members of the Young Women's Christian Association, and will be held on Boxing Day. Instead of inviting children from Woolloomooloo, as in the past two years, each member will have the privilege of asking some little needy children from the city or suburbs. Tickets will soon be ready for association members to distribute, and a happy time is anticipated.

The Guild of Helpers of the Young Women's Christian Association returned last Thursday evening from Austinmer, where they had their first experience of a summer camp. The campers spent the week in getting spiritual and social refreshment, and have come back invigorated with renewed zeal. During the year these "guild" members have been engaged as honorary workers, giving time each week to a variety of services, such as waiting on the business girls in the restaurant in the lunch hour, gladdening the busier girls in the city workrooms with their songs and flowers, helping with office work, and in many other ways rendering useful honorary assistance.

In consequence of the increased cost of building, the amount estimated to be required for the building operations of the Young Women's Christian Association has been raised from £20,000 to £26,000. With the first £10,000 of this amount already in hand, it is anticipated that the remainder will not be long forthcoming.

Evangelist Frederick G. Pitt, who has just arrived in Sydney, initiated a mission on Sunday last in connection with the Reorganised Latter-Day Saints at the Saints' Church, Macaulay-street, Leichhardt. Mr. Pitt, who is accompanied by his wife, an able musician and accompaniste, has met with considerable success in other parts of the world, having travelled extensively in America, the British Isles, Europe, Palestine, and Australia.

The Rev. J. A. Craigen has received a unanimous call to the pastorate of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Grenfell. The ordination and induction will take place on December 12, and will be performed by the Presbytery of Young.

Mr. Donald Finlayson, who has been for some time acting as one of the assistants to the Rev. G. R. S. Reid in the Presbyterian parish of Narrandera, leaves for the old country to-day by the outward-bound Aberdeen liner. Mr. Finlayson's intention being to take a course of study in the old country and return to Australia.

The Rev. J. Beith Wilson, Presbyterian minister of Victoria, is at present on holiday in Sydney.

The Rev. G. Edwards has accepted a call to the Presbyterian congregation at Tenterfield, and leaves for his new charge next week.

The Presbyterian congregation at Berry is to hold a meeting on Monday evening for the purpose of giving a call to a minister.

The Rev. Hugh Paton, evangelist, is holding successful mission meetings in connection with the Kiama Presbyterian congregation.

Information has been received at the Presbyterian Church offices that the Rev. Thomas M'Vittie, a minister of the Church of Scotland, has been commissioned to the Church in New South Wales, and will arrive on or about the 8th inst.

The Rev. J. T. Thorburn was inducted to the Presbyterian charge of Eskbank by the Presbytery of Bathurst on October 29.

The following figures emphasise the rapidly-growing importance of the Y.M.C.A. movement throughout the world, and testify to its undoubted value:—Total number of associations throughout the world, 8052; membership, 1,000,000; total value of property throughout the world, £17,000,000. During the year 12 cities raised £1,748,000 for buildings, and in addition 82 new buildings are now in course of erection, at an average cost of £1,182,500, the whole of which amount has been subscribed.

It is significant that the policy of the international movement for 1912 is that every association throughout the world should emphasise the study of the Bible for the building of character. The Young Men's Christian Association has set itself to restore the Bible to the first place in the lives of young men. The Sydney Y.M.C.A. is planning a Bible study programme, which will contain many new features.

The Christmas camp of the junior section of the Sydney Y.M.C.A. will be held at Gerringong, and Mr. R. O. Clack, assistant general secretary, will be in charge.

The clause in the Electoral Bill which specifies Saturday as the polling day is seriously opposed by the Seventh Day Adventists, who conscientiously observe Saturday as the Sabbath, and who will thus be debarred from voting. The executive committee of the Australasian Union Conference of Seventh Day Adventists have therefore addressed a letter to the Prime Minister, Mr. Fisher, calling his attention to the fact. If the day of voting cannot now be changed they request that the hours of voting may be extended to 8.30 or 9 p.m., so that they may be able to vote after sundown, at which hour the Sabbath closes.

TEACHERS' SCHOLARSHIPS.

SUCCESSFUL STUDENTS

The successful competitors in the examinations for entrance to the Teachers' College were made known yesterday by the Education Department. At the end of the second year the most meritorious students are awarded third year scholarships to enable them to either complete their graduation at the University, or to study some special subjects. Fourth year scholarships are given to those who require an additional year to complete their studies for the science degree.

Hitherto, the scholarships have been of two grades, A and B, the B award carrying half the monetary allowance of the A. As recently announced, however, the B scholarship has now been abolished, and all the students named below will be granted A scholarships from January 1, subject to their passing the necessary medical examination.

The awards carry allowances of £50 a year in cases where the holder has to board away from home, and £30 (instead of £20 as heretofore) in cases where the holder is able to live at home with his parents.

The names are in order of merit.

WOODS' AUSTRALIAN DIARIES.

Messrs. John Andrew and Co. forward sample copies of the 1912 issue of Woods' Australian Dairies, hand-books, and works of reference, as well known to as they are valued by the public. The new issue is on the high level customary to the work of the firm, and the variety of format is as lavish as ever. Rough diaries, pocket diaries, office, and scribbler series, comprise but some of their range, and in all sizes the general set-out of the books is excellent. Twenty-six years of publication have established Woods' Australian Diaries as a very hardy annual, and the amount of useful information they contain in a small space, as well as their convenient arrangement for purposes of daily record, quite justifies their popularity. They will be widely sought, no doubt, in their new issue, which, indeed, fully maintains their old reputation.

REAL ESTATE.

NOTES OF THE WEEK.

People who run away with the idea that there is a land boom in Sydney had only to closely watch the real estate market this week to understand the fallacy of such a statement. The big firms of Pitt-street had very poor auction sales this week. The catalogues contained some really good lots of city and suburban property, but hardly any of it was sold. The bidding was brisk up to a point where 5 or 6 per cent. net was shown as a margin of profit, but beyond that buyers were not inclined to go. Temple-court, at the corner of King and Elizabeth streets, was passed in yesterday at £30,500. The freehold of the Victoria Arcade, opposite the Australia Hotel, and with frontages to Castlereagh and Elizabeth streets, was passed in at £40,000. Of course, at the price required, which is only a few thousands over the amount offered, the property would not pay more than 3 per cent. just now. The whole block is let out on a building lease at a rental of £1600. This lease has yet five years to run, and returns in rentals £5800 annually; but when the lease is out there could be a return of 10 per cent. It is quite on the cards that the property will change hands within the next few days.

A city property at the corner of Bridge and Young streets was passed in at £20,000. These premises are at present in the occupation of Messrs. Winchcombe, Carson, and Co. The property at the corner of Castlereagh, Elizabeth, and Goulburn streets occupied by Messrs. S. T. Leigh and Co. and also land at Church Hill and George-street West, were all passed in, the offers not being up to expectations. Some very fine blocks at the corner of Market and Pitt streets received similar treatment.

One or two suburban properties, however, found new owners at the weekly sales, and amongst them a block with a water frontage to Snails Bay of about 200ft was disposed of for £2625. In fact, quite a number of water frontages on the Balmain side have changed hands within the past few months.

But if business is quiet as far as inside sales are concerned, it is just the opposite in the field. Last Saturday no fewer than nine subdivision sales were held, and notwithstanding that an English cricket team was in Sydney, and that the weather conditions were not favourable for travelling, there was a remarkably good attendance at all the sales. Competition all round was keen, and there was a general desire to secure a block of land, but not at a fabulous price, in some popular suburb handy to town, or to get hold of a week-end block with a water frontage at a reasonable rate. For building land Camperdown and Mosman provided two good centres, and every block in both those subdivisions was disposed of at really good prices. Balmoral and Roseville also provided popular sales.

Week-enders at the seaside rolled up to Scotland Island and to Cronulla. At both these centres satisfactory sales were held. The number of allotments sold last Saturday was 232, and the total sales for the afternoon reached over £32,000. The summary is as follows:—

Balmoral (Warringah Estate), 39 lots, £8907.

Camperdown (Camperdown Paddock), 40 lots, £4501.

Mosman (Rangers Estate), 21 lots and house, etc., £7552.

Chatswood (Ashley Estate), six lots, £1024.

Roseville (Clanville Estate), 56 lots, £5350.

Cronulla (Flowerdale Estate), 26 lots, £[illegible].

Cronulla (Shell Beach Estate), 12 lots, £977.

Scotland Island, 22 lots, £2500.

Total, 232 lots, £32,574.

On the previous Saturday only 177 lots were disposed of for sums totalling £16,320, thus the sales of last Saturday just doubled those of the previous week.

A successful Crown land sale was held a week ago. The land submitted was the remaining portions of three subdivisions, viz., Lower Randwick, Lilyvale, and Maroubra. In all there were 49 lots. They were all disposed of at prices 50 per cent. above the upset prices, and the latter ranged from 12s 6d to 25s. These upset prices were more than 100 per cent. above what they were in connection with this land at a sale four or five years ago.

Six acres of land lying between Kensington and Long Bay on the main line was purchased at a Crown land sale held five years ago for £300, which is at the rate of £50 per acre. The same six acres changed hands a few days ago for £1500, or at the rate of £250 per acre.

Several new estates are announced this week, and amongst them is the Torquay Estate, at Middle Harbour, for which there is a big demand for lithographs. Messrs. Hardie and Gorman will offer this land next Saturday, and an announcement is made to-day in our business columns that free tickets for the steamer and the afternoon tea will be ready on Monday. The land is level, and from it splendid views are obtainable. Messrs. Raine and Horne have three new sales announced, one is the Bellagio Estate at Woy Woy on December 30, another is at Barrenjoey on January 26, and at the Hawkesbury River on January 27. The same month a very large estate is to be offered at Bellevue Hill.

The model industrial suburb of Rosebery is being launched with great success. Mr. Stanton stated yesterday that the share list for the flotation of the company is already over-subscribed very much, and each post brought letters from persons applying for shares. One man yesterday, who is in a large way of business, wanted 1000 shares. The idea of the management is to cull out all applicants who are known to be merely putting their money into a concern they realise will be a success, and then in a few years selling out for a profit. Speculators of that kind the company does not favour as its shareholders.

The week-end sales will be continued this afternoon. The catalogue is again a liberal one, and intending buyers will have a fairly large area to work upon.

Messrs. Richardson and Wrench have no less than three sales to conduct. They will submit the 10th subdivision of the picturesque Vaucluse Estate, which comprises 72 large building blocks. Close to the steamer's wharf and tram. The whole of the land, comprising the first nine subdivisions of the estate, has been disposed of at prices which have steadily increased. This district is making excellent progress, and judging from the number who have been inquiring for lithographs to-day's sale ought to be largely attended.

The same firm will also offer 42 blocks at the famous Cronulla. The land faces the tram line, and is not a great distance from the beach.

The third sale to be conducted by Messrs. Richardson and Wrench will be at Eastwood, when the well-known King's Hill Estate will be submitted. This land is at present the recognised football ground of Eastwood. There are in all 70 lots.

Messrs. Hardie and Gorman will offer the Manly View Estate, at North Harbour, which contains what is practically water frontages, there being only a reserve in front. The land is but a couple of minutes' walk from the tram stopping-place at Condamine-street.

To-day Messrs. Arthur Rickard and Co., Ltd., will open up a new subdivision of the well-known Green Acre Estate at Bankstown. In this district this firm has already dispose of something like £50,000 worth of land.

One of the most attractive sales this afternoon will be the Taren Point Estate, in the magnificent and picturesque George's River district. This is the second subdivision. Messrs. Raine and Horne had a very successful sale of the first subdivision, and judging by inquiries the firm believe they will be even more successful this afternoon, as this is the last opportunity of securing land in this district.

The Haymarket P.L. and B.I. Company will sell the Dobroyd Point Estate at Haberfield.

Messrs. H. W. Horning and Co. have a sale to-day at Meadowbank of some very fine building sites.

"ARMSTRONG-WHITWORTH" AGAIN!
THE "WONDER CAR" OF ENGLAND!

OUR SUPREME FAITH IN THIS REMARKABLE CAR IS DEMONSTRATED BY THE FACT THAT WE HAVE PLACED WITH

SIR WILLIAM ARMSTRONG, WHITWORTH, AND CO., LTD.,

THE LARGEST SEPARATE ORDER EVER RECEIVED BY THAT EMINENT FIRM FROM ANY PART OF THE WORLD.

THE EXTRAORDINARY RESULTS

gained in open competitions during 1911 establish this car as being amongst the first in the world. For example, during the Standard Race at Brooklands, in June last, the "Armstrong-Whitworth" went through without any mechanical trouble whatever; and, though it is true that it finished fifth, this was due to the dropping of the number-board, necessitating a stop at a critical moment, the only stop made by the "ARMSTRONG-WHITWORTH" throughout the race, while every other car stopped for various drawbacks, thus losing points. The "ARMSTRONG-WHITWORTH" was the only car that lost no points for defects, and, therefore, CAME FIRST IN RELIABILITY.

The 1912 15-20-h.p. "ARMSTRONG-WHITWORTH" secured FIRST PLACE, SILVER CUP, and GOLD MEDAL in the Manchester Motor Club Hill Climb in September last.

MOTOR CARS OF THE HOUR.

STRAKER-SQUIRE (ALL BRITISH) 10-H.P. 4 CYLINDER HURTU.

With special modifications for Australian roads. This is the best car offered to-day at its price. It gives the driver the least possible amount of trouble. The engine is smooth and silent, and wonderfully lively. Its hill-climbing power is excellent. Its performance on the track of late has been wonderful; 75½ m.p.h. for 8½ miles for a 15-h.p., takes some beating. Have a trial run, that is all we ask; if we do win, then you know what to do.

PRICE FOR 5 SEATER, with standard equipment, as per catalog, £500.

THE TOP VALUE OF THE MARKET.

The best professional car. Absolutely the best little French Runabout To-day at any price. It can do 50 miles to the gallon of petrol. Is light on tyres, easy to handle, and turn about. Strong in build. Handsome in design. Comfortable to ride in. Can do 30 m.p. hour on top gear. Can climb any hill where any other vehicle can get. This little car has no competitor, but is a class in itself. It has every improvement that a car could have if you paid £1000 for it. See it; it will be worth your while. PRICE, equipped as per catalog, £250. Before buying ride in it.

CLEMENT-BAYARD MOTOR CARS SPEAK FOR THEMSELVES.

Extract of a letter from the late Manager, "Motor Transit Company of Australia," Glen Innes:—

"During the time I was managing the Motor Transit Co. of Australia we had plying between Glen Innes and Inverell an 11/16 Clement-Bayard Car, which we purchased at second-hand.

"We did about 60,000 miles with her up to the time of my leaving (she is still going well). Nearly all the running was done between Glen Innes and Inverell over the famous Waterloo Range some of the grades of which are 1 to 6. The car was invariably overloaded, and was given very little care; but in the face of the bad usage she received at our hands, she stood up wonderfully well, and the only repairs that were effected were two ball races for road wheels and a set of new valves."

MR. JOHN LEE, Proprietor of Lee's Line of Motor Cars, between Coonabarabran and Dunedoo, writes us:—

"The 12/18 Clement-Bayard Car I purchased from you last October has given me entire satisfaction. I have no hesitation in saying that it is a marvel to stand the wear and tear over rough roads.

"Up to the present it has covered 40,000 miles, and to-day is better than when purchased. We have frequently had as many as ELEVEN passengers over 70 miles of rough and hilly country. No car has ever had so much ill-usage and less care. Everything is so simple, and my son (only 18 years of age) is prepared to take a full load over any road in Australia, sand and wet thrown in."

Yet another extract of a letter received from a constituent:—

'Dear Sirs,— "AFTER NEARLY 16,000 MILES."

"As you know, I have two 12/18-h.p. Clement-Bayard Cars, 1910 Models. Both of these have now run some 15,000 or 16,000 miles, over all kinds of Australian roads, being all the time used for hiring purposes, often carrying four, five, or even six grown-up persons.

"I have just had the engine of one of them taken to pieces for cleaning purposes, and, if necessary, taking up and refitting the bearings. I am extremely pleased to inform you that I am agreeably surprised to find that the bearings and pistons are so little, if any, worn, that it is absolutely impossible to take up any slack, and consequently I am replacing the parts and putting the car into commission again, after having merely cleaned same.

"This speaks well for the perfect system of Bayard lubrication and quality of material. I might also mention that wear on gear-wheels is scarcely perceptible."

STUDY THE FACTS AND THINK HARD.

If you are buying a Motor Car you can buy a French or other Continental make, an American or a British. You will generally pay a little more for the British than the French, and considerably more than the American, but look at the difference in results.

THE "STAR" CAR

is made by one of the three or four oldest Manufacturers of Motor Cars in England. We can refer you to owners of "STAR" Cars, used for business purposes, like the Automobile Touring Co., Katoomba; J. P. Henry, Uralla; T. R. Marks and Co., Mudgee; who, after three, four, and six years' constant service, find their "STAR" Cars just as profitable to run, and just as cheap to maintain, as at the end of the first year's work.

On the other hand, you will find in every Garage Motor Cars of foreign makes, discarded after three months, six months, or one year, because the cost of repairs and replacements makes them unprofitable to run. You can save £50, £100, perhaps £200 in first cost by buying a cheap foreign Car, but your maintenance charge is a constant and increasing one.

NOTICE. 1912 MODEL CHALMERS.

Owing to the new Tariff rates, coming into force from to-day, this will mean an increase in the price of Motor Cars and Waggons; however, as we have in stock at present a few "CHALMERS" and "EMPIRE" Cars and "GRAMM" Waggons, it is not ROY W. SANDFORD'S INTENTION to raise the price of these, so that intending purchasers should bear this in mind, and all orders taken during the coming week will be supplied at existing prices.

Our new shipment, comprising 15 cars, ex the "Star of Australia," will arrive next Saturday, and after that date we shall be reluctantly compelled to considerably raise the price of our cars.

MR. BUYER.—Should you not take advantage of this offer? You know the reputation of ROY W. SANDFORD'S CARS FOR COUNTRY WORK. IF YOU ARE NOT USING STERNOL—THE LUBRICANT.

HERE'S ANOTHER TESTIMONIAL FROM THE OLD COUNTRY:—

To the Manufacturers of Sternol, telling of success at Brooklands, October 6th, 1911.

Gentlemen,—

Doubtless you are aware that I succeeded in winning the 70 m.p.h. Handicap at Brooklands yesterday on my Cameron Air-cooled Car, and I should like to pay a special tribute to the excellency of your Sternol, which behaved splendidly. You will, of course, understand that, the Cameron being air-cooled, it is imperative to use oil which is absolutely suitable. Of all the oils which I have used, nothing equals Sternol Oil, which I shall abide by in the future, and specially recommend. Yours faithfully,

THE

TWO-SPEED SPEEDWELL.

This Motor Cycle is minus the weak spot of the ordinary machine. It is gear-driven, and has no belt to give trouble. The vast majority of a motor cyclist's worries are caused by the belt—and when this is removed, it naturally makes the machine more reliable and comfortable to ride. Again, the very rigidity of the crank-shaft ensures the transmission of the maximum amount of power developed by the engine, making the two-speed "Speedwell" economical, as well as most reliable.

There are many more important points of superiority about this machine, which we should like to explain to intending motor cycle purchasers.

You are specially invited to call. We remain open till 9 o'clock every Friday night.

"S.P.A.," THE MASTER CAR.

The "S.P.A.," built by the famous engineer, Matteo Ceirano, is acknowledged by the world's best makers as the highest type of Motor Car, and as such is universally imitated and copied. So great is the demand in Europe for these wonderful Cars that only a very limited number can be obtained for Australia. We have a few 15-25 and 25-35 h.p. Chassis just to hand, and are prepared to build and equip bodies to order. Come and inspect the 15-25 h.p. "S.P.A." which made the world's record of 124 miles per hour—then try the next best car. The difference will impress you.

IT ISN'T THE PRICE YOU PAY

FOR MOTOR METAL REPAIR WORK

that counts, it's what you get for your money. You can pay a BIG Price for POOR work—but when I do the necessary repairs you get the BEST possible work for the LEAST possible cost. If you have a leaking or dented Radiator, a bent or twisted Brass Wind Screen, or Lamp, or a cranky Generator, you can't do better than let me fix them up for you. Work called for and delivered. See my New Convex Mudguard before building that new body for your Car.

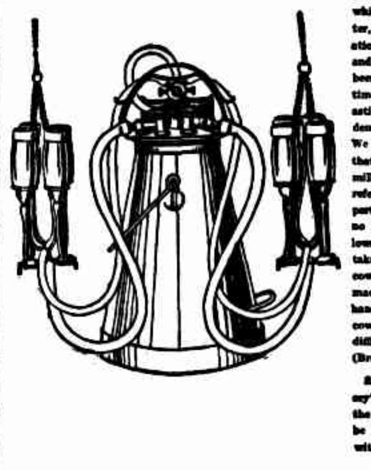
THE "JERSEY" MILKER.
THE SIMPLEST AND THE MOST ECONOMICAL MACHINE OF ITS KIND IN AUSTRALIA.



Repeated successes—constant praise from practical expert dairymen—combined with our own knowledge of the "Jersey" Milker—make it indeed a matter of difficulty for us to avoid statements which, though they are true to the letter, seem to the outsider mere exaggeration. But the fact remains, whenever and wherever the "Jersey" Milker has been tried, it has converted its sometimes sceptical owner into an enthusiastic exponent of machine-milking, as demonstrated by the "Jersey" Milker. We know there are many who maintain that cows do not take kindly to the milking machines. These people we refer to the many testimonials from expert, hard-headed dairymen, who "have no axe to grind," and who say as follows:—"It is wonderful how the cows take to the machine—and a sore-teated cow can be milked with comfort by the machine, where it is a difficulty by hand." (J. A. Munro, St. Peters.) "The cows took to the machines without any difficulty, milking on either side." (Bretton and Dunlop, Narellan.)

Simplicity is the keynote of the "Jersey" Milker's construction—every one of the remarkably few working parts can be thoroughly cleansed and sterilised without difficulty and loss of time.

Both in first cost and subsequent working expenses the "Jersey" Milker is the most economical. And as a proof of its power to save money—thereby giving you increased profits—we quote the following remarks:—

Clifden, Woodville,
26th August, 1910.

Messrs. BUZACOTT and CO., Ltd.

Dear Sirs,—

We are pleased to state that the "Jersey" Milkers purchased from you in April last are giving splendid satisfaction, and have proved themselves to be a great saving in labour. The work of milking 40 cows in good milk, separating, etc., can now be completed in an hour with four machines worked by two men, and a lad to bail up. They are equally satisfactory on large or small teated cows, the machines cause no inconvenience, and the cows all stand perfectly quiet.

While no trouble whatever is caused if the machine is not released when the cow is milked dry, the improvement recently added to our machines by the releaser is a capital idea, and saves a good deal of time. It would be with very great reluctance that we would now be without them. We are thoroughly satisfied with them, and you are at liberty to use our recommendation in any way you wish. We cannot say too much in their favour.

Yours faithfully,
GRAHAM BROS.

We shall be pleased to answer any inquiries, and send Catalogues to anyone writing. The "Jersey" can be installed, ready to work, on your farm, from £35; with freight only extra.

HEDGES.

There is a romance lingering around many old plants used as hedges, as, for instance, the "sweet Eglantine," and the mere mention of "May" or "hips and haws" brings back delightful recollections of childish romps under the shelter of the old hedge. In later life we experience a pleasure in viewing from a height a plain dotted with happy homesteads surrounded by hedges.

But there is also a practical side to the question of what to plant for a hedge, and it behoves us to bear this steadily in mind, because a mistake may mean disaster. Take, for instance, the old gorse. This was introduced into New Zealand in the early days as a hedge plant, and simply took possession of whole districts. So again with the sweetbriar. It is only necessary to take a trip through the Bathurst district to be convinced what a disaster the introduction of this plant proved. It is quite posible that other districts are living in a fool's paradise in regard to this same plant. Those who have had experience of this pest know how extremely hard it is to eradicate once it gets a hold, and, where the progress of growth is slow, the bushes seem for a long time to be few and far between, but eventually comes the awakening that the paddock is briar-infested.

The plant that requires the closest watching is, perhaps, the African boxthorn. Though it undoubtedly makes a good hedge, it has some serious drawbacks. In the first place, it is amongst the worst for harbouring birds. It is also difficult to root out once it becomes established. It would appear also that orchardists who plant this kind of hedge, though they possibly recognise the drawback in regard to birds, do not notice that it is also a prolific breeder of fruit-fly. The berries are, when the fly is prevalent, simply alive with grubs. This is a most serious matter for the orchardist. These berries fatten the parrots and keep them in good breeding trim. Another drawback to this hedge is that the seeds are scattered far and wide by the birds, and seedlings are frequently to be seen about the orchards. The same objection in regard to harbouring and feeding birds applies to the hawthorn, though it does not appear to be such an ideal host for the fruit-fly as the African boxthorn. But, from the orchardist's point of view, at any rate, this hedge is most objectionable from the fact that it harbours black spot. The common olive (Olea Europa) makes a good hedge, but this again is subject to scale of a virulent nature. The Osage orange (Maclura aurantiaca) makes a similar hedge, and is, perhaps, amongst the best of the high-growing kinds. Pittosporums, especially undulatum, make good hedges, but in many parts of Australia they do not grow high enough to be of any utility as breakwinds. P. eugenoides also takes a form of mussel scale.

Amongst the very best of hedges is Cupressus macrocarpa, where it can be grown successfully—and this is over a large area. In common with every other hedge, it is a harbour for birds; but it is remarkably free from disease, it is of dense foliage, and can be trimmed into any desired form. Several others of the cupressus, such as C. Lambertiana, also make a good hedge, but macrocarpa is easily first. Several of the acacias (wattles), especially A. Baileyana (Cootamundra wattle), have been planted as hedges. But the orchardist should take serious thought before trying them. In the first place they harbour at least 17 different pests, apart from birds, including the root-borer. They are also dreadful robbers. Prunus myrobolana (sometimes called cherry-tree plum) is used for a hedge with varying success. If the district in which it is planted becomes infested with slug, the orchardists thereabouts will require to remember the injunction to "watch and spray."

The above is written from a practical viewpoint, hence no mention of such beautiful garden subjects as Eugenia myrtifolia, Duranta Plumerii, a number of the ligustrums, tecomas, viburnums, raphiolepis (Indian hawthorn), and last, but not least, the old English laurel.

IN THE WHEAT BELT.

MORE OF WESTERN METHODS.

IV.

It is evident to our mind that the wheatgrowers about Dubbo will have to improve their methods a very great deal before they obtain proper returns from the wheat lands. The trouble seems to be—although it is certainly contradictory to call it a trouble—that most of the farmers are too prosperous as it is. While it is a very happy position as far as the individual is concerned, it is not a good one as regards the possible development of the land to its fullest extent. Holding large areas, obtained when land values were lower, it is obvious that a profit can be shown where it would not be so if the land had to be purchased at ruling values. From a commercial standpoint the farmer should, presumably, consider his returns relatively to the existing capital value of his land. Otherwise he cannot tell whether he would not enjoy a better income, after allowing for personal exertion, by turning his property into cash, and investing it in some other channel. It is doubtful, however, if many farmers consider their position in such a businesslike way, being content with the fact that they show financial progress. But there appears no reason why sound business methods should not be applied to farming, and it is desirable for that reason that farmers should understand bookkeeping and the object of it. Wheat land may apparently be set down in this locality at an average of about £5 upwards to £8, but there does not appear to be any anxiety to sell, and if a sale is made, probably a bigger figure will be demanded.

Apart from any other consideration, however, it is certain that the growers, taken as a whole, would either have to go out of the wheatgrowing business or adopt better methods, simply on account of the great hold black oats have got in the district. This is really due, to a great extent, to bad farming. The oats, troublesome as they are, can be eradicated by modern methods of handling the land. Whether the conservative local man will undertake this or not, we can't say. If he does, and continues to look after his land, he will find himself more prosperous than ever, a position to which no doubt he would have no objection. If he does not, but just allows things to run their course on present lines, he will not only lose materially himself, but a serious economic question is created.

We have previously pointed out that the community has a direct interest in the manner in which the farmer utilises his land. The community is not likely to remain satisfied if old conservative, wasteful lines are adhered to. On the same principle that the community has had to take action to render large holdings available, on the grounds that a better use should be made of them than was the case with pastoralists, in districts suitable for farming, so the community will demand that the farmer makes the best use of his land. It is but the logical extension of the principle. Obviously there is no more reason why the smaller holder should be allowed to retard national progress than the large holder. The farmer who is, year in and year out, only producing an average of nine or ten bushels of wheat from land that should produce, under proper management, twenty bushels is to all intents and purposes in the same position to the community as the pastoralist who did not produce any wheat at all.

In these matters hope is placed on the younger generation. Any practical man realises that it is a great deal to expect men, particularly men who have been successful according to their lights, to fall easily into new ways and new methods. It is to the fresh young minds that we generally look to take up the work with a broadened outlook, and carry it on until, in the eternal scheme of progress, they too become old-fashioned, as judged by the advanced views of the generation pressing on their heels. But in the older districts in the west there is only too much indication that not much is to be expected from the younger generation. There does not appear at least to be much to promote great expectations. On the contrary, there is a distinct tendency to reckon "what was good enough for the old man is good enough for me." Laudable as such veneration is in some things, it is out of gear with the wheels of progress in farming.

Further, there is not that influx of men from other districts or other States that proves so beneficial in other districts, to any marked degree, nor is there as far as we can see any great temptation to attract them. That is essentially a matter of pounds, shillings, and pence; and land values in the Dubbo district, if a man wants to get in there, do not compare favourably with other districts. If that is so, the new men will, of course, go to the other districts. There may seem a contradiction in protesting against the methods of farming in a district where the landholders are so satisfied that high prices are demanded before they will sell, but on full consideration we don't think any contradiction exists.

Old settlers find themselves through general improvement in conditions in a prosperous position. Their land, owing to rural development, has increased largely in value. Their personal position is such that they have no desire to sell the land, although a fancy price may at times induce them to. That, from the individual standpoint, is a satisfactory position. But they are also not compelled, for the same reason, to derive the most possible from the land, and that from a national standpoint is a very unsatisfactory position. There are, of course, other farmers who are fully utilising their land, and who are practically struggling for an existence. In such cases, of course, the position is unsatisfactory from any standpoint.

The rainfall this year during the wheat season has not been bad in the west. The Dubbo reports show.—March, 75 points; April, 1; May, 184; June, 111; July, 242; August, 170; September, 169; October, 17 points. The rain this month came too late to be any good. This total, 969 points, is only 19 points less than that of Narromine for the same period. But there is an interesting feature about the two rainfalls, for in March Narromine had 103 points, as against 75, a quarter of an inch at a very important time; 264 points in May, against 184; and 216 in September, against 169. There is a decided advantage in these differences in favour of Narromine under ordinary methods of farming. That is why our idea that the average in that district will be a couple of bushels more than in Dubbo is supported by these figures. In both cases the falls are sufficient to account for fairly good crops generally under old methods, but what a fine average they would have been responsible for if fallowing had been the rule instead of the paltry exception. More particularly as there were heavy falls in both districts during the summer months.

A good deal of the area sown was cut for hay in the Dubbo district, as in the Wellington district, and we should think another two or three thousand acres can be added to the estimated area of 10,000 acres set apart for this purpose. Of course, taking the district generally, the farmers will get profitable crops, and, no doubt, be satisfied with the final outcome. They are, as stated, generally considered to be in a comfortable condition, and another profit will be accepted as proof that there is nothing much wrong with the district or with their methods. Certainly there is nothing wrong with the district. All things considered, it treats those who have its destiny in their hands just now much better than they deserve. The farmers will philosophically decide that it only wanted a good fall of rain in October to have given them a bumper year. That is not far from the truth, but surely it is worth while considering whether they could not have had a bumper year, judged by present standards, with conditions as they were if they had treated their land more kindly.

Their good sense will tell them that these criticisms are only written in the hope of benefiting the district and the men who do the hard work in it. We are only sorry that the rains did not come, and come bounteously, when they were wanted, although we know well that had such been the case the advocacy of better farming methods would have been a harder task than ever.

Since the above was written it is learned that the damage through the bleaching of the grain will not be as great as was at first feared. Farmers generally estimate the depreciation in value at about 1d a bushel.

THE WOOL TRADE.

STRONG POSITION MAINTAINED.

There has been no falling away during the week from the strong position of the previous week in the Sydney market. The other Australian selling centres have been moving on similar straight lines; and the London market, when the sixth series of sales opened on Tuesday last, had perforce to reflect the soundness of the Australian position in force during the last few weeks. Thanks to the keen Continental demand, supplies promise to keep well within trade requirements; for there is very little, if any, probability of this season's production showing any increase over the 1910-11 clip. The season is an early shearing and selling one. Fully seven-eighths of the clip have come to the seaboard, and the Sydney weekly series of sales seem likely to draw to a close early in February next. There are only five more selling days in the Sydney market prior to the Christmas-New Year holiday adjournment; and the second half of the weekly series will not be resumed till Monday, January 15.

These are factors that should make for a far different position in January next to the artificial state of affairs that was brought about 10 to 11 months ago; when a slump was brought about largely by the fictitious reports of an "enormous increase." That cuckoo cry has not been heard in England this season. The "bear" raid had to be carried out without any particular cry, reliance being placed on the usual policy of quoting lower prices for future delivery of tops than current wool values would admit of. This was persisted in as long as possible, but the futility of the bull-dozing process without some such cry as "a 200,000 to 300,000 bales increase" to back it up, soon became apparent, and the "bears" soon had to hedge. They are probably seeking cover at the present time, and far from finding it easy.

When the auctions closed in the Sydney market on Thursday last there was an adjournment till Monday, December 11, in order to admit of the fourth series of sales in Brisbane being held. This is in conformity with the roster drawn up at the beginning of the current wool season. About 42,000 bales will be catalogued in the northern centre next week, and the offerings will be representative of the principal wool-growing districts of Queensland. Buyers from Sydney are already en route to Brisbane, and a successful series is anticipated.

Eleven catalogues were submitted in Sydney this week, aggregating 48,497 bales, of which 43,711 bales were cleared at auction. Competition was general, and values were firm, the demand continuing strongest on the finer grades, which sold at very full rates. As the selections included some choice super lines, some high prices were again realised. The Continental section continued to prove the strongest, and hold the best limits; consequently they secured the bulk of the purchasings. Germany was the most active, with France very little less alert. Japan was also in evidence on the best lines, while Yorkshire was not so quiet as previously. America has not shot out, so far, to any extent; and the prospects are not very encouraging from that quarter. Writing on the position of imported wools in the Boston market on October 19 last the American "Wool and Cotton Reporter" said it was a long while since there had been so little trading in foreign wool. Conditions had not altered for some weeks, and no manufacturers were using foreign wools excepting those who were absolutely compelled to do so in order to keep up the regular grade of their goods. Wherever it was possible the samples were made from domestic wools, and at that time local dealers showed almost no interest in the foreign grades. Certain kinds of Australian wool have frequently been substituted for braids and common, but at the current prices manufacturers cannot afford to purchase these Australian wools.

Rates current for the principal descriptions of staple now coming forward in the Sydney market may be given as follows:—

OFFERINGS AND SALES.

Four catalogues opened the market on Monday last, aggregating 11,752 bales, of which 9953 bales were sold at auction. This was a larger percentage of withdrawals than usual, owing to prices in a number of cases not coming up to owners' ideas of values. The offerings comprised a large proportion of medium and average wools, with a number of noted clips in good order, several lines showing good breeding and character. Competition was strong for wools of fine quality, which sold relatively better than the lower grades. The highest price in the grease was 14d, realised for 21 bales 1st com w of RHH/Uralla, a well-grown wool of good quality; 25 bales 1st com of the Gurnee clip from Inverell sold at 13¾d, beautiful quality, nice handle, and very bright. BMO (Harden) sold to 13¾d, and C. Marina (Young) to 13½d.

There was a much better clearance on Tuesday than on the opening day, the offerings totalling 10,641 bales, and the sales at auction 10,160 bales. The two catalogues included a number of well-grown wools of fine quality, consequently the offerings were very attractive, and drew forth the full strength of the demand for the wools that are in best request. It was a buoyant market, and values ruled well up to previous rates, with an occasional tendency in sellers' favour. Greasy sold to 14½d for 10 bales 1st h w e of Kalangan (Galong), a fine, soft, free wool, in good condition. GRG in dia./New England (Walcha) sold to 13¾; Surveyor's Creek/New England (Walcha), 13¾d; Horton River/V/WEA/Barraba, 13½d; Capel/Derra (Bingara), 13½d; and AA (Blandford), 13½d.

There was no falling away in the attractiveness of the offerings as the week progressed. On Wednesday two catalogues were submitted, totalling 12,264 bales, of which 11,634 bales were cleared at auction. The offerings included a good showing of super wools in the grease, and a large line of scoured from Queensland. With such a good display of high-class wools offered competition was animated, and values firm at its best point. Greasy sold to 13¾d, paid for 17 bales 1st e of CY/Cobbadah (Barraba), and the same figure for 28 bales of RAW/Clerkness/New England; while lines to touch 13½d were LBD/Collarene/Barraba, and HS/Greenhills/Adelong. In scoureds 20½d was paid for 123 bales of Albilbah (Isisford, Q.), good quality and colour, bulky, light.

Three catalogues submitted on Thursday aggregated 13,851 bales, of which 12,260 were realised at auction. Included in the offerings, which comprised a good showing of well-bred wools, were one or two super lines; parcels touched with burr, however, were considerably in evidence. Competition was animated, and values ruled firm, crossbreds, when free, being in good demand. Greasy sold to /15½, secured for 31 bales 1st h w e of CTE/Sobraon/New England, from Armidale, a wool fine, soft, bright, and silky. ATN/Burl/New England (Walcha) sold to 13¾d, and RE Chapman/Gwydir Park/New England, from Uralla, and VGM (Molonglo), to 13¾d. In scoureds a line of 9 bales 1st of CC Bourke sold at 18½d.

The offerings and sales by the various selling houses for the season to date are as follows:—

INTERSTATE MARKETS.

In addition to the usual sales in Melbourne and Geelong, auctions have been held this week in Adelaide. On Monday last, after an interval of three weeks, auctions were held in the South Australian capital, making the fifth series for the current season. About 28,000 bales were offered. Good merinos ruled firmer than at the fourth series, while medium and inferior grades were in good demand at unchanged rates.

According to Melbourne reports the market there has ruled very firm; American competition being in evidence for suitable lines. Western district wools have been offered in larger volume, and there has been less tender wool showing than for several years previously; merino, comeback, and crossbred all appearing in good, well-grown condition. Super wools have improved, and good wools show a hardening tendency; while medium grades have been without change. Comebacks and fine crossbreds, bright, and in light condition, have been in active demand; bright and light coarse grades have also been very firm, but shabby, heavy sorts have been dull and irregular.

The offerings and sales to the dates given have been as follow:—

BRADFORD FUTURES HIGHER.

Our cable message of yesterday's date states that the Bradford market is slow. There is no alteration in quotations for spot delivery of tops, but the quotations for future delivery are ½d higher than given a fortnight ago for merino qualities, and ¼d for crossbred, future delivery quotations yesterday being 64's /25, super 60's /24½, common 60's /24 (merino), 46's /14, 40's /13 (crossbred). On the corresponding date last year there was no mention in the cable as to the activity or dullness of the market; quotations for merino qualities, however, were dropped /1, and medium crossbreds ½d, the only quality without quotable change being 40's (coarse crossbred). The course of prices has been as follow:—

SYDNEY WOOL RECEIPTS.

Owing to the rains and the shearing season now drawing to a close, the wool receipts by rail show a material decrease during the week closing yesterday. WOOL SHIPMENTS.

Eight vessels have cleared the Sydney Customs for the United Kingdom and foreign ports since last review, with wool aggregating 34,501 bales; as compared with seven vessels during the corresponding week last year, with a total of 40,509 bales. The total oversea exports from Sydney during the month ending November 30 amounted to 144,067 bales; and from Newcastle 4133 bales; the steamer Moravian clearing with 1275 bales on Monday last, making the aggregate from Newcastle for the season to date 13,102 bales; the total up to October 31 last being 8969 bales. The vessels with quantities from Sydney for the week, and total from New South Wales for the season to date, compared to the corresponding period last year, are as follow:—

CATTLE FOR JAVA.

At one time between 30 and 40 head of dairy cattle used to be sent to Java by the steamers trading there from Sydney, but the discovery of some cases of pleuro-pneumonia resulted in the shipments being prohibited. It is possible that the embargo will shortly be removed, and with this end in view a veterinary surgeon is expected to arrive from Batavia by the next steamer, whose mission will be to make investigations as to the condition of the dairy herds, and advise his Government as to whether it is safe to take this step.

AGRICULTURAL SOCIETIES.

FORBES.—The annual general meeting of the Forbes P. A. and H. Association was held on Thursday, the president (Mr. A. J. Reymond) presiding. The report showed that a profit of about £126 was made on the last show, although the prize-money allotted was in excess of previous years. The following officers were elected.—President, Mr. A. J. Reymond (re-elected); vice-presidents, Messrs. R. E. Rawlins and Wallace Hunter; treasurer, Mr. P. I. Addison.

TEMORA.—At the annual meeting of the Temora P. A. H. and I. Association the balance-sheet showed £424 to credit. The members list had increased by over 130, and £200 worth of improvements had been carried out. Mr. W. J. Cartwright was unanimously re-elected president for the twenty-fourth time, and Mr. E. W. Evans treasurer.

THE HARVEST.

BLAYNEY.—Recent rains, aided by hot, muggy weather, have completely changed the crop outlook in this vicinity. Heavy crops of hay will be the rule. Potatoes are coming up freely, and showing rather too much top for early stages. The total rainfall for the month was 331 points. Haymaking will soon be general in the district.

PEAK HILL.—It is estimated that fully 25,000 bags of wheat will be sent away from Tomingley West Siding. The F. and S. Association are moving to have a man sent there by the department during the wheat season. The crops are looking well around Tomingley.

DAIRYING.

WINGHAM.—Two vans are at present engaged in carting cream down the Koppin Yarratt-road from the Comboyne. This cream is taken on to the Landsdowne wharf, and thence to the Lower Manning factory. One van takes the cream from Killabakh to the Wingham factory. The cream at present being carted from the rich dairying centre of the Comboyne represents at least four tons of butter per week. The building of a factory on the Comboyne is to be pushed on with at once. During the recent dry spell the cream supply on the Comboyne was not materially affected. The water supply in this plateau is splendid.

DISTRICT ITEMS.

BLACKTOWN.—Tuesday's rain has benefited all cultivated fields and orchards. Hands are being now busy reworking the orchards and preparing land for the maize, sorghum, and other winter feed crops. The pumpkin beetle is still very much in evidence on early pumpkin vines. In some places the vines have been destroyed. Nearly all white varieties of grapes and muscat are doing well, but many black varieties are, like the black Hamburg, exceptionally backward this year here.

BERRIGAN.—Despite the sparseness of the rainfall during the past wheat-growing season, the crops on the fallowed land are returning far bigger yields than was anticipated. Many of them are returning 20 to 22 bushels of good sound, well-matured grain to the acre.

BOURKE.—Monday and Tuesday were extremely close and muggy, and at intervals light rain fell, 18 points being registered during the 48 hours. In some parts of the district further good rain has fallen, and unless the summer sets in exceptionally hot, feed is assured. Along the Bourke-Barringun route rain has fallen, and made it heavy for vehicular traffic; the Barringun coach due here on Monday night had not put in an appearance at midnight on Tuesday. At the head of the Darling the falls have not been of sufficient value to cause anything more than a fresh, but even this is welcome, if only to clear out the weeds and weedy water. There is no water in the Warrego between Bourke and Barringun.

DUBBO.—Rabbits are increasing rapidly throughout the district. The stock routes are overrun with the pest. They are more numerous now than they have been for years past. Owners find a difficulty in keeping them in check. Over 2 inches of rain has fallen during the last seven days. Stripping operations are at a standstill, and should the present damp conditions be succeeded by bright suns a lot of the grain will be bleached. So far little damage is reported. As a result of the recent storm rains all the farmers' tanks have been filled, and there is a good shoot in the trees and summer herbage.

GRENFELL.—Grenfell farmers have at a cost of £350 to themselves obtained a supply of water by gravitation from a dam two miles out. This is for their teams when carrying wheat, the railway supply having run out. Only contributors will be allowed the use of the water.

GLEN INNES.—Farmers' Day at the Government Experiment Farm was largely attended. Visitors from Tenterfield, Armidale, Uralla, Guyra, and other northern towns were present. They were shown over the various experiment plots, which look remarkably well.

LIVERPOOL.—The rainfall during the past few days has had the effect of resuscitating the grass and herbage somewhat; but more rain is required to stimulate their growth and replenish water-holes and creeks in various parts of the district, which are rapidly giving out as a result of the recent spell of hot, dry weather. Reports from this and the districts adjacent state that the vineyards are looking exceptionally well, and give promise of good yields. There is a fine body of fresh water for a few miles above the Liverpool dam, due mainly to recent permanent repairs effected to that structure by the Works Department. Snakes are reported to be numerous in some parts this season. A resident of Moorebank killed a number of the reptiles on his holding recently.

MUDGEE.—The Cullenbone reserve, consisting of over 2000 acres, is about to be subdivided for closer settlement. The departmental surveyors are now engaged on the work.

PEAK HILL.—Crops in this district are yielding well, but rain is hampering operations. Mr. Griffin, of Tomingley, took off 264 bags Bunyip wheat from 28 acres. Crops on Harvey Park are also looking well. These have been grown principally by share-farmers. The yield will be considerably over the estimate.

OTFORD.—The weather during the last few days has been exceptionally close and muggy, although the temperature did not reach 90 degrees. A nice fall of rain took place on Tuesday, which helped to replenish domestic supplies, and give new life to the drooping crops. A heavy fall is urgently needed.

TEMORA.—General rains throughout the district during the last few days have set back stripping operations, and generally occasioned considerable damage. Many paddocks of ripe grain will be bleached, reducing the value by from 2d to 4d per bushel. Much damage has been done recently to the mown hay which was lying in the fields in stooks. The rainfall averaged 2 inches throughout the district. The fall in Ardlethan direction was much heavier. Nearly 4 inches fell in some paddocks there, and the damage in that locality will be much greater than around Barmedman, where less than an inch was registered. The rain was of a steady soaking nature, and will do good to the summer grass.

WAGGA.—The rain of Monday was too late to do any good for the late crops, and will cause inconvenience to the farmers, as harvesting operations are in full swing. Some parts of the country will benefit, as the water supply was getting short.

YERONG CREEK.—On Monday afternoon about an inch of good, soaking rain fell. The district's wheat yield will be much below last year's returns. Many crops are very poor.

Street, White Ant Expert, Brisbane, has opened at 99 Goulburn-street, Sydney, and the firm's established Cure for White Ants, Borers, Bugs, Cockroaches, and other invaders of property and invaders of the home are on sale. ESTIMATES RUSHED THROUGH.

Members of the Legislative Assembly were kept on duty throughout Thursday night and yesterday. So far as the Opposition was concerned, it was anticipated that the House would adjourn in the small hours of Friday morning, when the Income Tax Bill had been introduced, but the Treasurer proceeded with the second reading of the Sinking Fund (Renewals) Bill, and after this had been disposed of the Minister for Works moved half a dozen references to the Public Works Committee. The last straw which broke down Mr. Wade's patience, was added at 5 o'clock, when the Attorney-General said he proposed to take the Estimates for the Departments of Mines and Agriculture, and then adjourn until Monday. The Opposition leader protested, but it was of no avail.

SINKING FUND (RENEWALS) BILL.

The TREASURER moved the second reading of the Sinking Fund (Renewals) Bill. He explained that the measure was to enable renewal and sinking funds to be opened for the Sydney and Hunter districts Water and Sewerage Boards and Sydney Harbour Trust. It had been decided that profits should be earmarked in the interests of those using the services provided. Profits from the railways would be available for the general development of the country, because the railways, being a national undertaking, everyone was more or less affected. Moreover, the railways owed the consolidated revenue over £2,000,000.

Mr. WADE said it would be mere waste of time to offer any criticism at that stage. He would reserve what he had to say till the third reading.

Mr. Cohen said the Minister's idea seemed to be that, so far as the three corporate bodies mentioned were concerned, they should not seek to raise more money than was necessary for the purpose of those boards. The accounts were to be kept separately, and each was to have its renewal and sinking funds. The absurdity of what was proposed could be shown by taking the case of the Water and Sewerage Board, which last year showed a profit of £4500. That board was to be called upon to find £82,000 per annum by way of payment into renewal and sinking fund, and the result would be that those who used the board's services would be called upon to pay, in increased charges, the difference between the present profits of about £5000 and £82,000. The position of the Sydney Harbour Trust and the Hunter River Board would be much the same relatively. That was going to be the result of the new fangled system of the finance.

Mr. FITZPATRICK and Mr. HENLEY protested against the bill, and the latter declared that he would strongly oppose the imposition of any increased charges upon the clients of the Water and Sewerage Board.

The second reading was agreed to by 30 to 20, and the bill passed through committee.

STATE BRICKWORKS.

The MINISTER FOR WORKS moved that the Public Works Committee consider and report upon the expediency of amplifying the plant at the Homebush Bay brickworks.

The motion was agreed to.

RAILWAY SCHEMES.

On the motions of the MINISTER FOR WORKS, the House agreed to refer to the Public Works Committee for inquiry and report proposals for the construction of the following alternative lines:—Wellington to Werris Creek, Dubbo to Werris Creek, and Gilgandra to Curlewis.

SYDNEY-NORTH SYDNEY RAILWAY SUBWAY.

The MINISTER FOR WORKS moved that the Public Works Committee report upon the expediency of constructing a subway from Circular Quay, via Fort Macquarie and Kirribilli Point, to Lavender Bay, for the purpose of affording railway communication between Sydney and North Sydney.

The motion was agreed to.

BRIDGING THE HARBOUR.

The MINISTER FOR WORKS moved that the Public Works Committee consider and report upon the expediency of connecting Sydney and North Sydney by means of a bridge. He explained that the estimated cost was one and a half million, and that it would give a roadway 35 feet clear for vehicle traffic. He regarded a subway for vehicle traffic as quite out of the question.

The motion was agreed to.

STATE FERRY SERVICE.

The MINISTER FOR WORKS moved that the Public Works Committee report upon the expediency of a scheme for the establishment of passenger services between Sydney and Milson's Point and Sydney and M'Mahon's Point, and vehicle services between Sydney and M'Mahon's Point, and Woolloomooloo Bay and Cremorne. Provision of this kind was necessary, he said, to relieve existing congestion. The estimated cost was £108,000.

Mr. WADE described the proposition as farcical. It would not lessen, but intensify, harbour dangers.

The motion was agreed to.

AN INDIGNANT PROTEST.

A few minutes before 5 o'clock the ATTORNEY-GENERAL rose and said the Government proposed to ask the House to sit an hour or two longer to pass the estimates of the departments of Mines and Agriculture, and then adjourn until Monday.

Mr. WADE protested that the course proposed was entirely unjustifiable.

The ATTORNEY-GENERAL declined to give way, and consideration of the Estimates was then proceeded with. The criticism was of a desultory kind, and little or no attention was paid to what was said. A couple of hours sufficed for the estimates of the Mines Department. The amount asked for—£75,974—was voted. It was mentioned by the Minister for Mines that so far no justification had been shown him for the establishment of a State battery.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE—£199,295.

An adjournment for breakfast followed, and at half-past 8 the Estimates for the Department of Agriculture—£199,295, as compared with £182,300 for the previous year—were submitted. Discussion turned mainly on the vote—£30,690—for the Department of Forestry. It was urged that there was almost unlimited room for improvement in this respect, and that there were enormous possibilities of development in the direction of making profitable use of what at present practically went to waste. Mr. Cohen mentioned that in Germany a million people found employment in forestry, and that the distribution of wages ran into about 30 millions a year. On this great expenditure the German Forestry Department made a profit of 5 to 5½ per cent.

Colonel ONSLOW referred to the agricultural notes appearing in many of the country newspapers week by week. The notes were of the poorest description, and as they were issued under the aegis of the Agricultural Department it was simply a waste of public money. He did not know if the Minister for Agriculture was directly responsible for them, but his name appeared in connection with their issue. It was his intention to give notice that he proposed to move an amendment to reduce the whole of the estimates by one-half.

The MINISTER FOR AGRICULTURE, in answer to criticisms, drew attention to the increased popularity of the department amongst farmers throughout the State. A large number of letters were received day by day from practical men seeking information, and of late the department had been enabled to spread a wider knowledge of the principles of practical farming among men most in need of such assistance. The policy adopted in the administration of the department had resulted in more information being sought and more being given. The experience and knowledge of the experts of the department was being spread throughout the country with beneficial results. Apart from the practical side of agriculture, a uniform system of bookkeeping for farmers had been adopted. This meant that the results achieved by the farmers could be compared from a uniform basis, and the information thus acquired would be of very great value from a practical standpoint. A good deal of criticism had been levelled at the current notes supplied to country journals, but, as a matter of fact, these very notes were considered by farmers to be of the most practical and valuable nature. They were in great demand, and had been inquired for by other States. The whole of the information was published gratis. The notes were compiled by the most experienced experts of the department. The supply of information was useful, practical, and of a very valuable character. Over 200 newspapers took the notes, and this was ample proof of their popularity. To reach all the farmers who were desirous of receiving up-to-date information solely by the "Government Agricultural Gazette" would mean an enormous expenditure. The newspapers had been brought into use to save this expense, and it had proved beyond question the most successful method ever introduced for reaching the farmers.

After the nature of the work of the Forestry Department was recounted in detail by the Minister for Agriculture, the House adjourned for an hour at 1 o'clock.

Mr. LEE urged the Government to pay the utmost attention possible to the development of the various irrigation schemes.

The House adjourned at 4.45 p.m. until Monday.

SOCIAL.

It would seem that our summer is to be a long and trying one, judging from the tropical heat we have experienced during the past week. The rain, so sorely needed and so welcome to those with gardens, caused, however, no little disappointment to hundreds who had hoped for the pleasure of attending the garden party on Tuesday given by the Governor and Lady Chelmsford at the State Government House in honour of their return to their Sydney home, and also to hundreds of others who had anticipated going to the cricket match, which was unavoidably put off. However, the value of the rain was so great, it no doubt compensated many for their disappointment.

Already many are flitting to the different country resorts to escape the heat of town, and both in the mountain districts and on the Southern line there has been a great demand for accommodation, and most of the available cottages have been taken. Others are waiting until the end of the month, when the schools break up, and others again are postponing their departure until after the New Year, and will take a trip to Tasmania or New Zealand, to voyage across to Auckland now being so easily and comfortably accomplished in the large P. and O. boats, which run every month, and are a boon to "bad sailors."

Major Quilter, A.D.C. to his Excellency the Governor General, left Adelaide yesterday by R.M.S. Orvieto on a hurried visit to England on urgent private business.

The matinee given at Her Majesty's on Thursday afternoon in public recognition of Mr. G. S. Titheradge, who is one of the finest and most popular actors we have had in Australia, proved a decided success, the theatre, despite the great and trying heat, being crowded with a most enthusiastic audience. The programme was a long and varied one, and opened with the second act of the "Merry Widow," in which Miss Florence Young appeared in the name part, wearing a handsome black and gold-embroidered dress, the skirt draped with a beautiful Persian shawl drawn tightly round the hips, the long three-quarter coat bodice being richly embroidered in gold, and gold flowers and leaves were worn in the hair. Mr. Titheradge, who appeared as Sir George Carlyon in "Honour Bound," was greeted with the greatest enthusiasm, and after many recalls made a touching little speech and was presented with a laurel wreath. Miss Ethel Knight-Mollison (Mrs. T. H. Kelly) took the part of Lady Carlyon, and looked well in a black and gold sequined dress, the bodice draped with cream lace, a cluster of pink roses giving a touch of colour to the toilette. Mrs. Kelly was presented with many beautiful floral tributes. Miss Lily Titheradge also took part in the performance, and wore a dainty white dress. Every one was so anxious to assist and add his or her contributions to the programme in honour of the distinguished actor, that a most enjoyable afternoon was spent, and many old favourites, such as Mr. Rignold and Miss Maggie Moore were received with cheers and much applause. The sum of £400 was realised by the matinee.

Lovers of opera are looking forward with great pleasure to the short farewell season to be given by the Melba Grand Opera Company, beginning on Monday week, December 11, at Her Majesty's. Especially pleased are they to learn that "Aida," "Othello," and "Romeo and Juliet," are to be included in the operas to be performed. Madame Melba and members of the company can be assured of a hearty reception.

Each day the shops become more fascinating with their display of Christmas novelties and gifts. It is at this season of the year everyone would like a fairy godmother to fill one's purse with gold, so that the many appeals made on behalf of those in need of assistance might meet with generous support, and that one could send remembrances to many friends. This year everything seems to be of a high standard of excellence. In toyland the variety is very large, and Teddy bears, rabbits, cats, mice, and soft toys, warranted to be unbreakable, and not to hurt even the most sensitive-skinned little one, and which would prove a delight to any child, are to be obtained in every size and form. Then there are the dolls, with their baskets, their prams, and everything in miniature that a small girl might require. Boys are not forgotten, for tools, mechanical toys, and books are to be found in abundance. Certainly on all sides the children have been well catered for. The wants of men and women have not been forgotten, and there are many little charming and dainty novelties—oddments suitable for the motorist, for the traveller, for the worker, and for the reader and writer. The book shops are a delight, in fact, to those who have leisure it will prove a pleasure to inspect these many attractive displays. Many women have already begun their Christmas shopping, and find they are not too early, for even now the demand is great, a sign surely of the prosperity of the State.

Last Monday afternoon a most enjoyable tea was given at the Royal Sydney Golf Club by Mrs. Rothe, who entertained a large number of friends previous to her departure for Bowral, where she intends spending the summer months. A large marquee was erected on the lawn, where refreshments were served, and which afforded shelter from the very strong "north-easter" which was blowing all the afternoon. Mrs. Rothe, who left town on Thursday, wore soft pale grey ninon over grey charmeuse, with aluminium embroidery and a grey hat with grey feathers. Amongst those present were Lady and Miss Fairfax, Mrs. E. W. Knox and Miss Barbara Knox, Mrs. Dibbs, Mrs. Arthur Allen, Mrs. David Dickson, Mrs. Alex. Cox, Mrs. B. R. Wise, Mrs. R. Davies, Mrs. A. The Lady Mayoress, Lady Allen Taylor, presided, and her proposal to hold a large art union and fete in the Town Hall next Easter was unanimously agreed upon. All the ladies present heartily entered into the movement.

Ritchie, of Claremont, Westmoreland-street, Glebe, was married to Clarence James, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Lambert, Ferry-road, Glebe Point. Her silk embroidered tulle veil was arranged over a coronet of orange blossoms, and she carried a beautiful bouquet of white carnations and sweet peas. She was attended by Miss M'Cormack as bridesmaid, and the two little train-bearers were Miss Mona Lambert (sister of the bridegroom), and Miss Mona Speight. The bridegroom was attended by his two brothers, Mr. Wesley and Mr. David Lambert. After the ceremony a reception was held at the Oddfellows' Hall, Wilson-street, Newtown, where about 50 guests were entertained at the wedding breakfast. During the evening the happy couple left for the South Coast, where the honeymoon was spent.

On Wednesday, November 1, in the Neutral Bay Presbyterian Church, the wedding of Mr. Colin Wesley Death, of Cootamundra, with Miss Mary Wood, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Wood, of Oaks-avenue, Neutral Bay, was celebrated, the Rev. Mr. Gillanders was best man, and Mr. Swan acted as groomsman. The church was decorated by girl friends of the bride, and the members of the choir, of which the bride had for long been a member, took part in the service, and Miss Jeffery sang "A Song of Thanksgiving." A reception was subsequently held in the Warringa Hall, where the wedding presents were displayed, most of the gifts having been presented at a "linen and bric-a-brac" evening arranged by the members of the choir. Amongst the presents must be mentioned the wedding dress, made and presented by Miss Alice Gordon and the choir members.

The bouquets were the gifts of the bridegroom, who presented the bride with a diamond ring, and to each bridesmaid a gold bangle. During the signing of the register Miss Dulcie Timmins sang "Beloved, it is Morn." Subsequently a reception was held at Brett's Hall, Kogarah, where the breakfast was served, and over a hundred guests entertained. The bride's travelling dress was of silver-grey eolienne with cream guipure and cerise piping; and she wore a grey silk hat, with white feathers and pink rosebuds. CLEMENTS TONIC LTD.,

"I have great pleasure in stating what Clements Tonic has done for me.

"Mine was a case of Nervous Breakdown and bad Liver; I cannot express what I suffered. For 19 months, doctor's attendance and medicines did me no good, in fact, I did not think I could live, or it was possible for anything to do me good night or day. I could not sleep or scarcely walk from one room to another. I dreaded to be left alone by my people for five minutes for fear I would die in their absence. I experienced the most dreadful sufferings, impossible to express. One day one of your books was thrown on the verandah, I read it through, and was greatly convinced it would do me good. I got a bottle straight away and found so much benefit by it that I took 15 bottles, and can thankfully say it has cured me. I cannot praise it enough for it did wonderful work for me. My faith in it is that it is able to cure anything, that is my belief. I would never be without it, and have told many to give it a trial. You can publish this if you wish, for I cannot praise it enough.

(Signed) Mrs. NELLIE REDDICK."

"GARDEN PARTY" AT BISHOPSCOURT.

The garden party at Bishopscourt yesterday afternoon, arranged as a welcome to the Rev. David J. Davies, M.A. (Cantab.), the new Principal of the Moore Theological College, was unfortunately driven within walls. There was a good attendance, however, and the spirit of the gathering was epitomised in the Primate's words: "This is a day of happiness for us."

During the afternoon the Archbishop formally welcomed the new principal. He referred to the good work of the late Canon Jones, and outlined the history of Moore College since its foundation. "To-day," he said, "we begin a new year with a new principal in our midst. He comes with a splendid record behind him, and I assure him, in your name, of wide sympathy and support. We feel confident that the traditions of the college will be very safely maintained in his hands." Concluding, Dr. Wright emphasised the fact that the education of the clergy was, to a large extent, the layman's business, as showing how essential was the recognition of appeals in this respect.

Rev. David J. Davies thanked the Archbishop and the assembly for their warm welcome, and paid a tribute to the efforts of Rev. S. J. Kirkby, who for the last [illegible] months had been acting principal, Rev. J. V. Patton, and those pupils assisting, who reflected such credit on the teaching of the late principal.

Invitations, issued by the Archbishop of Sydney and the other trustees of Moore College (Canon Vaughan and Mr. John Keith), were accepted by the following:—The Bishop of Bathurst and Mrs. Long, the Bishop of Grafton and Armidale, Bishop Stone Wigg, the Chief Justice and Lady Cullen, Professor and Mrs. MacCallum, Judge and Mrs. Backhouse, Judge and Mrs. Sly, Judge and Mrs. G. PARK FOR DRUMMOYNE.

RESUMPTION PROPOSAL.

Representatives of the Drummoyne Municipal Council yesterday asked the Minister for Lands to acquire the Dawson Estate at Drummoyne for a park and recreation ground. The land it was stated, embraced a foreshore and was largely made use of by the residents for recreation. The urgency of the matter was that it was proposed to utilise some of it for a timber yard and sawmill, which would depreciate values in the vicinity. The Minister, in reply, said the Government's favour for foreshore resumptions was evidenced by the fact that it had already earmarked £150,000 for the purpose, and he had asked for a further amount for certain addition purchases. He would keep this matter in view, but he would expect the council and residents to bear part of the expense. A report would be obtained as to the rest, and he would then be in a position to place before them a definite statement as to what the Government would do.

OBJECTS.
The objects for which the Company is established are, among other things, as follows:—To purchase from Walter Brown, for £6000 in cash and 2000 in fully paid-up shares, THE LEASE OF THE AMERICAN PICTURE PALACE (opposite the Criterion Theatre), 288 Pitt-street, Sydney, as a going concern.

The Lease of the American Picture Palace has now eight years to run, at a nett average rental of some £15 weekly.

Mr. Walter Brown (under whose control the Theatre has made such substantial progress) will be Managing Director for a period of twelve months.

FILM RISK ABSENT.
The Company does not propose to buy Films for the purpose of resale or for hiring out, as the Directors consider, in view of the experience of other companies, that it is undesirable to take the risks attendant upon this class of business.

PROFITS.
As will be seen by the attached Accountant's Report, the profits of the Theatre for the past six months amounted to £1488, equivalent to £57 per week. If to this be added a further sum of £25 per week, being the estimated takings derived from the projected increased seating, and £3 10s per week for rent receivable, we have a grand total per week of—

		£86 0 0
Deduct from this for a Reserve Fund per week	£12 0 0
Manager's Salary	10 0 0
Other Costs and Charges	5 0 0
		27 0 0

sufficient to return to the Shareholders the whole of the issued capital of £9000 within three years, and leaving the Shareholders with the most valuable portion of the Lease, and some £1500 of a Reserve Fund still in hand.

DIVIDENDS.
The Company anticipates paying 6d per month (thirty per cent. per annum), the first dividend to be paid within one month from the date of Registration of the Company.

The Company may go to allotment on application being received for 3000 shares.

There is one contract dated the 22nd day of November, 1911, between Walter Brown, as Vendor, and Hambrook Murchison Mackenzie, of Messrs. Fred. S. Willis and Co., 112 Pitt-street, Sydney, as Trustee, which may be seen at the office of the Company's Solicitor.

ENGINE DRIVERS' AWARD.

SOLICITOR'S ATTITUDE.

EXTRAORDINARY AND UNPRECEDENTED.

MR. JUSTICE HIGGINS' DILEMMA.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

Judgment on the discussion of the proposed award in the dispute between the Federated Enginedrivers' and Firemen's Association and a number of respondents was delivered by the President of the Commonwealth Conciliation and Arbitration Court, Mr. Justice Higgins.

Mr. H. A. Mitchell, president of the association, was present to represent its interests, and Mr. Derham (of Messrs. Derham and Derham), appeared for some of the respondents.

Mr. Justice Higgins, before delivering judgment, asked both Mr. Mitchell and Mr. Derham if they had any further observations to make on the minutes.

Mr. Derham: I am present simply to listen to the judgment.

Mr. Justice Higgins: A man who comes into court to listen to judgment comes to help the Court. If you want to help the Court in your clients' interests, you do not know your business by adopting such an attitude.

In giving judgment in respect to the minutes of the proposed award, Mr. Justice Higgins said: "All of the respondents have had the opportunity of discussing the question whether an award can be made in view of the Act, as well as of discussing the details, but none of them has appeared except the Mt. Lyell Company by Mr. Derham, solicitor. Mr. Derham appeared at the hearing for some 27 respondents, but now he appears for only one of his former clients, and as he says 'under protest and without prejudice to submit only alterations in details.' Being asked to explain himself, he said that the award would be bad, and being asked on what grounds, he said, 'On all the grounds that we think it advisable to take.' He refused to say what those grounds are, stating that he did not wish to discuss them. I cannot, of course, compel an advocate to argue, but the attitude adopted towards the Court in not even stating what are the objections to a proposed judgment is, in my experience, extraordinary and unprecedented, especially where it is adopted by a legal practitioner. It has always been regarded as a matter of duty to point out to the Court any false step that it is taking, and thereby to assist the Court, and what is more important to the public, the administration of justice. The whole matter is open. No award has yet been made, and if the Court had an opportunity to consider the grounds why an award should not be made, it might possibly be saved from making an award. By inadvertence, probably Mr. Derham has hardly realised the false position in which he has placed himself, and when he has had more experience in the ways of Courts he will see the impropriety and futility of tactics so crude, but in the meantime I must do my best without the assistance which I hoped to have, and I shall state a case under which all arguments as to the validity of the award, if made, will be open to the respondents.

"In framing a clause for a board of reference," continued Mr. Justice Higgins, "I asked both parties to name two suitable members. Mr. Mitchell, on behalf of the claimants, named two, but Mr. Derham declined to name anyone, even though he was assured that any application for a prohibition would not be prejudicial. However, the Court is not quite blocked by the refusal, for the Amending Act of this month has enabled me to get over the difficulty to some extent. I have, under section 17, however, to 'Give power to appoint a board, and I propose to give that power to the registrar, who has more means than I have of ascertaining who are fit persons to represent the respondents on the board."

As Mr. Mitchell had pressed for an award against the Melbourne City Council and the Zeehan Electric Light and Power Company, he (Mr. Justice Higgins) would ask the High Court for a binding and definite decision for his guidance on the subject of the power of the Court to make an award affecting these respondents. There were certain facts in connection with the electric and other works of these bodies, which were not brought out in the former case. He would like to have had the assistance of both parties in stating the case for the High Court, so that there might not have been any mistake. But, in view of Mr. Derham's attitude, he, (Mr. Justice Higgins), could not take advantage of the services of Mr. Mitchell. He would not be able to make the award at present, and would state the case for the High Court on his own responsibility. The questions he proposed to submit, were.—(1) Has this Court power now that the Commonwealth Conciliation and Arbitration Act, 1911, has been passed to make an award in the case of the instance of the claimant? (2) Is the respondent, the Corporation of Melbourne, subject to the jurisdiction and award of this Court in any, and what, respect? (3) Has this Court power to include in the award the provisions for a board of reference, appearing in the proposed award.

BOTANIC GARDENS.

The Director of the Botanic Gardens, Mr. J. H. Maiden, writes:—

"Many countries have their own particular Christmas tree, either because they produce beautiful flowers at that season, or, in the Northern Hemisphere, because they are associated with the great Christian festival. The Christmas tree of the North Island of New Zealand bears the Maori name, Pohutukawa, and the botanical one, Metrosideros tomentosa. It is just coming into flower now, its scarlet blossoms rendering it very showy. There is a tree not far from the garden gates which lead to the office. There is another on the higher part of the Garden Palace grounds, near the entrance, and there is a third one in the Garden Palace grounds, not far from the marble fountain, which is interesting from the fact that it flowers now for the first time. It was planted 20 years ago.

"In about the middle of the Macquarie-street border of the Garden Palace grounds will be found an interesting small tree about 20ft high, which is a hybrid between the flame tree and the kurrajong. It has been given the name of Brachychiton populneo-acerifolium. This also has flowered this year for the first time, and it has a sprinkling of flowers of the colour known as vieux rose. Examination of it will soon show the resemblance to its two parents.

"Adjoining the Museum building, and close to the aviary, is a small South African shrub, Turraea obtusifolia, which belongs to the same family as our red cedar. It is simply covered with moderately large pure white flowers, and is a gem. Not far away from this, a little to the south-east of the Wishing Tree, attention is claimed by a trailer, trained pillar fashion, and bearing a profusion of pale blue flowers. It is Solanum wendlandi, is a native of Costa Rica, and is a truly beautiful object. It must have warmth and a sheltered situation.

"Just a few paces north of the Wishing Tree, that very large Begonia corallina is coming into flower. It is a native of Brazil, is altogether a giant amongst begonias, and its brilliant display of flowers will afford pleasure to many for months to come.

"Near the very large Norfolk pine, in what is known as the old garden, and a few paces on the way to the refreshment room, is a small tree of a cinnamon, from Java, known as Cinnamomum burmanni, which now displays all over it young foliage of a crimson colour, which is almost brilliant. It, in common with other cinnamons, has had to be protected by tree guards and wire netting, which disfigure them, since these trees are systematically destroyed by a small section of the public for the sake of their aromatic bark. So secretly and so skilfully are these depredations carried out, that a few years ago we had to invoke the aid of the detective police to put a stop to it. Just opposite these cinnamon trees there is a tree with laurel-like leaves, coming into flower. This is Cerbera tanghin, the poison tree of Madagascar, concerning which many sensational statements have been made, since its seeds used to be employed as an ordeal in Madagascar.

"Going into the lower garden, just on the north side of the wall between the refreshment room and the main gate, Barringtonia alba, a small tree from the Moluccas, allied to our myrtles, is just coming into flower. The very large white flowers are beautifully set off by the rich glossy foliage, and afford a most beautiful object."

MR. BAKER AND MR. DOUGLAS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—As there seems to be some misunderstanding abroad in respect of a paragraph dealing with Mr. J. W. H. T. Douglas, vice-captain of the English cricket team, and myself, will you kindly make public the following facts through your columns?

Some weeks ago I was approached as to whether I would be willing to have a friendly spar with Mr. Douglas at an entertainment to be held in aid of the Sydney Hospital funds, and to which I consented. Mr. Douglas was not approached officially, so far as I can learn, and though wide publicity was given to his declining, the very excellent reasons he had were kept in the background.

Firstly, Mr. Douglas is a strict amateur, whereas the nature of my business makes me a professional; and the fact of Mr. Douglas sparring in public with me would also create him a professional. Secondly, Mr. Douglas has not had regular practice for a long time, as the enclosed copy of letter, which I received in reply to an invitation to make use of my rooms, shows. Further, the responsibilities of captainship of a team endeavouring to regain the "ashes" are sufficiently onerous for any man to carry without being added to.

I have a very sincere esteem for Mr. Douglas, and I value his friendship, and regret the necessity of this letter. I am, etc.,
Nov. 30. REG. L. BAKER.

(Copy.)
Adelaide, 18th Nov., 1911.

My dear Baker.—Very many thanks for your kind letter of welcome. It was so nice to hear from you again, although I was coming to look you up in Sydney. I have chucked boxing altogether. Last year I only put the gloves on four times, so won't do any over here.

Hoping to find you fit and well on my arrival in Sydney.

Yours very truly,
(Sgd.) J. W. H. T. DOUGLAS.

AMUSEMENTS.

HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE.

"The Chocolate Soldier" now enters upon the last seven nights of its season at Her Majesty's Theatre, where J. C. Williamson, Ltd., has fixed Saturday next for the farewell, their Melba Opera Company opening on Monday, December 11. The folk-song trio, "Three Women," the "My Hero" valse air, and many other charming numbers are encored nightly. There will be the usual matinee on Wednesday.

CRITERION THEATRE.

At the Criterion Theatre "The Girl in the Train," of which the customary matinee will be given next Wednesday, continues to draw large audiences, the scheme of the first act, in which Dr. Leo Fall's vivacious songs and concerted numbers form part of the proceedings in a divorce court, being decidedly ingenious in providing the plausibly smooth introduction of the music. The new piece is certain to enjoy a great run.

THEATRE ROYAL.

"The Sign of the Cross" has been successfully revived at the Theatre Royal, where Mr. William Desmond, Mr. Ambrose Manning, and Miss Dorothy Dix, as Marcus, Glabrio, and Mercia, dramatically sustain the interest of Wilson Barrett's story of the persecution of the Christians by Imperial Rome under Nero. Many picturesque scenes mark the narrative, which ends in the union of the hero and heroine. There will be a matinee on Wednesday.

ADELPHI THEATRE.

"In Old Donegal" will be staged for the first time at the Adelphi Theatre to-night, with beautiful scenery, when Mr. Allen Doone, in a dual role as Larry Donovan and Shaun, will have Miss Edna Keeley as Kate O'Donohue, and Mr. George Marlow's company will include Mr. C. R. Stanford, Mr. Frank Collinane, and other artists. The Irish tenor will sing "Doone's Rose Song," "Alannah," and other ballads, both tender and jovial.

The Hibernian Society will attend in force on Monday night, when, as a compliment to Mr. Doone, musical items will be rendered as follows:—Selections by the Convent of Mercy orchestra, Parramatta; ladies' violin quartette; "Kathleen Mavourneen," by Miss Leah Myers, and various Irish dances.

PALACE—NICOLA, THE MAGICIAN.

This evening Messrs. J. and N. Tait will introduce Nicola, the magician, and his company at the Palace Theatre for a season limited to three weeks. Though Nicola is an entertainer new to Australia, he has been before the public of America and the Continent for 20 years, and has won extended fame there as a magician and illusionist. Over twelve months ago he set sail from San Francisco upon a tour of the Far East and Australasia with a company of 15 artists. Honolulu, Tokio, Shanghai, Hongkong, Canton, Bombay, Calcutta, Manilla, Adelaide, and Auckland have been the principal places visited so far. His is by no means a one-man show, and any amount of mystery and amusement may be anticipated. Plan arrangements and matinees are duly notified.

TIVOLI THEATRE.

At the Tivoli Theatre, both afternoon and evening, the list of new attractions in the Rickards Company will include the first appearance in Australia of Wilson Hallett, the originator of "The Crying Baby;" J. P. Ling, English comedian and mimic; the Du For Dance Trio; Ridiculous Recco, burlesque acrobat; Hanvarr and Anna Lee in "The Golfer and the Maid;" Johnson and Dean (farewell); Eugene Ossipoff and Vanda Zoreena; Miss Ray Jones; the Gibson Girls; M. Crosby; and many favourite artists.

NATIONAL AMPHITHEATRE.

The star newcomers at to-day's performances, afternoon and evening, will be Michael Braham and his wonderfully educated dog, "Little Miss Bright Eyes," direct from America; and Ryugora Shima and Kiyo Kameda, in an interesting exposition of ju-jitsu. Miss Beaumont Collins and company are still appearing in the playlet "The Leaves of Memory," and Mr. Bert Gilbert in his humorous sketch "My Birthday." A dozen other favourites figure in a particularly strong programme.

MARON, THE ETHIOPIAN.

Next Saturday afternoon at the Criterion Theatre Mme. Boult will direct the first performance on any stage of her new and original drama "Maron, the Ethiopian." The Women's Patriotic Club is organising this entertainment in aid of the Ryde Home for Incurables, and characters will be taken by the Sydney Muffs, with Mr. Harry Thomas in the name-part, Miss Queenie Boult as the blind princess of Lydia, and Mr. Victor Holland as King Croesus. The plan is at Elvy's.

ROYAL PHILHARMONIC SOCIETY.

The Royal Sydney Philharmonic Society will give two splendid performances this year of the "Messiah" at the Town Hall, when the star feature will be the appearance of Mr. Ben Davis and Miss Beta D'Argo. These popular artists will thus be heard here for the first time in oratorio, the dates being Thursday evening, December 21, and Christmas afternoon, when the cast will be completed by Miss Josie Miles and Mr. A. K. Jameson, and Mr. Joseph Bradley will conduct a band and chorus of 400 performers in the colossal ensembles of Handel's majestic work.

SYDNEY MADRIGAL SOCIETY.

The Sydney Madrigal and Chamber Music Society has prepared a fine programme for the last concert of their season, next Thursday, at St. James's Hall, as Mr. Arundel Orchard will then conduct for the first time Lionel Benson's "Cuckoo," Henry Willan's "Gently Touch the Warbling Lyre," and Bantock's "On Himalay" and "Emer's Lament for Cuchulain," in addition to other beautiful choral numbers. Mr. Cyril Monk will lead the Austral String Quartet in a suite by Glazounow, and Haydn's "Serenade" and "Adagio." Miss Alice Braund will sing five songs. The plan is at Paling's.

ROYAL SYDNEY LIEDERTAFEL.

The Royal Sydney Liedertafel will give their Christmas concert, under the direction of Mr. W. Arundel Orchard, on Wednesday, December 13, when Mr. Ernest Truman will open the evening with Grison's "Marche Triomphale," for grand organ. The Liedertafel will render Mendelssohn's "Festgesang" and Gounod's "Nazareth" (both with organ), as well as Stanford's "Songs of the Fleet," and the Cleveland-street boys will assist in "Stradella" and "The Sea Hath Its Pearls." Mr. Hopkins-Jones will be tenor soloist.

ASSOCIATED BOARD PRESENTATIONS.

The medals and certificates awarded at the recent examinations of the Associated Board of the Royal Academy of Music, and the Royal College of Music, London, will be presented on Thursday, December 7, at the Sydney Town Hall, by Lady Barton, when there will be speeches and a musical programme. The list of medallists will be as follows:—Advanced grade: Gold medal, Cecile Stevens, for violin; silver medal, Irene Phillips for pianoforte, Gladys Bernasconi for violin, Gladys Manning for singing. Intermediate grade: Gold medal, Nellie Dwyer, for pianoforte; silver medal, Kitty Robinson, for pianoforte.

EASTERN SUBURBS OPERATIC SOCIETY.

The Eastern Suburbs Operatic Society will perform the comedy-opera "Haddon Hall" at the Masonic Hall, Castlereagh-street, this evening, Monday, and Tuesday. Mr. G. Hindmarsh Jamieson will direct the chorus and orchestra, and leading artists and amateurs will assist. The plan is at Nicholson's.

TOWN HALL ORGAN RECITALS.

The city organist, Mr. Ernest Truman, will give a recital at the Town Hall this evening, for which an interesting "request" programme has been chosen. Also the usual matinee recital will take place at 3.15 p.m. to-morrow.

SYDNEY CONSERVATORIUM.

The 69th students' evening will be given in the Concert Hall, Paling's-buildings, on Monday evening next, when an unusually interesting programme will close the year. At a recent meeting of the council of the conservatorium bronze medals for 1911 were awarded to Miss Connie Stuart for pianoforte, and Miss Ada Baxter for singing, which medals will be presented on Monday evening, and the inclusion of Mr. S. Vost-Janson on the teaching staff as a teacher of the violin will be announced.

MISS ADA GEE'S ANNUAL RECITAL.

On Monday evening next, at the Y.M.C.A. Hall, the annual recital by the pupils of Miss Ada Gee will take place. The principal feature will be the introduction of Miss Leila Wiburd, soprano, who will sing "A Summer Night," "Villanelle," and "The Heart's Awakening." The plan is now open at Nicholson's.

MR. NELSON ILLINGWORTH'S RECITAL.

Mr. Nelson Illingworth's pupils' annual recital will take place at the St. James's Hall on Monday evening next. Messrs. Cyril Monk, Alfred Hill, and Walter Thorman will be the assisting artists. The plan is at Nicholson's, where tickets are also obtainable.

"LES CLOCHES DE CORNEVILLE."

The Dulwich Hill Musical Society will produce "Les Cloches de Corneville" on Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday next at St. George's Hall, Newtown. There will be a chorus of 50 voices and orchestra, and the cast will include R. B. Orchard, J. G. Yuill, J. J. Mackey, Fred. Smith, and Marion Hertford. The opera will be under the direction of Mr. George English.

MISS MAY MACNICOL'S RECITAL.

On Tuesday evening next Miss May MacNicol will direct the annual elocutionary and musical entertainment of her pupils. In addition to humorous and dramatic pieces, an attractive programme will include the comedy, "Semi-Detached."

GENERAL POOR RELIEF CONCERT.

At the Town Hall on Wednesday evening next Miss B. Elvena Hurburgh will direct a concert in aid of the Christmas dinners of the Sydney General Poor Relief Fund. The assisting artists will be the Palace Emporium Glee Party, Misses Myra Greaty, Ada Baker, Daisy Sweet, Evelyn Morrow, Minnie Roberts, Rosalie Duvelli, Mrs. Morris, the Salon Trio, Miss Lola Wolstenholme (pianiste), Messrs. Syd. MacDonald, Winslow Knight, Nelson Illingworth, Alfred Hill, and Arthur Haigh (accompanist). The plan is at Nicholson's.

MISS G. D. BARTON'S RECITAL.

Miss G. D. Barton will hold the annual invitation recital of her pupils at the Y.M.C.A. Hall next Wednesday evening, at 7.45, when an attractive programme will be presented, with the assistance of Messrs. Henry Weir, Cyril Monk, A. Bertram Flohm, and Harold Whittle (accompanist). The plan is at Paling's.

MISS RUTH BUCKNALL'S RECITAL.

On Thursday, December 14, in the Y.M.C.A. Hall, Miss Ruth Bucknall, lyric soprano (pupil of Mrs. Reginald Quennel), will give a vocal recital to help her in her musical studies. The concert is under the patronage of Sir William and Lady Cullen and Lady Hay. Leading artists will assist. The plan opens at Nicholson's this morning.

THE MOSMAN MUSICAL SOCIETY.

On Thursday evening next the Mosman Musical Society will perform the "Hymn of Praise" and the fifth act of Gounod's "Faust" at the Warringah Hall, Neutral Bay. Mr. A. H. Norman will conduct the united forces, with Miss Muriel Barton, Mr. Wm. Higginbotham, and Mr. Andrew K. Jamieson as principals. The plan is at Paling's.

MR. S. MARTIN MORTLOCK'S CONCERT.

The annual students' concert of Mr. S. Martin Mortlock will be held at the Oxford Hall, Liverpool-street, next Thursday evening. The assisting artists will be Miss Ada Middenway, Miss Greta Hale, Mr. F. C. Miller, and Mr. Warwick M'Kenzie. The lastnamed will join with Mr. Mortlock in Beethoven's "Sonata in F." The plan is at Paling's.

THE ADAMS-GRIMLEY RECITAL.

On Friday evening next a concert will be given at the Y.M.C.A. Hall by Miss Bertie Adams, soprano, and Miss Dorothy Grimley, students who have already made a favourable impression in public. The assisting artists will be Miss Millie Gallagher, Mr. Syd. MacDonald, and Mr. Harold Whittle. The plan is at Paling's.

MISS LILIAN FROST.

The complimentary concert to be tendered to Miss Lilian Frost, prior to her departure for Europe, at the Town Hall on Saturday next, promises to be most successful. Most of the leading artists are taking part, and these, together with the St. Cecilia Choir, Pitt-street Congregational Church choir, and the Garcia School of Music, should present an exceptionally strong programme. Tickets may be obtained at Paling's, where the plan is now open.

MR. WARWICK MACKENZIE'S CONCERT.

Mr. Warwick McKenzie's pupils, assisted by Miss Hazel Doyle (pianist), Miss Bessie Grace (vocalist), and Mr. Hugh Jennings (elocutionist), will give their annual concert in the concert hall at Paling's next Saturday afternoon, at 2.45 o'clock.

MR. LAURENCE CAMPBELL'S RECITAL.

On Monday, December 11, Mr. Laurence Campbell will direct the eighteenth annual recital of his students at St. James's Hall. The programme will include recitations, musical monologues, the comedietta "My Lord in Livery," and "Boots at the Holly Tree Inn," in which Mr. Campbell will appear as Cobbs. Seats may be reserved at Nicholson's, where the plan is now open.

MISS EVELYN MORROW'S CONCERT.

On Monday, December 11, Miss Evelyn Morrow will direct the annual concert of her pupils at the Y.M.C.A. Hall. The contralto will herself sing Allitsen's fine aria, "Like as the Hart;" and Mr. E. James Davidson will assist. The plan is at 77 Elizabeth-street.

MR. CHARLES PHILIP'S CONCERT.

Mr. Charles Philip, a pianist from the studio of Miss Lottie Hyam, will give an invitation recital at St. James's Hall on Friday, December 15, at 8.15 o'clock, when Mrs. Bisset-Ames, Mr. Bertie Philip, and Mr. Wm. Sholtgen will assist. The plan is at Nicholson's.

MISS ADA BAKER'S PUPILS' RECITAL.

The annual recital by the pupils of Miss Ada Baker will take place at the Masonic Hall, Castlereagh-street, on Monday, December 18. The plan opens at Nicholson's this morning, where invitation cards may also be obtained.

AUSTRAL ORCHESTRAL COLLEGE.

The students of the Austral Orchestral College will give their Christmas concert at St. James's Hall on Wednesday, December 20. Mr. Alfred Hill (principal) will direct the college choral society in part songs, the string quartet in chamber music, and the string orchestra in new compositions of his own. A number of soloists will appear. The plan opens at Nicholson's on Monday.

WEST'S PICTURES.

This evening Hall Caine's famous drama "The Christian," as played by William Anderson's company, will be screened at the Glaciarium. "Glory Quayle" is played by Miss Eugenie Duggan, and "John Storm" by Mr. Roy Redgrave. Another attraction will be the opening of the "Sirens of the Surf" competition. The greatest of interest has been shown in the competition this year, applications from Newcastle and the South Coast having been sent in. Out of over 100 aspirants, 25 of the most beautiful have been chosen to face the judgment of "Paris" in the shape of the Sydney public. Owing to many requests, "A Victim of the Mormons" will be kept on the bill for three nights longer. The usual matinee will be given this afternoon.

THE LYCEUM—SPENCER'S THEATRESCOPE.

The cinematograph representation of "Sweet Nell of Old Drury," with Miss Nellie Stewart in her famous name part, is to be produced at the Lyceum by Spencer's management to-night, and is claimed to be one of the finest productions of its kind ever seen in Sydney. The film is 3000 feet long, and the play is reproduced with remarkable fidelity. The acting throughout is of the highest order, and Miss Stewart's first appearance in photographic drama is likely to arouse all the enthusiasm which her admirers have always shown. Popular as she has always been, she has never achieved a greater success than in "Sweet Nell," a success which, it is expected, will be repeated this evening and at successive performances.

LYRIC AND COLONIAL THEATRES.

Commencing Monday next, December 4, will be presented at the Lyric Theatre what is described by the management as "The greatest historical, romantic, silent photo-play of the age." It is entitled "The Royal Divorce," and is from the life of the great Napoleon and his famous Queen, the Empress Josephine, showing Napoleon's meeting with Josephine, his marriage, coronation, and departure for Italy, his divorce from Josephine, and marriage with Marie Louise of Austria, the birth of the King of Rome, Napoleon's visions of his great battles—Austerlitz, Jena, Moscow, and Waterloo, etc.—and, last of all, his end at St. Helena. At Colonial No. 1 a special attraction named "Spike Shannon's Last Fight" will be presented, showing how a retired pugilist enters the ring again to save his wife. "Queen Elizabeth's Ring," an elephant fight, and other pictures will be seen at Colonial No. 2.

VICTORIA THEATRE.

The excellent programme which is being presented at the Victoria Theatre in Pitt-street is attracting large audiences. Among the favourite pictures are "By Registered Mail," "The Dagger and the Rose," "Across the Divide," and "The Circular Fence."

The management of the American Picture Palace have continued their policy of presenting a programme of all-round interest. Among the star items at present are "Hamlet," "The Senorita's Conquest," "Leather Stocking," and "The Bachelor and the Baby."

PRINCESS THEATRE.

Large audiences nightly frequent the Princess Theatre, and thoroughly enjoy the excellent entertainment provided by J. C. Bain's Advanced Vaudeville Entertainers. The Rees Trio, La Belle Cora, Victor, the Driscoll Bros., and other clever artists make up an attractive programme.

MRS. STUART DOYLE'S CONCERT.

Mrs. Stuart Doyle will give her annual students' concert at St. James's Hall, to-night, when artists contributing to an interesting programme will be Mrs. Fawn (soprano), Miss Hazel Doyle (pianist), Mr. Warwick Mackenzie (violinist), and Mr. H. Thomas (elocutionist). The plan is at Paling's.

MISS GERTRUDE PALMER'S CONCERT.

In place of a pupils' concert, Miss Gertrude Palmer closed her professional round last night with a classic entertainment of her own at St. James's Hall, when she gave distinction to the occasion by introducing Mr. Alfred Hill's new "Sonata No. 3 in A minor for Violin and Piano." The composer himself joined the pianist in the interpretation of the new work, of which a lengthy analytical and informative description was furnished in the programme-notes. The three movements of the sonata are not long, the composer has not over-elaborated, and a certain freshness of treatment, albeit the influence both of Grieg and of Brahms is apparent, sustains the interest throughout. The allegro moestoso opens with a ruggedly dramatic theme, which gives character to the whole, and the audience readily responded to the contrast where the violin music took on a flowing grace above a sparkling part for pianoforte, finally closing with a vigorous coda. In the Andantino the composer employs a Maori chant of simple, solemn, and primeval character, and as there is a second Maori theme of song-like charm, that is handled in a scholarly fashion by both instruments, this must be considered the finest portion of the composition. The final allegretto moderato suggested the gaiety of some old forest dance, and the interchange of phrases of the theme between violin and piano possessed a piquant charm which delighted the listeners. In the rendering, Mr. Hill gave a good idea of the work, though his playing missed some of its more subtle beauties, whilst Miss Palmer, always a musicianly player, was of the utmost service, so that both artists won several "recalls of enthusiasm."

Miss Palmer's chief solo contribution was the captivating first movement of the familiar Grieg "A Minor Concerto," in which Mr. A. Rowland played with sympathy the orchestral part on a second piano. Mr. G. P. Wilkinson showed artistic enterprise in his choice of original songs by Elgar, Henschel, and Dell 'Acqua, winning an encore, and Mr. S. Haffenden-Smith's well-known rendering of "Abide With Me" led to so much applause that "Angus Macdonald" became necessary. Miss Palmer and Mr. Harold Whittle were the accompanists. It should be added that Miss Beulah Pearce-Pearce made a favourable impression in Katherine's Speech ("Taming of the Shrew"), and Mercutio's speech, and that Mrs. Haffenden-Smith's students sang Vincent's "Glorious Sunlight," so that the entertainment was agreeably varied.

HYPNOTISM.

On Tuesday evening, December 12, under vice-regal and other distinguished patronage, Mr. T. H. Betteridge will give refined, instructive, and amusing demonstrations of hypnotism, in St. James's Hall, the proceeds of which will be devoted to the Sydney Hospital Centenary Fund. Seats may be booked at Paling's from Tuesday morning next.

ELOCUTIONARY ASSOCIATION.

On Friday next, at St. James's Hall, the Australasian Elocutionary Association will hold their final recital of the year. In addition to an attractive programme of Shakespearian, humorous, and dramatic recitations, there will be concert items by Misses Leah Myers, Dorothy Loveridge, Dagmar Thompson, and Mr. A. K. Jameson. The plan is on view at Paling's.

AN AUSTRALIAN BOOK.

The New South Wales Bookstall Company issues a new volume in its "Bookstall" series—"Mr. Barrington," by Roy Bridges. The story of the life of George Barrington, the gentleman convict, whose innumerable vices have never quite dimmed the fascination of his qualities, has been often told. Imagination and legend doubtless have assisted towards the picturesqueness of the figure cut by the rogue in the chronicles of our early days, but it is clear enough that he must have been a man of uncommon parts. Mr. Bridges has woven his story round the Barrington, not of the New South Wales convict settlement, but of old London, in the days when Blackheath was the highwayman's happy hunting ground, and the prosaic suburbs of to-day were fields of adventure. The life of Barrington in that picturesque setting has given Mr. Bridges opportunity to weave into the story of a reckless career a good deal of excitement, and stirring incident is never lacking in the pages. The author handles his matter well, and writes with appropriately racy vigour. Barrington's adventures in town, his exploits by road, his loves, and his enemies make up in any case a sufficiently attractive theme, and it suffers nothing at the hands of Mr. Bridges. The author introduces his hero at the time when he was merely "the Barrington, of Dublin," and pilots the reader through many exciting episodes up to his transportation, leaving him finally with a vigorous description of the mutiny on the convict ship Albemarle, and a short epilogue having New South Wales as its scene. The book is an attractive addition to the growing number of works by Australian authors issued by the Bookstall Company.

NOT ANOTHER WORD.

Citizens of Sydney and many country residents have made very careful and thoughtful inquiries concerning the beautiful Florida Estate, hard by Hurstville station. The home sites have been recommended as ideal for citizens all the year round, and admirable from the point of view of the country resident who appreciates the blessing, convenience, and economy of having a cottage in the metropolis for the use of the family, instead of hotel or boarding-house accommodation. Not another word now, but to mention the auction is fixed for Saturday afternoon next, and that HARDIE and GORMAN, or RICHARDSON and CO., supply the informative booklet, "Florida the Favoured."—Advt.

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 2, 1911.

THE IMPROVEMENT OF SYDNEY.

In his speech on Wednesday evening the Premier of Victoria repeated a comparison between the people of Sydney and Melbourne that must seem especially convincing to a visitor who has had to endure the weather of this present week. He agreed with all that the most enthusiastic citizen would say if he dared of the beauty of the harbour and its surroundings, and admitted that from an esthetic point of view Sydney had advantages which exist nowhere else in Australia. But he claimed for Melbourne that what had been denied to her in beauty had been made up by a climate which had not deprived the inhabitants of their Anglo-Saxon vigour, and he claimed for her inhabitants that they were entitled to the greater praise by reason of the use they have made of their limited opportunities. Whereas the people of Sydney have buried their ten talents, the people of Melbourne have so used their one talent as to multiply its value many times. Mr. Murray was on safe ground in drawing his contrast because there are portions of it of which both his audience and his fellow-citizens would in their more peaceful or more candid moments admit the truth. Certainly no visitor from Sydney would hesitate to admire the skill and the enterprise which the Melbourne authorities have applied to developing their open spaces and to beautifying their streets. The Yarra has always been with the Cam one of the two rivers sacred to jest, and will always remain so; but anyone who remembers the state of Yarra banks ten or fifteen years ago will acknowledge that to-day they are a standing proof of energy and foresight. The Sydney Botanic Gardens have the finest site in the world, but the Melbourne Gardens stand as an example of the successful use of unpromising material. Except among people who have a fastidious objection to straight lines, the streets of Melbourne must be the envy of anyone accustomed to the congestion and irregularity of the narrow, crooked streets of Sydney. Having admitted these facts, the average citizen will no doubt think that he has gone far enough. The charge that we are too lazy and easy-going is harder to prove and harder to answer. Some people will be inclined to retort that for many years we have been going through the process of developing our commerce, which normally precedes any advance in the arts; others will point to the great progress that has been made even in Sydney during the past few years. But unfortunately Mr. Murray, if he cared to pursue the subject, could find evidence enough to substantiate his charge in the statements of our own experts and public men, and in the mode of life which is visible about him. The facts which are set out in the report of the Royal Commission on the Improvement of Sydney, and which are contained in the periodical statements of the Lord Mayor, furnish abundant proof of a lack of civic spirit, which has already cost the community much in money, in loss of life, in health, and in spirit. In one respect there is happily no doubt of the change brought about during the last ten years. Partly owing to the disinterested work of a group of citizens, and partly owing to their good fortune in finding a man of ability and patriotism, Sydney has been relieved of the existence of the worst of its slum areas. Possibly the alarm created by the plague was the best ally the new aldermen could find. At any rate, they were able to persuade their constituents that the danger arising from slums was not confined to those who lived in them. The fear of disease proved here, as it has done in London, in Glasgow, and Manchester, the best agent of the corporate spirit, and showed how deeply the dweller in any of the suburbs was interested in the cleansing of Wexford-street and Athlone-place. This particular line of work is obviously by no means ended. There are still in Sydney areas which should not remain as they are, narrow streets and lanes in which there is no room for a healthy life, and which should not be allowed to continue in a new city.

But though much is still to be done, the resumed areas are of themselves enough to justify the outcry of ten years ago for municipal reform, and are the best monument that could be desired of the foresight and unselfish devotion of Sir Allen Taylor. In another, perhaps minor, respect the present generation have done something to prove that they are not quite so insensible of their opportunities as their forefathers. There has been an immense improvement in the state of the parks. The abolition of the railings has added to their beauty, and given them a sense of distance hitherto unthought of, and the flowers seem likely very soon to hide the sham water-worn rock which has satisfied some genius's sense of ornament. The lighting of Hyde Park has made it possible for reputable people to sit there in the evenings, and at rare intervals to listen to a band concert. Why these concerts are not given more often, and why the Domain is not made use of for the same purpose, is one of those questions that to an intelligent stranger must seem unanswerable. There are reasons why even a generation which has outgrown the English mode of life should find itself unable to adopt the out-door habits of Southern Europe. Our pavements are too narrow for the cafe system, and our winds are too uncertain. But even our present limited experience shows that there would be appreciation for open-air concerts in the evening. Numbers of people go to Hyde Park to hear music which too often is only a repetition of the jingle of musical comedy. There would among a music-loving people be a public many times as large for concerts in the Domain in surroundings almost ideally perfect when night would have hidden the atrocities of ill-regulated building on the opposite shore. The need for evening concerts in semi-tropical surroundings should only be mentioned to be admitted. There are no difficulties that cannot be overcome by a sign of determination, and no mistakes of our ancestors to cope with except their inertia. It is very different with the last great problem, which, as Sir Allen Taylor has indicated, must engage the attention both of our municipal authorities and of the Government. The problem of the congestion of traffic has for many years pressed itself upon the attention of all citizens conversant with the necessities of the present day and possessed of a moderate degree of insight into the future. It was perhaps the main question before the commission of 1909, whose report has in some very important respects been referred to the Public Works Committee, and remains in their charge temporarily at rest. A great deal has been done to remedy the immediate evil under the direction of the present Lord Mayor, especially by the widening of Oxford-street, Liverpool-street, and Elizabeth-street. But, as Sir Allen Taylor showed in a recent minute, only the beginning of the work has been touched. The problem is one which must involve a very large expenditure of money, and must call for the services of men of experience, of broad outlook, and of national aspirations. It is, moreover, a problem which increases in urgency every day, and must increase even when the trade of the State is no longer centralised in Sydney to the extent that it is to-day. It has already been put off too long, and, as in the case of the Sibylline books, delay has meant an increase in price. When Sir Allen Taylor's minute was written it was intended as a charge to his successor. Since then we have been led to believe that he will be again a candidate for office. Clearly, Sir Allen has earned the right to retire if he wishes. But, equally clearly, a man who has so much energy, initiative, and intelligence, and will devote as much time as Sir Allen Taylor to the duties of his office is like the benevolent despot—a happy accident, and one of which the citizens will take advantage whilst they can.

BEACH MISMANAGEMENT.

Among the finest of the many manifestations of Sydney's outer endowment are the ocean beaches and the sea-bathing privileges they bring to the very doors of the people. In view of what those beaches are by gift of Nature, and what they might so easily become by virtue of capable organisation, our consistent failure to handle them adequately is by way of being humiliating. A magnificent line of beach sands breaks the rugged front of the ocean cliffs north and south, at close intervals, and near enough to Sydney to be regarded as part of the city's equipment. Access to most of them is easy, and is difficult in respect of none. In point of natural beauty they have at disposal the unrivalled charm of ocean, the flooding light of an almost constant sun, an exhilaration of colour springing in superb harmony from the deep blue of the sea, and the tender blue of the sky, and the grey and green of rock and cliff and wooded hills, and the flashing white of the spread sands themselves. The seclusion of their bays takes the unceasing tribute of ocean, and cries the contrast between that unrest of the sea and the calm of haven, which is the fascination of both. The long swell of the Pacific rolls for ever upon them. The impenetrable solemnity of its vastly moving mass meets at last a long-sought end, breaks and divides and spends itself in curving waves, and is strewn thunderous upon the shore. Beauty of colour, beauty of form, impressive beauty of sound, envelop the beaches of Sydney. Few indeed are the ocean beaches so magnificently set within a panorama of natural beauty. All which indeed is enthusiastically known of Sydney people. The tragedy is that we not only do little to equip our beaches for the public patronage that is increasingly in quest of them and so well deserved by them, but we are carelessly handing them over to the despoiler. Already much of their natural picturesqueness is discounted by the neglect they suffer. The many things which might be done to reinforce their attractiveness are left undone, and in their place lack of imagination and a poor public spirit are heaping ugliness upon them. It is possible to equip a waterside resort for popular attractiveness in either of two ways. One is to take hold of the natural features of the place and to transform them into artificial picturesqueness. The other is to leave the natural beauties as they stand, and to enhance their appeal by provision of simple attractions in harmony with them. The first of these methods has made many a modern watering-place famous. The other is not to be found so easily, but when it is found it repays the search for it. In Sydney we adopt neither one nor other plan. Our beaches have no enterprise, public or private, at their service, and their natural features are only undisturbed that they may be confounded by lack of adequate attention.

Anyone who has seen popular watering-places in Europe and America will remember them as fitted with evidence of pride, and care, and effort to do all that might be done to establish them. The marine front, the gardens and lawns, the sea-wall, the terraces, the esplanade—in a thousand seaside resorts these are details of organisation which have built up places not remarkably dowered with natural beauty to a splendid height of picturesqueness. In some cases, it is true, the effort to establish a popular resort has overloaded it with artificial appeal, but far more often zeal has been tempered with such discretion as to surround the call of the sea with irresistible fascination. The contrast between any of these places and our own Manly, or Coogee, or Bondi, is painful to think of; and few of them approach the Sydney resorts in foundation gift of Nature. Some of our poverty of w[illegible] equipment is due, of course, to lack of money; and it is quite certain that suburban municipalities will never of themselves be able to handle the matter adequately. But for all that, and pending the inevitable time to come when smart business enterprise will set about it, the suburban municipalities concerned need not insult the beauty of the places in their care. The beaches are by now popular resorts, and sea-bathing is an established pastime. Yet all that the waterside authorities appear to be able to do for the beaches, and the bathers, and the public, is to fling hideous structures known as sheds in the very eye of beauty. Such atrocities as our beach sheds would be impossible in the seaside resorts of Europe and America, for one thing because the sacrilege of them would be discerned in advance, and for another thing because imagination and a sense of the picturesque are at service of those places. Even the Mosman council were found approaching the Government last week in respect not of an ocean beach, but of the pretty harbour beach at Balmoral. The improvement of the place desired by the council was a shed. It is almost incredible, but true. Sheds are really not the only possible beach-furnishing. There was fine opportunity, in that case, for the Mosman council to get beyond the crude ugliness of the primitive. Might they not, for example, strew their foreshore with small tents of the sort common on European beaches? They are at least free of the bald crudity of heavy weatherboard deposited in the centre of a landscape, and the long line of their canvas has even something of picturesqueness of effect. As to the ocean beaches, the abomination of sheds is not their only poverty of idea. There is no adequate control in any sense of the word. Beyond the water-line the sands themselves are neglected, the sea-front possibilities are lost in lean meagreness, bathers of both sexes take their chance of losing, while they swim, essential garments—the whole equipment, in short, would be ludicrous if it were not disgraceful. Occasionally, too, issues a burst of misplaced energy, as that curious outcry of late against sun-bathers, who, though they follow their pleasure in closest seclusion, are somehow held to offend. But from every point of view the state of our beaches is a reproach to a city like Sydney, and it reveals, moreover, an exceedingly unimaginative grappling with a great opportunity. It would really advantage the seaside authorities themselves and the fame of Sydney if they could be persuaded to come together in conference, with a view to organise their resorts on European lines.

To-day's "Herald."—Sir Henry Lucy (page 9) in a discussion of projected changes in the Cabinet says that Mr. Birrell will not leave the Irish Secretaryship, but will see the Home Rule Bill through. The unpopularity of Mr. Winston Churchill is described as due both to his political change of creed and to his personal characteristics. In view of the momentous decision to be reached by the New Zealand people next Thursday on national prohibition, a study of the situation by our special correspondent will be found extremely interesting. It is headed "Wet or Dry" (page 7). The Rev. H. Stacy Waddy, of the Kings School, contributes the first of a series of articles on the great Delhi Durbar of the 12th inst. (page 9). He shows that from immemorial time there has always been an Indian Sovereign at Delhi, hence Indians and Europeans alike, in view of history both ancient and recent, agreed without discussion on that superb theatre for the coronation of the first British Emperor in India. The fourth of our series of articles on Sydney continues to deal faithfully with our shortcomings as city builders (page 9). The writer of our "In the Garden" notes (page 7), comforted by the good rains and general good growing weather this week, discourses cheerfully of many pleasant tribes, from onions to yellow callas. On page 6 appears a reminder of the season in a discourse of Christmas books.

Mr. Wade on Magistrates' Duties.—A suggestion was made last night by Mr. Wade, M.L.A., in an address to the New South Wales Justices' Association, that the State should "level up" to the position occupied by England and Victoria with respect to honorary magistrates. There could, he remarked, be no gainsaying the fact that the justice of the peaceship, in New South Wales at all events, had been the occasion for a certain amount of mirth and some serious comment. One was naturally tempted to ask the reason for this. Magistrates in Victoria had much more responsibility and a larger field of jurisdiction vested in them. With the exception of the metropolitan area, nearly all the country districts were administered to a very large extent through the medium and instrumentality of honorary justices. Here the tendency was to carry out the administration of justice through the medium of paid officers. The work that was given to the honorary justice was more or less of an irresponsible character. To some extent this was owing to the fact that in the early days there was not the same respect paid to the position of honorary magistrate as was accorded it in England and in Victoria. In days gone by the position had been defiled from its proper service, and in some instances utilised as a reward for political and personal services. "I am sure," said Mr. Wade, in conclusion, "that good work can be done by yourselves by impressing on the public that you have no desire that any Government should make appointments, except of men who have the necessary qualifications and their own merits to place behind them the letters J.P."

Morpheus in Parliament.—The effects of yesterday's all-night sitting of Parliament were plainly visible on the members as the dawn began to approach. The speeches became languid expositions of ingenious, but somnolent verbosity, which soon cradled the representatives of the people in fitful sleep. When the day broke and the sun came out in all his splendour, penetrating the Chamber in defiance of the artificial light, the House looked like a dismantled bedroom, dismal and uninviting. The speakers droned to the accompaniment of gentle snores from the members on the benches. The scene was sickly and anaemic. When Colonel Onslow, shortly before midday, began his speech on the Estimates of the Agricultural Department, there were 13 members in the Chamber. The fatal influence of this unlucky number soon showed its effect. The speaker had scarcely warmed to his subject when six members deliberately arranged themselves comfortably on the benches and promptly went off to sleep. The Colonel ignored this callous indifference to his apposite criticisms of the past, present, and future intentions of the Government, and spoke with a determination that overcame such an insignificant matter as a lack of hearers.

A Clash Between Politicians.—It is an unwritten rule for politicians to steer clear of party politics at social functions, but sometimes they find it difficult to observe the rule when an opportunity presents itself to score a point. There was some diversion at the close of the function on the North Coast S.N. Company's new steamer Wollonbar yesterday afternoon, when Mr. R. A. Price, the member for Gloucester, produced bulky figures to show the development which had taken place in the North Coast during the last 10 years. He stated that all this had been brought about by private enterprise, irrespective of State socialism or State aid. Incidentally Mr. Price referred to the agitation of the day for the increase of payment of members. He said he was against payment of members entirely. The Minister for Mines (Mr. Alfred Edden) later on said he did not know why there should be this outburst of enthusiasm "from this man known as Mr. Price." "He can talk," observed one of the audience. "Yes, he can talk," said Mr. Edden—"words, words, multitude of words—mere words. (Laughter.) Why they should be directed as they were I do not know. I was invited to be on this steamer to-day, and it has been somewhat of an eye-[illegible] to be here. I did not expect to be subjected to wild-cat talk. No one realises better than I do the amount of expenditure this company has incurred, and the amount of good it has done in opening up outlets from the North Coast, and affording relief thereby to our primary producers. This hand of mine would be the last to sign anything which would do anything to retard the progress which this great company is making. As for Mr. Price's hysteria, if he does not believe in payment of members, let him give up drawing his salary, so that it might remain in the consolidated revenue. Of course," the Minister added, amidst laughter, "we know he is a most generous man; we have known Richard before."

Preference to Unionists.—Mr. Justice Higgins, when asked yesterday to reopen the seamen's award with a view to including preference to unionists, made an emphatic declaration. "It is utterly useless," he declared, "It is not a matter in which I have laid down any universal binding principle. I have never yet had anyone to give me sufficient ground for showing that the preference which I am enabled to award under the Act is a fitting remedy for evils and difficulties which admittedly exist when the burden of struggling for the men falls upon the unions, and when other men who are not in the union get the benefit without bearing any of the expense of carrying it on, but sometimes help the employers. I have never yet been shown how this proposal is a fitting remedy, and why should I tie the hands of the employers as to the character of the man whom they should employ? I feel clear on this point, and I refuse the request."

FEDERAL LAND TAX.

AN AMENDING BILL.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

The bill amending the Land Tax Assessment Act to meet the High Court life tenancy decisions was introduced in the House of Representatives by the Prime Minister to-day.

It places persons who have a life or greater interest in shares of the income from land in a category with joint owners. They are to furnish returns. The unimproved half of their lands are to be taken to be equal to the unimproved value of land owned in fee simple, which would produce the same rent. Where there are joint owners the deduction from the unimproved value of the land may be either the sum of £5000 for each original share under the settlement or will, or the sum which bears the same proportions to the unimproved value of the land as the share bears to the whole.

A number of amendments are made to the machinery clauses, and it is provided that the changes will apply to the tax for the present financial year. In leases where a premium is granted it should be classed as rent.

RUSSIA AND PERSIA.

"VERY SERIOUS EFFECTS."

REFERENCES IN THE COMMONS.

LONDON, Dec. 1.

In the House of Commons last night, Sir Edward Grey, Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, stated that the effect of Russia's action in regard to Persia might be very serious.

No reflection, he said, was cast upon the energy or the intentions of Major Morgan Shuster, Treasurer-General for Persia, but his persistence in appointing British officials in Northern Persia "made things impossible."

He added that the Government was consulting with Russia as to the best way of preserving the Anglo-Russian agreement unimpaired.

Russia had already assured Britain that her occupation of Northern Persia was only temporary.

MEJLISS CONSIDERS ULTIMATUM.

FIERCE TRIBESMEN.

FRIENDLY MISSION CUT UP.

ANOTHER ASSAM TRAGEDY.

CALCUTTA, Dec. 1, 11.40 a.m.

It is reported that the Daphla tribe, on the north-east frontier of Assam, has cut up a friendly mission which has been sent to the Miri country in connection with the Abor punitive expedition.

The report states that Captain Graham has been killed, and that Mr. Kerwood, the political agent, has been taken prisoner.

(The Abor expedition has been despatched to avenge the murder by Abor tribesmen of Mr. Noel Williamson, political agent, and Dr. Gregorson, in April last.)

BRITISH NAVY.

MR. CHURCHILL'S POLICY.

BIG FORWARD MOVE.

LONDON, Nov. 30.

It is rumoured that Mr. Winston Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, is contemplating a naval loan of £30,000,000, besides the usual estimates.

The "Pall Mall Gazette" has reason to believe that the loan will be larger.

Besides shipbuilding, it will include a special allotment for Dreadnought docks.

Dec. 1.

The newspapers deny the report that a naval loan is to be floated, except one covering the cost of the constructional work at the Rosyth base.

A TERRIFIC BROADSIDE.

The "Daily Telegraph" states that the five battleships of the present year's programme will have a broadside of 14,000lb, as compared with the 12,500lb broadside of the Centurion, the great 23,000-ton battleship now under construction at Devonport.

NATIONAL INSURANCE.

A "NON-CONTENTIOUS" MEASURE

OPPOSITION LEAVE CHAMBER.

Dec. 1.

In all 528,000 protests against the National Insurance Bill have been received by members of the House of Commons.

In the House last night the report stage of the bill was concluded. A total of 470 Government amendments were passed with the aid of the guillotine.

The leader of the Opposition, Mr. Bonar Law, declared that an outrage was being perpetrated in order that there should be no obstacle to Home Rule. If the Opposition challenged the divisions, he declared, the House would have to sit until half past 7 on Saturday evening.

The Chancellor of the Exchequer, Mr. Lloyd-George, remarked that the bill was supposed to be non-contentious.

The Opposition left the Chamber in a body when the divisions were called.

CLAIMS OF DOCTORS.

LONDON, Nov. 30.

As a result of conferences with the British Medical Association, Mr. Lloyd George, Chancellor of the Exchequer, has given notice of amendments to the National Insurance Bill giving doctors increased representation on health committees.

He has arranged for the conciliation board to settle disputes, but the local authorities will arrange the amount of remuneration.

THE NEW HEBRIDES.

SUGGESTED CONFERENCE.

AUSTRALIAN INTOLERANCE FEARED.

LONDON, Dec. 1.

An article in the "Morning Post," dealing with the announcement that the Foreign Office is discussing the rectification of the boundaries in Africa with France, suggests the desirableness of including the Pacific within the scope of the friendly rearrangements.

Britain, it points out, is risking the chance of being placed in an awkward position in regard to the New Hebrides by some action of the Commonwealth, which would lack the tolerance necessary in negotiations with foreign Powers.

The article suggests a conference with France upon Pacific matters, at which Australia and New Zealand would be represented.

MARITIME MISHAPS.

A STORMY VOYAGE.

LONDON, Nov. 30.

The ship Celtic Race, which left Sydney on August 8 for Queenstown, encountered severe gales, during which the vessel was thrown on her beam ends. The cabins were gutted, and three boats were lost.

The following cable was received by the Sydney Marine Underwriters:—

"The ship Celtic Race, which left Sydney on August 8, for Queenstown, with 26,591 bags of wheat, has arrived, leaking badly. Part of the cargo has been jettisoned, and the remainder is 'heated.' If the surveyor's report is favourable the vessel will be towed to her destination."

A STEAMER DRIFTING.

HALIFAX, Nov. 30.

The British steamer Berwind Moore is drifting helplessly off the coast of Nova Scotia, her rudder having been lost. An attempt at towing failed, as a storm is raging.

AN OMINOUS SILENCE.

VANCOUVER, Dec. 1.

The steamer Tees, with many passengers aboard, struck a rock off the coast yesterday. Her wireless operator summoned aid, but since then there has been silence. A tug has been despatched to the scene of the mishap.

STANDARD OIL COMPANY.

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.

The Standard Oil Company announces that the subsidiary companies will immediately take over the control of their own affairs, and be independent of the parent company.

NEMESIS.

AN OPPOSITION JOKE.

SITTING PROLONGED.

LABOUR MEMBER EJECTED.

There was an amusing climax to a two-days' enforced continuous sitting in the Assembly yesterday.

The Government, having forced through by the gag a considerable amount of business, contentious and otherwise, proposed to comfortably adjourn at 6 o'clock last night. The sitting had then lasted 25½ hours. Ministers were blissfully contemplating home and slippers when they received a rude shock. The Opposition for once indulged in successful strategy at the expense of the Labour party. And the Labour party was naturally very annoyed.

Having strenuously disposed of the Agricultural Estimates, £199,295, as against £182,380 last year, the adjournment of the House was moved. Then came a surprise. With the moving of the adjournment there was an exodus of Government members. They considered the thing as good as done. But the Opposition sought some diversion by administering to the Government a dose of its own medicine, and without any sugar-coating. In other words, Opposition members talked on the adjournment, and refused to allow the Government to go home. And the talk was mostly on the inhuman cruelty of the Government in making the Opposition sit unnecessarily for 25½ hours.

The Opposition had complete possession of the House. Its members were strong enough to form a quorum without the Labour party, and the latter dared not go home, dreading what the Opposition might do if left entirely to itself. Ministerialists, therefore, formed a long queue at the door on the right of the Speaker in listless fashion, and watched with chagrin the growing wakefulness of the Opposition. Even the Speaker was alone and at the mercy of the Opposition.

A DIVERSION.

A little diversion was created by Mr. M'Garry entering the Chamber and attacking Ministers, and the Minister for Works in particular, for paying no attention to certain serious complaints he had made. The most serious was a statement that there was an outbreak of infectious disease in the Murrumbidgee irrigation area, which the Minister refused to take any notice of. Mr. M'Garry protested strongly, and had some hot words with members of his own side. Ministers ignored the attack altogether. By this time the whole of the Government side had sheathed their umbrellas and hung up their coats, and were in full attendance.

The next thing of interest was the removal of a Labour member for the first time since Mr. Willis has occupied the Chair. Thrice Mr. Peters was called to order, and on the third occasion, to the intense surprise of the Government and amid the loud laughter of the Opposition, Mr. Peters was firmly but gently escorted out of the Chamber by the Sergeant-at-Arms. There were numerous other incidents, and uncomplimentary remarks were shouted across the Chamber from either side. Colonel Onslow and Mr. Kelly indulged in a battle of the voices, Labour members assisting Mr. Kelly.

Finally, Mr. Wade rose, made a dignified protest against the unreasonable attitude of the Government, and concluded with the fervent hope that it had taken to heart the lesson administered.

The Attorney-General brought things to an amicable conclusion by saying that he was sport enough to appreciate the joke put up on the Government by the Opposition. He declared, however, that the Governmnt would provide the Opposition with so much sport on some other occasion that it would be glad to get away from the House.

It remained for Mr. Fitzpatrick to strike the final note of exultation. "The hon. member will admit that we have had him on toast," he said, and the Attorney-General smilingly replied, "Undoubtedly." The House thereupon adjourned—6.45 p.m.

CEMETERY SCANDALS.

EIGHTEEN IN ONE GRAVE.

BODIES DISINTERRED.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

Investigations have been made at Bendigo in connection with the cemetery scandals. To-day the reports were submitted to the City Council.

Councillor Curnow said that he had a report, signed by himself and Councillor Carolin. Eighteen persons, he said, were buried in one grave—a Chinese in the bottom and a Chinese on top. The grave was now 25 feet deep. They should not be permitted to bury a Chinese above a white man. In another grave there were 17 bodies.

After considerable discussion, it was decided to admit the report.

Councillors Curnow and Carolin in their report said they were convinced that evidence given by the grave-diggers was sufficient to justify immediate drastic changes in the supervision, management, and control of the cemetery. In one case it was asserted that the body of a Chinese had been exhumed after it had been buried three weeks, and removed to another part of the cemetery.

Instances were also given of from three to four bodies being disinterred to permit of graves being deepened.

STRUCK BY LIGHTNING.

BREWARRINA, Friday.

Charles Hodge and George Schofield were riding on Quantambone station, 12 miles from town, when the horse ridden by the latter was struck dead by lightning. Schofield was rendered unconscious. Hodge reported the matter at Quantambone, and a doctor and Sergeant Ferguson went by motor car to the scene of the accident. Schofield was brought to the local hospital, where he now lies in a very critical condition.

FRENCH SOCIALIST LEADER.

INVITED TO AUSTRALIA.

PERTH, Friday.

Mr. M'Callum, secretary of the Australian Labour Federation, has written to M. Jaures, leader of the French Socialists, asking him to extend his proposed lecturing tour to Australia.

The federation has also communicated with the Labour organisation in the eastern States, seeking their co-operation.

INSANITARY SCHOOL.

SCATHING INDICTMENT.

WAGGA, Friday.

The recently-appointed sanitary inspector of Wagga has presented a report in scathing terms on the insanitary conditions found to exist at South Wagga Public School.

He describes these conditions as filthy, indecent, and insanitary, and expresses surprise that they have not been the cause of an epidemic. In a lesser degree the Roman Catholic school is included in his indictment.

HORSES FOR JAVA.

SHIPMENT BY EURYALUS.

Three Dutch officials, Captain J. Schultz, Lieutenant Van Riemsdyk, and Dr. J. Van Dalm, are at present in Sydney for the purpose of examining horses bought for the Dutch Government prior to their shipment to Java. About 400 head have been purchased, all for army purposes, and will go forward by the Euryalus in a week or two. The Dutch authorities have for the past 12 years bought practically all the horses required for the army in Java and their other possessions in the East Indies from Australia, a total of nearly 4000 having gone from here during that period.

BURGLARY AT MOSMAN.

By breaking the lock of the back door with an axe, burglars gained an entrance into the residence of Mr. Frederick Charles Ferguson in Spencer-road, Mosman, and ransacked the premises. Jewellery to the value of £25 was stolen.

THE MOTOR TAX.

WHAT IS THE OBJECT?

INDIGNATION IN THE TRADE.

LOCAL MANUFACTURE NOT POSSIBLE.

The motoring business is just beginning to get a sure footing in Australia, but, judging from the new tariff, it is evidently the intention of the Minister for Customs to make things as uncomfortable as possible for those who are interested in the trade, whether as manufacturers abroad, agents, or buyers.

The poor motorist has thought himself badly treated all along in the matter of Customs duties, but now it is to be popped on to him a little more—doubtless in pursuance of the good old rule that the man who can afford luxuries can afford to pay for them.

But the time has gone by when the motor was simply a luxury for the rich; to-day it is a commercial necessity. Of course, there are still a large number of people who buy cars solely for pleasure, and if the Government could tax these people, and leave the others alone, the case for further taxation might be stronger than it is; but that is impossible, and all must pay.

The business houses, so many of which are now using motor cars and lorries in place of the horse vehicles, must pay. The suburban and country doctor, who may be struggling to work up a decent practice, must pay. The farmer, who has lately taken to using the motor vehicle, because it saves him time and money, must pay.

The manufacturer will not pay the duty, but will pass it on to the agent, and the agent will pass it on to the buyer, with a little bit extra tacked on to it—for an agent expects a profit on every pound of his outlay.

If we could manufacture motor vehicles in Australia, there might be something to be said in favour of increased duties, but we cannot. Why we cannot do this we shall see presently.

A chassis of English make was free of duty, but one of foreign make carried a duty of 5 per cent. Body work carried a duty of 30 to 35 per cent., according to whether it came from England or a foreign country. Accessories, generally speaking, had to pay a slightly higher duty, a preference of 5 per cent. being allowed to Great Britain. The Customs Department now proposes a duty of 10 per cent. on a British-made chassis, which was admitted free, and this means 15 per cent. on the foreign article.

THE MANUFACTURING QUESTION.

If it is thought by the department that in doing this it will encourage the establishment of motor car factories in Australia, it would appear to be wide of the mark. It would be a very difficult thing to produce a chassis here. It is not impossible, of course, to produce an engine here, but owing to the lack of the necessary machinery it would prove a very expensive task. And the population of Australia is not yet large enough to provide a demand sufficient to justify an outlay on special machinery. There are machines for all the special parts of a chassis. There are gear-cutting machines, planing machines, moulding, casting, and other machines. A factory that is turning out from 20,000 to 40,000 cars a month can afford to have them, but we can hardly expect to see them in Australia just yet. And if we had them, the cost of labour would make an Australian-made chassis much more expensive than an imported one.

Then there is the question of patents, on which royalties would have to be paid. For instance, one well-known make of motor lorry has seven separate patents, the chief one being the governor. None of the other makers can put this governor on, although many of them would like to. Again, there is a motor, the underwork of which is of special steel. Frame and body are pressed out of one sheet of steel, and a steel-pressing machine of that kind must be a very expensive affair. It is only the large output that makes these things possible.

As it is, the buyer of a motor car pays anything from £30 to £80 in duty, and that, it is contended, is enough, without any additional tax.

ASSEMBLING THE PARTS.

"If the Federal Government has an idea that it is going to encourage an industry," said the manager of one of the largest importing firms in Sydney yesterday, "I would like to know when it imagines the industry is going to begin, with a 10 per cent. protective duty. The only industry I can think of as being in their mind's eye is that of assembling the parts together, and on that basis it is ridiculous. In the first place, we must assume that the manufacturer abroad knows the peculiarities of his machine better than we do, and we would have agents here endeavouring to understand all the different parts, and mastering none of them. No high-class chassis comes out here without the best of supervision, and all the pleasure of motoring is to go out in your car with the sure feeling that you are coming back again. Possibly the Government's proposal is aimed at the rich—more class legislation—but many people who can scarcely be called rich find it necessary to use motors."

DISTINCT BLOW TO THE TRADE.

According to Mr. I. Phisackerley, the extra 10 per cent. means a distinct blow to the whole trade. "It is a physical impossibility," he said, "to build cars out here. There is that little loophole they give you for bringing the cars out in separate parts, but there is a saving clause there even. Supposing you brought out the chassis in different parts and put it together here, the department could turn round and put on 10 per cent. if the parts were of British make and 15 per cent. if foreign, because the Minister has the option of charging duty on the whole if the component parts are more than two. However, the public will have to pay. The poor medico in the suburbs, struggling to work up a practice, will now have to pay practically £50 more for his car."

PROSPECTIVE BUYERS WILL "JIB."

Some interesting remarks were made on the subject by Mr. J. Fred. Howarth, consulting motor engineer, of Vickery's-chambers. "I have been in the business here for eleven years," he said, "and my experience is that many of those who buy motor cars are absolutely strained to the last pound. A man will, in fact, sometimes mortgage his house to get a car. The chassis price of a car of decent make comes to anything from £360 to £450. Ten per cent. on that means another £36 or so, which the agent has to lay out, and on that extra 10 per cent. he will want his profit, bringing the extra cost to the buyer up to about £50. Many who are thinking of buying cars at present will 'jib' at this. The less cars there are here the less work there will be for tyre repairers, body builders, etc. There is not enough scope here for manufacturing, and even if there were the cars made here would have to face a big prejudice against them, and the works would probably have to be shut down. Apart from that, owing to the constant labour troubles here, it is very hard to get any man to invest money in any industrial proposition at all. This extra 10 per cent. will spoil a lot of trade, and will throw more men out of work than would be employed in manufacturing cars, even if such a thing were practicable. It is almost an impossibility at present to get a good turner or fitter in Sydney, even for repair work, let alone for manufacturing."

H.I.G.M.S. CORMORAN AT SUVA.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—The attention of the Naval Commander-in-Chief having been called to the cable emanating from Vancouver, published in your issue of the 17th inst. relative to the movements of H.M.S. Prometheus and the German cruiser Cormoran at Suva in September last, I am directed by his Excellency to inform you that the statement is absolutely without foundation, no such incident having occurred.

I am, etc.,
E. BREMNER,
Secretary to the Naval Commander-in-Chief.
H.M.S. Powerful, Auckland, Nov. 24.

RELIGIOUS PEACE.

PRIEST'S APPEAL.

"GOOD FEELING SHOULD EXIST."

NOTABLE SPEECH.

LITHGOW, Friday.

The Rev. Father Sheridan, a Roman Catholic priest, made a notable speech at Eskbank, the purport of which was an appeal for a cessation of sectarian strife.

Speaking at a welcome social tendered to the Rev. J. T. Thorburn, the new Presbyterian minister at Eskbank, Father Sheridan said he looked upon it as his duty to do everything in his power to keep the religious peace and to avoid religious disturbance in any place he had been to, and whilst he was in Lithgow they would never find him coming forward, either in the press or out of it, to abuse his fellow man because he wished to honour God or worship Him in a different way from himself and before a different altar. (Applause.)

It was, he added, Moore who wrote: "Shall I give up the friend whom I've valued and tried, if he kneels not before the same altar with me?" Why should he personally give up the friend he had valued and tried because he chanced, by the mere accident of birth, to worship God in a different way. They were directing their course heavenward, all working their passage there, maybe in a different way, but at the same time they all hoped to get to the same place of rest.

He thought it highly creditable to the good sense of the community that not a single word was said from day to day to break up that kindly good feeling that should exist at all times between the different denominations. They were, after all, only a short time here.

"Is it not a pity," he said, "that we should ever disturb the peace of religious harmony by falling out amongst ourselves, and it would be a mistake for the heads of the religious denominations to advertise themselves by abusing their neighbours' religion because it was different to their own. Let us do all we can to keep peace and harmony in this little community of ours."

The Rev. D. Smith, speaking immediately afterwards, expressed his thanks to Father Sheridan for the spirit in which he had come to the meeting, and the spirit of his words. He was sure he was voicing the thanks of all present. (Applause.)

AUSTRALIA'S BACK DOOR.

DEVELOPING TIMOR.

LABOUR A SHILLING A DAY.

LAND A PENNY AN ACRE.

The island of Timor, of which the eastern half forms the last relic of Portuguese rule in the Malay Archipelago, lies just at Australia's back door, and is more truly Australia in soil, climate, and animal life than it is Malay-Asiatic. Its nearest point lies only 300 miles from Port Darwin. For 300 years or more the Portuguese have been there, but part of the island fell to the lot of Holland by the Treaty of 1859, that portion remaining in almost the same primitive condition as when acquired. The Portuguese territory is, however, being developed, and some Australian capital is finding its way there.

Captain Hang, who left Sydney five or six months ago to secure petroleum concessions on behalf of a Sydney syndicate, returned by the St. Albans yesterday. He says that, while no great flow of oil has been struck, yet there are plenty of indications of abundant supplies. At Paulacca, for instance, there was always an oily scum on the surface of the river, which the natives took off with bamboos, and it was used after filtration through fibre by the Europeans for burning in lamps. He had secured two concessions, and four had been taken up by the Timor Petroleum Company, Limited, of Sydney, one by the International Petroleum Company (Hongkong), one by Captain Bunge (Hongkong), and another by the Companiha de Petrolio das Colonias Portuguesas, the last-named being a big concern at Paulacca. Paulacca was about 30 miles in the interior, and it was proposed to lay pipes to the coast, so that the oil could be pumped into reservoirs at Manatuta, where there was a harbour. Already small quantities of oil had been got at a depth of 100ft and 200ft, but the main supplies had yet to be tapped.

The Portuguese Government was, Captain Hang stated, offering every facility for the development of the place, and labour was exceedingly cheap, costing only 1s a week with rations. The Government had the natives under very strict control, and could guarantee as much labour as was required, the natives being compelled to work whether they wanted to or not. All over the island there were military stations connected by telephone, and when a hundred or a thousand natives were wanted the order went round, and they had to be got. Still, while the Portuguese were very firm with the natives, they were not cruel taskmasters.

Apart from petroleum, good progress was being made in agriculture, many successful coffee, cocoa, and copra plantations having been established. Land was very cheap, being available on perpetual lease at the rate of about a penny per acre, and he was surprised that more people did not take up areas there, though the lack of a good steamship service was a great drawback, calls only being made every two months.

SOFT DRINKS SCARE.

ANTICIPATED BY HOTELS.

ADELAIDE, Friday.

The serious aspect of the strike of the employees in the aerated waters trades, so far as the public is concerned, was lessened by the cool change in the weather which occurred to-day.

Anticipating the trouble, hotel-keepers had laid in as big stocks of aerated waters as it was possible to obtain. Cellar accommodation is so taxed that most of the leading houses have heaps of crates stacked in bars, and the supply will possibly last a week, when waters will be introduced from other States.

The manufacturers held a meeting this morning, and decided to refer the matters in dispute to the Federated Employers' Association.

MONUMENT DESECRATED.

AT WATSON'S BAY.

MISCREANT ESCAPES IN MOTOR CAR.

A wanton act of vandalism was perpetrated at Watson's Bay yesterday afternoon.

According to the story told to the police by Mr. Gibson, the lighthouse keeper at Watson's Bay, he saw a young man pull the sword and scabbard from the monument erected to the memory of Captain Grieve in the Gap Park, Watson's Bay. The young man then walked to a motor car which was standing outside the park, and drove off in the direction of the city.

SPEAKER'S GOWN.

ROBE DISCARDED.

ADELAIDE, Friday.

A question was raised in the Assembly in regard to the Speaker wearing a gown.

Mr. Jackson has followed the example of the Speaker of the House of Representatives, and has discarded his robe of office. He explained that there was nothing in the Standing Orders to compel him to wear it or even to make members render obeisance to him when he took the chair.

This practice has fallen into disuse since Mr. Jackson has been Acting Speaker. He also said there was nothing to compel the clerks to wear gowns.

The Leader of the Opposition asked if it was necessary for members on hot days to wear their coats, but the Speaker said that matter would be left to the good sense of members.

BROOKLYN RUNS AGROUND.

Messrs. Allen Taylor and Co.'s steamer Brooklyn, which left on Thursday evening for Nowra and Jervis Bay, returned to port yesterday. Her master, Captain Bairstock, reported to the Department of Navigation that the vessel ran ashore at Cape Banks. She, however, was refloated almost immediately. On arrival the vessel went into dock.

A MISSION ABROAD.

TELEPHONE SERVICE.

THREE OFFICIALS SELECTED.

It is understood that the Federal Government has definitely decided that the telephone services of the Commonwealth must be improved, and that three officers of the department have been selected to visit England and America to make a thorough investigation of the up-to-date methods of those countries.

Following are the names of the officials who are said to have been asked to act as special commissioners:—

Mr. J. Hesketh, chief electrical engineer of the Commonwealth Post and Telegraph Department.

Mr. George Herbert, assistant electrical engineer, New South Wales.

Mr. G. H. Morgan, manager of the telephone branch in Melbourne.

The investigation carried out by Mr. Ramsay Sharp in connection with the Sydney and Melbourne telephone services, and his reports thereon, are stated to be largely responsible for the decision of the Government.

Mr. Sharp, who is himself an electrical engineer, and who has made a specialty of telephones, reported the services in both Sydney and Melbourne were most unsatisfactory, and far behind the times, more particularly in Sydney. He threw most of the blame on the engineers, stating that the present condition of the telephone service was due to lack of foresight on the part of these officials.

The commissioners, it is understood, are to sail for England, via America, this month.

£100,000 EXTRA.

EFFECT OF SEAMEN'S AWARD

OFFICIAL STATEMENT.

HIGHER FREIGHTS LIKELY.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

It will cost the shipping companies £100,000 a year to give effect to the seamen's award just delivered by Mr. Justice Higgins.

Besides having to pay seamen all that they asked for, other expenses will be incurred by the steamship owners in carrying out the terms of the award.

Mr. M'Donald, secretary of the Commonwealth Steamship Owners' Association, stated to-day that the added cost would not be less than £100,000 a year. The principal items of extra expenditure will be as follows:—

Wages and extra manning, £57,000.

Increased overtime on account of sea watches being included in port hours of work, £15,000.

Overtime rates increased by 20 per cent. to 25 per cent., £8000.

Cleaning forecastles, £3000.

Allowance for holidays at sea, £1500.

Extra for nightwatchmen, £1400.

These extras alone make a total of £85,900.

On being asked whether the effect of the increased expenditure would be to cause freights to be raised, Mr. M'Donald said: "That is a matter entirely for individual shipping companies. The association does not deal with freights or passenger rates. It is constituted only to look after the Parliamentary and labour matters. Speaking personally I should say that freights must be increased. I cannot see how a company can carry on if this is not done."

CONTROL OF GOLF.

NEW ASSOCIATION.

COUNCIL CONDITIONALLY APPROVES.

The government of golf in New South Wales is to be put upon a sound footing.

At present the sport suffers from divided control. The Golf Council manages the State championships, and the Suburban and Country Association represents all the suburban and country golf clubs, there being over 50 of them.

The movement now proceeding is to establish a strong association controlling the game throughout the State. A definite step in this direction was taken yesterday, when a meeting of the New South Wales Golf Council, called specially to consider the matter, was held, and resolutions were carried affirming the desirability of forming such an association.

The draft constitution of the proposed association, submitted by the hon. secretary, Mr. W. A. Windeyer, was conditionally approved.

The meeting was adjourned to December 8 to allow the New South Wales Golf Council to consider the matter. The council consists of the Suburban and Country Golf Association, the Royal Sydney Golf Club, and the Australian Golf Club. A meeting of the association is called for next Thursday, and the two metropolitan clubs will also hold meetings during the week.

There seems to be little doubt that the formation of a strong association, representative of the whole of the golf players in New South Wales, will be accomplished.

NAVAL COLLEGE SITE.

DREADNOUGHT FUND RECOUPED.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

The Federal Treasurer, Mr. Fisher, said today that he had returned to the Lord Mayor of Sydney the deposit of £20,000 which had been paid over to the Commonwealth for the purchase of a naval college from the trustees of the Dreadnought Fund when it was understood that the site was to be Port Hacking.

Mr. Fisher added that the refund of the deposit would not prejudice the committtee of the trust in deciding whether Jervis Bay would be considered an eligible site to receive the subsidy.

TRADE WITH THE ISLANDS.

SYDNEY'S ADVANTAGES.

NEW ZEALAND'S POSITION.

One of the oldest of the island traders is Captain Ross, who has been engaged in that occupation for 34 years, his headquarters being at Auckland. He is as well qualified, therefore, as any man in Australasia to talk on the subject.

Asked why New Zealand had allowed so much of the trade to slip away, Captain Ross said that it might be that Auckland merchants did not set so high a value on it as the people in Sydney. Very few sent travellers to the islands; in fact, there was only one softgoods house in Auckland that made any effort to retain and increase trade. Auckland merchants seemed to be doing very well, and, as a rule did not look for custom beyond their own province, which was making great strides. Besides, the softgoods houses, except in one case, did not keep material suitable for the islands in stock. The spheres of island trade were more defined than they used to be. New Zealanders had dropped out of the trade of certain groups—the Marshalls and Gilberts, for example—leaving them to their rivals, and the Sydney merchants had dropped out of others, such as Niue, with which, at one time they did almost half the trade, and the outlying islands of Tonga, off the steamers' track. Tonga itself he regarded as neutral ground. New Zealand did most of the business in provisions and Sydney in softgoods. As far as the islands within New Zealand's sphere were concerned, he considered that the Dominion was holding her own.

At one time there were between 30 and 40 schooners trading from Auckland to the islands, but there were only two or three now. But it did not follow on account of that fact that the trade had diminished, because it had to be recollected that the cargoes that used to be carried by the sailing craft were now taken by a frequent service of big steamers instead.

Sydney's trade with the islands had increased in greater proportion than New Zealand's, because land was obtainable in the islands within Sydney's sphere—New Guinea, the Solomons, the New Hebrides, and others—and consequently, much more development was going on. And what was still more important, labour was available. That was not the case with Tonga and the islands of the Eastern Pacific. In Tonga, for instance, land could not be bought by Europeans for planting purposes. All the Tongans would do was to lease business sites to Europeans. Even if land were to be got, labour could not, as the Tongans had a rooted objection to hard work, and had stopped the importation of labour from Nue.

HOUSE ROBBED AND FIRED.

ONE COTTAGE DESTROYED.

TWO DAMAGED.

MEN SEEN RUNNING AWAY.

A fire, which destroyed one cottage and severely damaged two others in Bayley-street, Marrickville, on Thursday night, is believed by the police to have been accidentally or wilfully caused by two men, who were seen about the premises, apparently with the intention of stealing.

The outbreak was first noticed by a neighbour, Mr. Cope, who managed to arouse the inmates, Mrs. Stewart and her child, just in time for them to escape from the burning building. A few minutes after the mother and child were clear of the house it was blazing from end to end.

Just as Mrs. Stewart ran out of the back door two men, it is stated, were seen to dash out of an outhouse and make for the fence, over which they clambered, but not before Mrs. Stewart was able to get a good view of their faces in the glare of the flames. They were observed to drop a bundle in their haste. Mr. Cope secured it. It was found to contain several articles of silverware and some clothing, the whole of which Mrs. Stewart identified as her property.

Meanwhile the fire brigade and police had arrived upon the scene. It was now seen that the cottage must be destroyed, and that the two adjacent cottages were in danger. Before the cottage was completely destroyed the police and firemen were able to satisfy themselves that someone had set it alight.

A further search resulted in the finding of Mrs. Stewart's purse near the house, this having apparently been dropped by the thieves.

The description of the two men is in the hands of the police. It is believed that the burglars were aware of the fact that Mr. Stewart was away from the house, and that only Mrs. Stewart and her little child were at home.

The fire brigade, though unable to save the Stewarts' home, succeeded in preventing the destruction of the two adjoining cottages. The house of Mr. David Chambers had four of the front rooms destroyed, and that of Mr. Ernest Marsh two rooms. The three houses were insured for £200, £300, and £200 respectively, the first two in the Mercantile Mutual and the last in the Australian Mutual.

"I SWEAR TO REFORM."

PENITENT EMPEROR.

HERITAGE FALLING TO THE GROUND.

On October 30 an Imperal edition was issued by the Prince Regent of China. The following translation was published by the "North China Daily News":—

"I have reigned for three years and have always acted conscientiously, in the interests of the people. But I have not employed men properly, not having political skill. I have employed too many nobles in political positions, an act which has contravened constitutionalism. On railway matters someone whom I trusted fooled me. Thus pubic opinion was opposed to this policy.

"When I urge reform, officials and gentry seize the opportunity to embezzle. When old laws are abolished high officials serve their own ends. Much of the people's money has been taken, but nothing to benefit the people has been achieved. On several occasions edicts have promulgated laws, but none have been obeyed. The people are grumbling, yet I do not know of it. Disasters loom ahead, but I do not see them.

"In Szechuan trouble first occurred, the Wuchang rebellion followed; now alarming reports come from Shensi and Honan. In Canton and Kiangsi riots appear. The whole Empire is seething, the minds of the people are perturbed, and the spirits of our nine late Emperors are not able properly to enjoy the sacrifices made to them, while it is feared that the people will suffer grievously.

"All these things are my own fault. Hereby I announce to the world that I swear to reform and with our soldiers and people to carry out the constitution faithfully, modifying legislation, developing the interests of the people and abolishing their hardships, all in accordance with the wishes and interests of the people.

"Old laws that are unsuitable will be abolished. The union of Manchus and Chinese mentioned by the late Emperor I shall carry out.

"As regards Hupeh and Hunan, for their grievances, though precipitated by the soldiers and caused by Jue Cheng, I only blame myself because I had mistakenly appointed him. The soldiers and people are innocent. If they return to their allegiance, I will excuse the past.

"Being a very small person standing at the head of my subjects, I see that my heritage is nearly falling to the ground. I regret my fault and repent greatly. I can only trust that my subjects will support the soldiers in order to support me, to comfort the millions of my people, to hold firmly the eternity of the Dynasty and to convert danger into tranquility. The patriotism of the Empire's subjects will be appreciated and trusted for ever.

"Now finances and diplomacy have reached bed-rock. Even if all unite, there is still fear of falling. But if the Empire's subjects will not regard nor honour the State, and are easily misled by outlaws, then the future of China is unthinkable. I am most anxious by day and night. I only hope my subjects will thoroughly understand."

ROLL STUFFING.

ADELAIDE, Friday.

In the Legislative Council the president read a letter he had sent to the Attorney-General in regard to the roll stuffing charges, and the reply he had received.

The Attorney-General, in his reply, said the Crown Solicitor advised that he was not aware of any process by which the powers conferred upon the Legislative Council and the House of Assembly by the Parliamentary Privileges Act, 1872, could be enforced in the courts of this State, either as to imprisonment or the imposition of a fine. He was further of opinion that the enforcement of the powers rested entirely with the House concerned.

RAILWAY TRUCK ABLAZE.

A railway truck, loaded with furniture and general merchandise, caught alight in the Kogarah goods yard last night. The supposed cause of the outbreak was the rain slacking some lime, which formed portion of the contents of the truck. The local fire brigade was called out, but before they succeeded in getting the flames under control the contents of the truck were severely damaged. The truck, which was an iron one, was also bent and buckled by the heat generated from the lime.

ENTENTE RESTORED.

FRENCH COUPLE IN COURT.

ADELAIDE, Friday.

The domestic estrangement of a French couple was happily settled in the Adelaide Police Court to-day, on the suggestion of counsel and Bench.

Matilda Berdot, of Cuming-street, Mile End, proceeded against Justen Gilbert Adolph Berdot, a chef at the Grand Central Hotel, Adelaide, on grounds of wilful neglect to provide reasonable maintenance for herself and her ten-year-old child. Mr. Michell appeared for the wife, and Mr. F. V. Smith for the husband, who pleaded not guilty.

Mr. Michell said the parties were married in London in 1900, and came to Australia in 1901. The husband was getting £4 a week, and meals. He had cooked for the King. There was trouble after trouble in the house of the parties, and on November 4, Mrs. Berdot had to ask a Mrs. Scott to leave. The husband said if she went he would go too, and he put an advertisement in the paper declining to pay any debts contracted by his wife.

Mr. Smith: You are jealous of Mrs. Scott?—Yes. That is the great point.

Has your husband not complained that you go into public bars and drink?—I have never done so.

He says you shout?—They would not be much of gentlemen if they expected a woman to shout. (Laughter.)

Well, will you go back to him?—Yes, if he will pay the bills. I didn't want to come to court.

Then you'll go back to your husband, and kiss and be friends?—Witness laughing. Well I don't know. Perhaps, he's got someone better to kiss. I don't wish to part from him.

The Bench adjourned the case until December 22 to allow of a reconciliation, and the parties left the court chatting in company.

TORNADO AND CLOUD BURST.

HAVOC AT FLEMINGTON.

VIOLENT VISITATION.

HOUSES DEMOLISHED

THRILLING ESCAPES.

The storm that yesterday afternoon passed over Sydney culminated in a terrific cloudburst at Flemington, where numerous houses were unroofed and demolished, and the damage to property generally is estimated in thousands of pounds.

It was shortly after 1 o'clock that the storm that had been threatening all the morning began to overshadow the far-western suburbs, and it was apparent that there was going to be a heavy downpour, but no one was in the least prepared for the furious storm that shortly descended.

In Strathfield and Homebush the coming of the storm was prefaced by heavy driving rain, and at Flemington the clouds grew so black as to practically obscure the light of the sun. The southerly wind freshened with the oncoming of the clouds. Then suddenly a wild gale sprang up that seemed to come from all points of the compass, and in a moment Flemington was in the grip of the fiercest cyclone that has ever visited the locality.

Roofs were wrenched from the houses, fences were levelled, and trees uprooted, and the air was still further darkened by whirling masses of dust and debris, and just as the houses were beginning to give to the terrible strain and the whole of Flemington seemed doomed, the flood gates of the clouds were opened, and the force of the storm died out in a tremendous downpour of rain.

Brief as the actual cyclone was, great damage had been wrought, and it seemed at first as if human life must have been lost, so sudden and devastating had been the storm.

Here a bare brick wall with one gaunt chimney stack stood where a pretty cottage had been some minutes before. In another spot the walls had been left, but the roof swept away and the chimneys levelled. On every side the fences were down, and the earth was strewn with branches and limbs of dismembered trees; but amidst it all not one life was lost, a fact that is all the more extraordinary when it is realised that most of the houses destroyed were occupied at the time.

Some idea of the force attained by the wind may be obtained when it is realised that galvanised iron sheets were carried by the wind from Flemington station to Homebush-crescent, a distance of over a quarter of a mile.

Where the flying sheets of roofing had encountered obstacles they were twisted like pieces of string. One piece caught on the wire stays of a telegraph pole, and was bent completely round, so as to hang there some 15 feet above the ground. In another spot where a sheet of iron was caught against a fence it had been forced into a roll not more than a few inches in diameter.

Some narrow escapes were experienced during the height of the gale. Mr. J. Phillips, who was working in Rabone's brickyard, had a thrilling experience. "The rain had just started," he told a "Herald" reporter, "and I was going to the shed to get my coat, when it struck us. The wind was blowing pretty hard from the south, then, all at once it seemed to come from the east and west, and before I could do anything to save myself it tore the roof off our sheds as if they had been paper, and whirled them away out of sight. Everything seemed to be falling all round me, but I was not hit with anything. Another five minutes and all Flemington would have been swept away. Then the rain came, not in drops for sheets, but the water just fell out of the sky. It was as if someone had just poured a bucket of water on to you. All the low-lying parts of the place were under water in no time. The deep storm channels in the stock yards were filled and overflowing, and could not nearly carry off the water, and I guess there's not a house in Flemington that isn't leaking."

In another house, that of Mr. Mortimer, an elderly lady was bedridden, and when the storm struck her home it reduced it to a tottering ruin in a few minutes. The house looks just as if some gigantic hand had reached down and scooped the roof and sides away. How the lady and several children escaped injury is not known. They were hurried to the house of a neighbour with all speed, and sheltered there, but the lady was suffering severely from shock as a result of her trying experience.

In the stock saleyards the damage was extensive, the most severe being to the feed-shed of Messrs. Pitt, Son, and Badgery, where the whole of the crown roof, consisting of 630ft of the strongest roofing obtainable, bolted to ironbark beams, was stripped clean away, and flung broadcast over the yards.

The railway property suffered to the extent of some of the hand-rails of the foot bridge stripped and one of the signal gantries blown down.

Sergeant Melbrun, who, on his arrival at Flemington, at once proceeded to investigate the effects of the storm, reports as follows:—"At about 1 p.m. a cyclonic storm swept over Flemington, demolishing several cottages and outhouses, and doing much damage, but no injuries have been reported, and no one is in need of assistance."

THE EXTENT OF THE DAMAGE.

The record of damage is as follows:—

Unoccupied cottage in Victoria-parade, the property of W. E. Richards, of Homebush, the whole of roof, chimney, and one gable end blown down.

Weatherboard cottage, in Henley-road, the property of Joseph Binns, part of the iron roof blown off.

A brick cottage in Hampstead-road, occupied by Mr. Mortimer, the property of Warden Harry Graves, the whole of the roof, one chimney, and the gable end blown down.

Weatherboard cottage, in course of construction, in Hampstead-road, the property of J. E. Andrews, blown right down.

Weatherboard cottage, property of E. Wareham, iron roof blown off.

Six-roomed cottage, occupied by Francis Toomey, the property of the St. Joseph's Building Society, two chimneys blown down and back portion of the roof blown off.

Carpenter's workshop in Hornsey-road, the property of Ted Murphy, demolished.

Hayshed, belonging to the Pastoral Finance Association, in Parramatta-road, blown down.

Weatherboard cottage, the property of Robert George Hogart, in Hammersmith-road, a chimney and roof carried away.

Wentworth Hotel, Parramatta-road, 30ft corrugated iron roof carried away, balcony and several sheds on the left wing damaged.

Two weatherboard cottages in course of construction in Marlborough-street, the property of J. E. Andrews, blown down.

Feedshed of Messrs. Pitt, Son, and Badgery, in the Flemington saleyards, the whole of the crown-roof stripped off and carried away.

Rabone's brickyard, all the sheds and buildings unroofed.

Signal gantry on the railway line blown over.

THE STORM AT PARRAMATTA.

Just about 1 o'clock on Friday, after a period of terrible oppressiveness, a fierce storm broke over Parramatta. For some ten minutes the thunder and lightning were incessant. One fierce flash of lightning, which seemed to come straight as an arrow from the sky, struck a large fir tree in Macquarie-street and tore it to ribbons, throwing large branches clean into the roadway, and sending splinters into the neighbouring yards 100 feet away. A valuable mare and foal were sheltering under the tree, and they were killed instantly. In less than ten minutes 85 points of rain fell. The mare and foal belonged to Mr. J. Domley, late of Parkes. Last week he drove down with the mare and foal to Parramatta, with a view to looking at some orchard properties.

ENGLISHMEN'S TOUR.

QUEENSLAND MATCH.

LOCAL MEN SCORE 290.

JENNINGS IN FINE FORM.

(FROM OUR SPECIAL REPORTER.)

BRISBANE, Friday.

Fine, hot weather graced the commencement of the fourth match of the English cricketers' tour, and on a perfect wicket the English trundlers dismissed Queensland for 290. Seeing that the oval is small and the boundary line invitingly close, this total is only moderate, and should be easy of accomplishment by the visitors. Still, the Queenslanders have no reason to be ashamed of their performance, considering the strength of the English attack. Barnes, Douglas, and Foster bowled excellently. So far for the loss of two wickets England has compiled 62.

The feature of the day was the spirited batting of C. B. Jennings, who got just within striking distance of the century before succumbing to the English attack. On account of his consistently good form for the last few years Jennings has strong claims for international recognition. M'Laren, another likely candidate, captured two English wickets at a cost of 18 runs; but he still lacks Cotter's pace, and is hardly so accurate; while he needs the experience of the Glebe player.

There were fewer than 3000 spectators present, but those present included the State Governor and suite, Colonel Foxton (president of the Queensland Cricket Association), Alderman Allen (chairman of the executive), Mr. W. A. Brazil (secretary), Mr. A. Whittred (hon. treasurer), and a number of well-known patrons of the national pastime, and the crowd was so satisfied with the fare provided that not one uncharitable remark emanated from the ringside. The English captain thought they were exemplary, but as 352 runs were scored in less than 300 minutes, the crowd naturally found no fault with the play, and as a few sixes and a plethora of boundary strokes enlivened the proceedings they streamed homewards well content.

Queensland wants one test match. Last season the northerners defeated Victoria and New South Wales, and quite justified their claim to Sheffield honours, but before Brisbane can supplant Adelaide as the venue of an international test there must be firstly larger crowds, secondly a more up-to-date score-board, and thirdly a better oval. The present score-board is very primitive; the ground accommodation is insufficient; the outfield is very uneven, and the crowd is hardly large enough, though Saturday rather than an off-day should be taken as a means of comparison. There is a Public school overlooking the ground, and here scores of youngsters congregated during the dinner hour to get their first glimpse of the Englishmen.

THE PLAY.

Winning the toss, Jennings naturally decided to bat, and opened the Queensland innings with Fennelly. The usual opening attack—Foster and Douglas—was relied on. The initial runs came through Fennelly cutting an overpitched ball from the skipper to the boundary. The next over Jennings did the same thing. Jennings, it will be remembered, played splendidly for South Australia in the first match of Warner's tour in 1903. Fennelly recently proved himself, by his splendid performance against New South Wales. Playing confidently and brightly, both batsmen executed several fine strokes at the expense of each bowler, and 40 appeared in double-quick time, Jennings being 23. Fennelly lifted Douglas to near the cycle track, and the crowd cheered when the local batsmen ran five. Facing Douglas the same batsman snicked one luckily over the slips' head to the fence. Foster's pace off the pitch deceived Fennelly, who got a nasty crack, which stung through the protective pad.

Nearly every Australian batsman has had cause to marvel at the pace Foster makes off the pitch, but Jennings, timing him nicely, placed the ball to the leg boundary, and hoisted the half-hundred in just half an hour. It was a sparkling display. Barnes now relieved Douglas, and Fennelly, relishing the change, reached 29 by twice driving the Staffordshire professional straight to the sightboard. Young Jack Hearne supplanted Foster at 61, and his fourth delivery was a full toss to leg. Fennelly swung at it, but did not put enough wood into the hit. The ball went straight to Rhodes in the country. Fennelly retired. His 29 was forceful and free, and included four boundaries and one five.

Alan Marshall, who did such smiting for Surrey a few years back, filled the vacancy, while Jennings, by pretty late-cuts and neat by-glances, forged ahead toward his half-hundred. In spite of a rather uneven outfield, the ground work of the visitors was good. Iremonger, at point, won applause for stopping a couple of hot cuts from Jennings and Marshall. Barnes preserved an excellent length, and Jennings, in trying to cut a ball, steered it luckily through the slips to the grand stand. The giant executed some terrific drives that were blocked on the boundary, and when he had scored 11 he late-cut one from Barnes hard to the slips, and Woolley effected a brilliant catch (right hand) very low down.

Two wickets were down for 86 when Hartigan entered. He opened with a fine drive to the on-boundary. The next ball was a long-hopper, and it nearly proved fatal. Hartigan pulled it, but, mistiming the ball, sent it skyward, just out of reach of Rhodes. The next ball from Hearne was a wrong "un," and it completely beat the batsman and wicket-keeper, and a bye resulted. The 100 was hoisted in 76 minutes. Jennings a minute later got his 50. Hearne's bowling was rather patchy. Half-length deliveries were succeeded by full tosses, and Jennings helped himself liberally. Only very occasionally Hearne got in a length ball. Then it was difficult to play. Hartigan was batting luckily when Iremonger supplanted Barnes. Roger hit him hard to Douglas at silly-mid-on, but the honour was declined. Then just before luncheon Foster came on again, and luck was with Hartigan, who sent one flukily up in the slips; but there was no fieldsman there. Jennings, save for a possible chance of stumping, was playing charming cricket. At lunch the score was two for 126, with Jennings 57.

When play was resumed the attendance increased to about 2000. The attack was entrusted to Vine, who had not bowled since the Adelaide match. There was something unusual about the headgear of the Englishmen. Rhodes wore a slate grey, and Smith and Mead green hats. Barnes had a blue-grey one, whilst Iremonger and Woolley wore old brown hats. The rest had white linen or navy caps. Vine was over-tossing the majority of his deliveries, and both batsmen, using their feet, drove him repeatedly. Woolley let a simple one go through his hands to the boundary. Hartigan was applauded for lifting one from Vine over the pickets—the first 6 of the match. Facing Iremonger, he repeated the stroke, the ball landing on the cycle track, which counted 6. Jennings twice drove Iremonger to the boundary, and reached 70. He might have been run out when in the 60's, but Iremonger's return to Vine went wide. At 72 Smith again appealed confidently against Jennings, after whipping off the bails, but again the umpire shook his head. On both occasions Barnes was the bowler. The Staffordshire professional was now bowling Armstrong's leg theory, with four men clustered round short leg, and two on the leg boundary. Hartigan was the first to retire. He drove one from Iremonger hard to leg and ran. Douglas returned smartly with the batsman nearly half-way down the pitch. In Hartigan's 59 there were seven fours and two sixes. The partnership yielded just over 100. It was a lucky but spectacular innings.

Evans partnered his captain with the record 3 for 188. Jennings, after executing a couple of fine drives to the boundary, snicked one uppishly through the slips, and then skied one over Rhodes' head, but the sun interfered with the fieldsman's vision, and the ball fell out of reach. Evans, after sweeping one from Barnes to the fence, drove a ball to Hobbs at mid-off, and the Surrey crack gained his fourth success.

With Hayes in, Foster came on at the southern end, and, with his third ball, clean-bowled Jennings for 91. The Queensland captain batted 132m, and his innings included 14 boundaries. It was a splendid exhibition, though marred by a few uppish strokes, and at least one chance of stumping. Last year Jennings was the first Australian batsman to score a century against the South Africans. This season he very nearly registered a similar performance against England.

Hayes and McLaren became associated, the record being 202. With Foster and Douglas attacking, runs came slowly, and for the first time during the day play was quiet.

For a space the fielding was patchy. Iremonger stopped a couple of hot ones, but missed others. Woolley did likewise, but when Hayes tipped one from Douglas, Smith, behind the sticks, made no mistake.

Bolton was next. M'Laren began swinging vigorously at balls wide of the off-stump, so an extra man was placed in the slips. However, Bolton succumbed to a straight ball from Douglas, and registered the first duck on the side. Barstow joined M'Laren, and after driving Foster well to the off-boundary made two wild lunges, each of which sent the ball skywards, but no fieldsman was handy. Encouraged by his good fortune, he "mowed" a ball from Douglas to the leg-boundary. M'Laren then took a hand, and twice got Foster away to leg for 2. Had Iremonger started sooner, he might have caught Barstow off Foster, but he only half-tried. There was no separation before tea time, when the board showed seven for 248.

After tea time the play was bright. Runs came freely from both Douglas and Foster, though both batsmen were lucky. M'Laren laid the wood on until he reached 29, when Foster sent down a perfect length ball that flew fast off the pitch and hit the middle stump. With eight wickets down for 271, Cook joined Barstow, and Barnes superseded Douglas. Barstow, however, hit hard, and found the boundary-line repeatedly, and entered the forties. Cook hit one fourer, but when 7 was clean bowled by a bailer from Barnes.

The last man, Fett, a fast bowler from Toowoomba, only had one ball from Barnes, and that sufficed, the innings ending for 290, made in 206 minutes. Barstow finished with 43 not out.

Considering that the Brisbane oval is rather small, 290 was not a formidable task to set the Englishmen. Hobbs and Vine were the opening batsmen, while M'Laren and Barstow were entrusted with the attack. The fast bowler put on a lot of pace, and the last ball tipped Hobbs's bat, and was sent flying between Marshall and Cook in the slips; but neither managed to get to it. Gauging the pace of M'Laren, Hobbs twice cut him crisply to the cycle track, and facing Barstow lifted the ball right on to the asphalt for six. Runs came freely till 33 was shown, when Vine struck late to a hot yorker from M'Laren, and his wicket was spreadeagled. Young Jack Hearn came in. So far his Australian performances have afforded no criterion of his capabilities as a batsman, for last season he averaged 42, and aggregated 1600 runs. He faced M'Laren confidently enough, and took singles carefully. Hobbs got to 26 in fine style, and then he touched one from M'Laren, and this time Alan Marshall was in the right spot. It was a nice clean catch, worthy of one who was once reputedly the best field in England. Mead, whom Warner believes to be the best left-handed in England, partnered Hearn, and shortly afterwards Hayes relieved Barstow, from whom 22 runs had been scored, while Fett (the Toowoomba trundler) rested M'Laren. Mead, by graceful glances, reached double figures, and the 50 came in 43 minutes. Fennelly now did a sprint, and won applause by cleverly blocking a boundary hit. Both men had now each a round dozen to their credit. Fett, the loose-jointed recruit from Darling Downs, presented no terrors for the batsmen, and he soon gave way to Cook, who did so well in Sydney last season; but no separation came, and stumps were drawn, with the board showing two for 62.

SEA-BORNE TRAFFIC.

MINISTER FOR WORKS' POLICY.

BANQUET ON THE WOLLONGBAR.

NORTH COAST ENTERPRISE.

By invitation of the directors of the North Coast Steam Navigation Company, Ltd., a representative gathering of shipping and commercial men assembled on board the new twin-screw steamer Wollongbar, at Circular Quay, yesterday, to partake of luncheon in celebration of the advent of this palatial liner in the coastal trade.

Mr. Walter C. Watt, chairman of directors of the company, presided, having on his right the Lord Mayor (Sir Allen Taylor) and Sir James Fairfax; and on his left the Minister for Works (Mr. Arthur Griffith) and the Minister for Mines (Mr. Alfred Edden). Apologies were made for the non-attendance of the Prime Minister, Mr. Fisher (whose wife had christened the boat when she was launched on the Clyde), and the State Premier, Mr. M'Gowen.

The Minister for Works, Mr. Griffith, in responding to the toast of the Ministry and Parliament, proposed by the chairman, said he hoped that, as the chairman had stated, Parliament would at least get wisdom. (Hear, hear.) But he was very much afraid, after an all-night sitting, that Parliament could hardly claim to have too much wisdom at present. He applauded the company for its enterprise in developing the means of access to the North Coast. Whether this enterprise should be the result of Government or private company, he was prepared to say that it was good for the country at large, because it meant means of a distribution of exchange and access for the producing wealth, which should be the first consideration. There were many who said that our coastal trade should be one of the functions of the central Government, but he was satisfied that for the next generation at any rate the central Government would have sufficient to do in looking to the interior development, leaving the sea-borne portions in the hands of private enterprise.

The Lord Mayor, Sir Allen Taylor, proposed the toast of the North Coast Company, and remarked upon the pleasure it had given him to inspect the ship that morning, in company with his Excellency the Governor.

Mr. W. Rigg, director, and Mr. R. A. Bell, managing director, responded on behalf of the company. Captain J. H. Hunter, who brought the Wollongbar out from Scotland, and Mr. C. M'Allister, who designed her, also responded.

The chairman of directors, Mr. Watt, in responding to the toast of his health, quoted figures showing the development of the North Coast Company. The company had been 54 years in existence, and started in 1857 with one steamer. The present fleet totalled 23 ocean-going steamers, with an approximation equal to 16,000 tons. To this already large fleet the company was adding six steamers, which were either building or now en route from Scotland. The company was essentially a pioneering one. Associated with its early history were such men as Messrs. Clarke Irving, H. C. Dangar, Lamb, Parbury, D. Ogilvie, and J. B. Watt; and latterly the late Sir John See and Mr. T. R. Allt. He pointed out that the approximate annual expenditure of the company, covering crews' wages, coal, repairs, and maintenance, insurances, victualling, stores, wharf-labourers, etc., was £300,000.

THE MELBA OPERA SEASON.

The return Melba grand opera season will open on Monday, December 11, when the splendid vocal combinations which attracted such crowded audiences during September and October will doubtless rekindle the enthusiasm of all lovers of fine music. The J. C. Williamson direction has now definitely completed arrangements for the first week, the brief season being limited to 11 nights, which will be initiated with "Romeo and Juliet," Mr. John MacCormack and Mme. Melba singing the star parts. The same artists will appear in "Rigoletto" on the Wednesday (Signor Rossi in the name-part), and Mme. Melba will make a third appearance on the Saturday (December 16) as Desdemona to the "Otello" of Signor Zeni. The star has not hitherto appeared here in this beautiful opera, which will be one of the two novelties of the season. The other is announced for Tuesday (December 12), when Mme. Korolewicz Wayda will appear as "Aida" for the first time, with Mme. De Cisneros in another great role as Amneris, and MM. Zeni, Scandiani, Burke, Kaufmann, and Franchetti in the cast. On Thursday Mme. De Cisneros, Signor Zeni, and Mr. Burke will be seen in "Carmen," and on Friday (December 15) Mme. Korolewicz Wayda and Mr. McCormack will be heard in "La Tosca," with a new Scarpia in the person of Mr. Edmund Burke. The plans for the first week will open at Paling's on Wednesday morning next.

THE SHEFFIELD SHIELD.

N.S.W. V. SOUTH AUSTRALIA.

RAIN STOPS PLAY.

TRUMPER AND BARDSLEY AT THE WICKETS.

Commencing with Wednesday of last week there has been a surfeit of wet weather. It arrived with the English team, and has kept on intermittently ever since. The match between England and New South Wales was spoilt, play being restricted to less than two days, and the cricketing public were disappointed.

There was another disappointment in store for them yesterday, as only 75 minutes' play was witnessed in the New South Wales v South Australia match, which was commenced at the Sydney Cricket Ground. On the previous Friday there was no play before lunch, yesterday there was no play after lunch.

At about 4 a.m. a thunderstorm passed over the city and suburbs, and heavy rain fell for some time. However, the weather cleared later on, and, as the sun shone brightly, and a gentle breeze blew, the wicket improved rapidly. In fact, it had so far recovered by half past 11 that the heavy roller was put on it, when it rolled out "solid and easy," the groundsman having to use a mallet to drive the stumps in. Nevertheless, it was not certain what the winner of the toss would do.

When the time came for tossing, Victor Trumper was in front of the visiting team's quarters. A spectator threw him a coin to toss with, but, before he did so, Clem Hill remarked, "What will you do if you win the toss, Victor? I made arrangements with Warwick Armstrong before I tossed him down in Melbourne. He said he would bat, and—he did."

The New South Wales captain replied that he would tell him after the spin. But he didn't, for Hill won, and then asked his opponent to "Come out and have a look at the wicket with me." Trumper replied that he had lost all interest in the wicket.

Hill took Crawford out with him, and, finding that he could sink his finger into the pitch, came back and said to Trumper, "You put us in last year, so I'll return the compliment. In you go."

As events have shaped since—the weather being so uncertain—Hill may not have made a mistake; but going on the actual play before luncheon, when the wicket played very easily, and when only one ball kicked, his judgment was a little astray.

The South Australian captain figured it out that he might have got rid of "three or four of the New South Wales star batsmen before luncheon for about 60 runs, and thus vindicate his judgment.

Play did not commence till eleven minutes past 12, Trumper and Bardsley being the opening pair. They were still together when play ceased for the day—at 1.26—a heavy downpour driving the players pell-mell into the pavilion, where they stayed till well after 4 o'clock.

The seventy-five minutes' play proved most interesting to some 664 spectators (representing £36 15s). The batting was at high-water mark, the graceful Trumper unfolding all his famous shots, to which he imparted rare power, notwithstanding the slowness of the out-field. His stroke play was faultless. A few more knocks in match play, and he will be at the top of his form.

Bardsley did not score so fast as his captain, but his play was remarkably sound, and practically free from fault. One ball from Wright, that broke in from the off unexpectedly, beat him, and he played one from Crawford uppishly to forward square leg—he did well to keep it out of danger. When the rain came the pair were playing delightful cricket.

The outcricket of the South Australians was bright all round, the bowling being good, the fielding smart and accurate, and Hill's placing of the field heady. The field was arranged to cut off many of Trumper's scoring strokes.

On Wednesday last Clem Hill said that Whitty was in good form, but that the side fielded badly in the Melbourne match. Yesterday Whitty swung up to the wicket jauntily, and bowled very well. So did Crawford, but none of the bowlers could impart much bias to the ball.

S. Hill was omitted from the South Australian team, but the New South Wales team was the same as that which appeared in yesterday's issue.

THE PLAY.

Trumper and Bardsley were the opening pair, Whitty (from the southern end) and Crawford (from the pavilion end) being the bowlers. Trumper scored a single off each bowler. The wicket was playing well, the ball travelling at normal height.

Both bowlers were keeping a splendid length, but Trumper, who was having most of the strike, moved along fairly fast, scoring 11 of the first 13 runs. One ball from Crawford got up quickly from the pitch, and Bardsley nearly lobbed it to Clem Hill at forward square-leg. Trumper on-drove a full toss from Whitty to the track, and Bardsley glanced Crawford to leg for 2, and off-drove Whitty, very close in, for four, and the twenties were entered.

Crawford was bowling accurately, having sent down seven overs for six runs. Whitty was swinging up to the wicket at his usual pace, and was mixing his pace well. It was generally the fast one that was scored off, but the runs were coming slowly, the best strokes for some time being a splendid leg glance by Bardsley off the left-hander, and a neat back cut by Trumper off Crawford—four each.

As neither of the opening pair of bowlers was troubling the batsmen, who had scored 33 in 45 minutes, R. B. Rees was tried in place of Whitty. Bardsley swung a short one from him to leg, and Trumper glanced another neatly to fine-leg, each stroke reaching the asphalt.

Rees only bowled one over, Wright, the leg-break bowler, taking his place. At the other end Stirling relieved Crawford, who had bowled ten overs for 17 runs. Wright sent down a couple of off-breaks to Bardsley, and then whipped in a leg-break (off-break to Bardsley), and it passed just outside the off stump. Stirling, who bowls left-hand, at a slow-medium pace, started to Trumper, who lifted his first ball to the track at straight-hit, back cut him for 2, and cover hit him for 1. The 50 was reached in 54 minutes, the rate of scoring having quickened appreciably.

The weather now became dull, dark clouds were banking up from the south, and thunder could be heard. The wicket was playing splendidly, there being no indecision in either batsman's play. Bardsley swung his bat hard on to one from Stirling, and the ball landed on the asphalt, at long-on—a powerful lifting drive.

Facing Wright, Trumper pulled a short one very smartly to the track—a splendid stroke. The New South Wales captain next placed Whitty (who had relieved Stirling) to square-leg, and reached 40, made out of 71, in 69 minutes.

A few minutes later the storm, which had been threatening, now broke, and heavy rain fell, causing play to cease at within four minutes of the luncheon adjournment, the score being 79 (Trumper 45 and Bardsley 31).

The match will be continued to-day at noon.

WHARF-LABOURERS' STRIKE.

PROBABLE STOPPAGE OF SMELTERS.

MEN REFUSE OFFERS.

NEWCASTLE, Friday.

The refusal of the Newcastle wharf-labourers to handle the steamer Era's cargo of concentrates is likely to have a far-reaching effect. A reasonable offer for a settlement of the difficulty has been refused by the men. There is now very little likelihood of the concentrates being removed from the steamer and conveyed to Cockle Creek for some time to come. This practically makes a certainty of a temporary stoppage of the Sulphide Corporation's huge smelting works at Cockle Creek.

The loss of work so near Christmas will mean a lot to the numerous smelters and other workers at Cockle Creek.

The wharf-labourers have demanded special rates, despite the fact that their agreement with the steamship people proves that concentrates was not to be considered special cargo. To-day the stevedoring company offered to pay the men the special rates demanded, the condition being that the excess was to be paid through the Waterside Workers' Federation in Melbourne, arrangements having been entered into with that body by a Newcastle resident. The men have absolutely refused this offer, and have stated that the only condition they will accept is that the company shall itself pay the full rates demanded.

In the meantime, the Cockle Creek smelters have a poor prospect of enjoying a merry Christmas.

[It will be remembered that the Warrington Club objected to D. Frawley playing with the "Kangaroos," on the ground that he had not completed his engagement with them. The managers of the Australasian team argued the matter from various points, claiming first that the reciprocity agreement between the English Northern Union and the New South Wales League was not ratified till after Frawley's return to Sydney, and, secondly, that if Lancashire or Yorkshire players are allowed to represent Wales because they are qualified by birth to do so, then the Australasians should if necessary have the services of Frawley or any other colonial in England. The English club and the home union decided against the tourists, and it was feared Frawley would be an onlooker during the season. It is pleasing now to see that a compromise has been effected, and that the Warrington Club, so long obdurate, has ultimately relented.]

STORM AT THE BARRIER.

STREETS FLOODED.

BROKEN HILL, Friday.

The rain of last night and this morning was a record for Broken Hill for a limited time. Three and a half inches was recorded in 11 hours. The city and surroundings were flooded. Many streets were under water, and all business was dislocated. The tram service was hung up at one stage just as shop assistants were coming into town, and the majority failed to arrive at shops until late in the morning. Carts and drays did a lively trade taking pedestrians over flooded waterways.

In Argent-street the water damaged about £600 worth of pianos at Beale and Co.'s agency. The attendances at the schools were so small that they were closed. The Proprietary Company's dams were filled to overflowing, and the escaping water inundated the vicinity, a number of houses being absolutely marooned. The Imperial dam, White Leads dam, and Silverton Tramway Company's dam are all overflowing.

Although the rain only started in Broken Hill about 1.30 a.m., it fell on the reservoir catchment earlier. Stephens Creek started to run at 10 p.m., and it has been running a banker ever since. In places it is 10ft deep and 300 yards wide. The Stephens Creek reservoir was filled by 9 a.m., and the water since has been running over the new bywash. Never before has the reservoir held so much water.

Up to 9 o'clock this morning the rainfall registered at Stephen's Creek for the year was 16.98 inches, more than double the annual average, and further rain has fallen to-day. The previous record for the district was at Mount Gipps in 1887, when 17.09 inches was registered. The total local fall has been 375 points. Telegraphic communication has been seriously interrupted.

FEDERAL PARLIAMENT.

THE SENATE.

REVISION OF BOUNTIES.

In reply to Senator Lynch (W.A.), the Vice-President of the Executive Council stated that "probably early next session it will be necessary to deal with bounties generally."

THE TRANSCONTINENTAL RAILWAY.

The Transcontinental Railway Bill was further considered in committee.

On clause 3 Senator Walker moved,—"That in order to partially recoup the Commonwealth for the expenditure involved in the construction of the line the States of Western Australia and South Australia shall reserve from sale and vest in the Commonwealth Crown lands in alternate sections of 10 miles square on either side of the line, exclusive of the other lands required in the previous sub-section, but not including 15 miles on either side of the terminal points."

Senator Walker's amendment was then put and negatived by 18 to 6, the minority being Senators Stewart, Walker, Keating, Gould, M'Coll, and Sayers.

Senator Stewart (Q.) moved that the minimum wage of those engaged on the construction of the line be 14s per day of seven hours.

The Minister for Defence opposed the proposal, which he said was in several instances 3s per day less than the wage now being paid to certain artisans in Kalgoorlie.

Senator Gardiner said he was not going to be caught with gilded baits. If Senators Stewart and Givens liked to do the dirty work of the Opposition—

Senator Givens (rising): Do you mean to say that I'm doing the dirty work of the Opposition?

Senator Gardiner: Then give me a better term.

Senator Stewart: He is a cowardly cow.

At the request of the Chairman Senators Gardiner and Stewart withdrew and apologised.

Progress was reported and the House rose at 4 p.m.

Mr. R. H. Oates, acting manager of the Farmers and Dairymen's Milk Co., in giving evidence before the Daylight Saving Select Committee, said that the proposed change would not be appreciated by the suppliers, particularly those living furthest from Sydney, owing to the greater difficulty of catching the trains if the clock was put on an hour. The milk is received in Sydney at 1 p.m.

FEDERAL SERVANTS.

ARBITRATION BILL.

MINISTERS NOT RESPONSIBLE.

PARLIAMENT'S REVIEW.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

The second reading of the Arbitration Public Service Bill was moved in the House of Representatives this morning by the Attorney-General.

Mr. Hughes' opening remarks were for the most part a mere recital of the provisions of the measure. On the clause which provides that the Court is above the law, he said that an award might amount to an amendment of existing legislation. For instance, there was a certain schedule in the Public Service Act prescribing a maximum salary for a certain grade. If the commissioner wished to pay more he could not do so, and the Court must have power to make such an award as it thought proper inside or outside an Act. It would be obviously undesirable that any tribunal outside Parliament should be enabled to fix rules and conditions without the permission and irrespectively of the ability of the Treasurer to pay them, or of the country to find the money. It was perfectly true that a private employer had to pay the wages awarded, but in some circumstances at least he had the option of closing his business. The Commonwealth could not close its business. It had to go on. It was therefore provided that an award in conflict with the statute or regulations must be laid on the table of both Houses of Parliament, and if either House of Parliament by resolution took exception to it, the award would have no effect. These provisions gave unlimited freedom to the Court in the redress of grievances, and retained the right of Parliament to say whether it was prepared to accept the conditions for the nation's employees which the Court thought proper. The Registrar had been made an independent officer, subject only to Parliament. The number of Public servants at present was: Permanent, 16,000; temporary, 4000. The permanent staff drew £2,300,000 per annum, and the temporary hands £400,000 a year. When the Public servants came before the Court, which would be expeditious, and where there would be an independent hearing of their case, then the award would be subject to the approval of Parliament. That was all that could be desired.

Mr. Glynn (S.A.) could not see why the bill was introduced, and why it was thought necessary to supersede the Public Service Commissioner, and take away from Parliament the power to regulate the salaries of Public servants. The Public Service Act could have been amended to meet any disabilities Public servants laboured under. Under the present bill Parliament was handing over to a tribunal the power to fix the wages of their servants. He did not know of any other country where this was done. He thought the bill was a bad one, because it attempted to do by circumlocution what could be accomplished direct. It was an interference in a revolutionary way with the administration of the Public Service.

Sir John Quick (Vic.) failed to see the necessity for the bill. It was not demanded even by the service.

Mr. M'Williams defined the bill as a buffer behind which the Minister would shirk his responsibilities by transferring it to a Judge of the High Court.

Mr. Webster (N.S.W.) did not think that the ramifications of the civil service could be efficiently dealt with in an arbitration court. This bill would mean the quadruplication of tribunals that were to decide the position of a civil servant.

At 4.25 the debate was adjourned till Monday.

GENERAL RAINS.

MONSOONAL DISTURBANCE.

THROUGHOUT THE STATE.

MORE GOOD FALLS IN THE WEST.

Owing to the monsoonal disturbance again becoming active light to heavy rains, accompanied by thunderstorms, occurred almost generally throughout the State; the exceptions being the North Coast and portion of the central western plains and slopes.

Some particularly good falls were registered in the western districts, and at a few scattered places elsewhere. Broken Hill had 225, Mossgiel 220, Booligal 130, Bodalla 140, Gundagai 151, Hay 118, Carrathool 112, Pooncarie 110, Eugonia 109, Gabo 106, and Adelong 103.

Temperatures increased in the interior. The highest records were:—Mogil 110, Euston, Balranald, and Deniliquin 106, Collarendabri and Bourke 105, Wentworth 104, Mungindi, Moree, and Narrandera 103, and Condobolin, Pilliga, and Walgett 102.

CITY THUNDERSTORMS.

Yesterday, in the city, was another unpleasant, sultry day. During the night the relative humidity did not fall below 80, and at times reached 90 per cent. At 6.10 a.m. a thunderstorm broke over the city, resulting in 25 points, and a southerly wind blew for a couple of hours, reducing the temperature slightly. Following a very sultry morning, another thunderstorm started to come up from the south-west, and a tropical downpour occurred at 1.25 p.m., 37 points falling in 15 minutes. After a spell of 30 minutes a third storm started, resulting in 28 points in 10 minutes, or 88 points in all. This rain brought Sydney's total up to 48.17in for the year, or 22 points above the annual average. This is the first time for ten years that the rainfall at Sydney has been above the average. The last time was in 1900, when 66.54in were recorded.

RAIN IN SOUTH AUSTRALIA.

ADELAIDE, Friday.

A wide expanse of pastoral country in the far north has been benefited by magnificent monsoonal rains. Nearly every station had an inch. Coward Springs received more than four inches, and other places two and three inches. Lake Eyre country had the heaviest falls ever known there, and far northern agricultural areas also participated in the downpour. The River Murray flats had a most timely precipitation for replenishing water supplies.

ADELAIDE, Friday.

Captain P. Weir, who was commissioned by Elder, Smith, and Co., Limited (representing Lloyds) to report on the possibility of salvaging cargo of the wrecked Norwegian barque Margit on the Coorong Beach, returned to Port Adelaide to-day. He was accompanied on the trip by Captain T. Creer, manager of the Adelaide Steam Tug Company. They found it impossible to get close enough to the wreck to make a proper survey. The vessel has apparently sunk in the quicksands, and the surf is flowing over her bulwarks. The chances of salvaging any of the cargo or ship's fittings are regarded as remote.

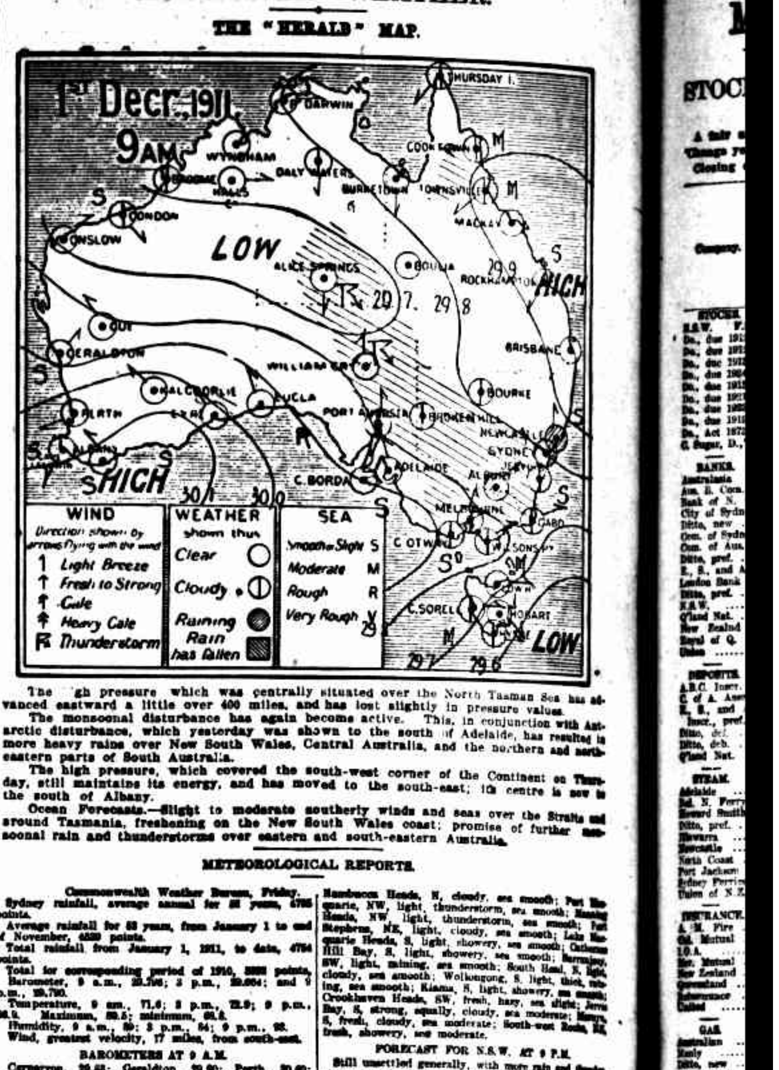
AUSTRALIAN WEATHER.

THE "HERALD" MAP.



The high pressure which was centrally situated over the North Tasman Sea has advanced eastward a little over 400 miles, and has lost slightly in pressure values. The monsoonal disturbance has again become active. This, in conjunction with antarctic disturbances, which yesterday was shown to the south of Adelaide, has resulted in more heavy rains over New South Wales, Central Australia, and the southern and south-eastern parts of South Australia. The high pressure, which covered the south-west corner of the Continent on Thursday, still maintains its energy, and has moved to the south-east; its centre is now to the south of Albany.

Ocean Forecast.—Slight to moderate southerly winds and seas over the Straits and around Tasmania, freshening on the New South Wales coast; promise of further monsoonal rain and thunderstorms over eastern and south-eastern Australia.

FROM THE NIGER TO THE NILE.

DR. KARL KUMM'S LECTURE.

The Town Hall was crowded last night when Dr. Karl Kumm, the well known scientific explorer and missionary, delivered another of his interesting lectures on "Central Africa." The Lord Mayor of Sydney (Sir Allen Taylor) presided, and the lecture was listened to with rapt attention.

Dr. Kumm prefaced his lecture by a geological explanation of the territory he reviewed. Aided by an excellent series of limelight views he traced clearly and lucidly the line of demarcation between Mohammedan Africa and Pagan Africa. Along the line, he said, between the mountains—the Switzerland of Africa—and the swamps—the biggest swamps on earth—were 200 of the most warlike tribes of the world, who had been proof against the Moslem subjugation for 500 years. What the Mohammedans could not accomplish by force of arms they were now able to do in a peaceful way since the European flags had been hoisted in Central Africa. It was imperative that the spread of Mohammedanism amongst these tribes should be checked. New converts to that faith were apt to become fanatical; a fact which had been exemplified in the Anglo-Egyptian Soudan campaign. At Omdurman it was new converts that Kitchener had to face—men carried away by a fanatical zeal, whom Kipling had immortalised as "The Fuzzy Wuzzies, the men who broke a British square, and compared with whom the Boers, Pathans, Zulus, and Burmese were pap." He had been asked if he believed that the trouble in Tripoli would lead to a general rising in Central Africa. He did not believe that would take place at present. Our position was fairly strong, but if all those brave fighting tribes joined hands with the Mohammedans, then there would be very serious difficulties before the administration in Central Africa. If once enterprises interested in Central Africa would not the valley tribes fell the advance would not stop there, but would spread rapidly, and the colour problem would become a very real one in South Africa. The only way in which the difficulty could be met was by Christianising the Pagan tribes. He did not advocate educating natives in a European way, or giving them an Anglo-Saxon civilisation, which he believed to be quite unsuitable for natives; but was in favour of sending out a good medical man and a good clerical man. He could reduce the language of the 200 Pagan tribes to writing, and thus a natural evolution would take place, as had taken place in Uganda.

BANKSTOWN INQUIRY.

RETURNING OFFICER'S EVIDENCE.

After an adjournment of about a month, owing to the illness of some of the principals, the inquiry into the alleged irregularities in connection with the conduct of the late municipal election at Bankstown, was continued on Thursday at the Bankstown Town Hall. The inquiry was conducted by Mr. John Garlick, officer in charge of the Local Government Act, who held a commission to hold the inquiry.

Owing to the indisposition of Mr. R. B. Macintosh, Mr. B. B. O'Conor appeared on behalf of the returning officer and the municipal council, while Mr. D. Levy appeared on behalf of the complainants, the Sefton Park and East Hills Ratepayers' Association.

Albert R. Peek, returning officer, stated that the election took place on January 28 last. There were three wards, and the principal polling-place was at the town hall, where Mr. Thomas presided. He went to Sydney and visited the booth at 3.30 p.m. He had a look at the roll. On the middle leaf no names were printed. The names missing were from "Gilliver" to "Little." He arrived at Rookwood at 7.55, and took a cab to Bankstown. He had only one drink the whole of the day, and that was while waiting for the train at Sydney.

The returning officer added that when he arrived at the town hall there was a demonstration on the part of some of the people. He went to the hall, and saw several persons, whom he asked what authority they had for being present. Mr. Childs said: "I act for Mr. Gibson." He asked them to go out and wait till they were ready for the count. Davis, who represented his father, a candidate, and M'Hugh, who represented Mr. Scanlon or Mr. Miller, were also present. They were allowed to remain, because they had been in the booths during the day. He went with Thomas and M'Donald into his office, and showed them how to check the rolls. He left them, and returned to the hall to have some refreshments. The presiding officers and some of the candidates also had refreshments. There was a dozen of ale, but no whisky that he knew of. On the occasion of the previous election he had refreshments just the same, and no objection was raised. The counting of votes took place about an hour after his arrival—9.30 or 9.40. The count was held in the council-chamber. All present went inside, also several scrutineers who had been waiting outside. The counting was over shortly after 12 o'clock. He then announced the result outside.

To Mr. Levy: He had been town clerk about five years. As far as possible it was proper to select men for the position of presiding officer who had previous experience. Thomas was a relative, and had not had previous experience, beyond helping in the office work. He applied for the position, and there was no other applicant. M'Donald had been previously employed in the office with the books. Evans, who presided at the city booth, had previous experience as poll clerk. Hanley, poll clerk at the town hall, had no previous experience. He did not know that the night before the election he had tried to break up a public meeting. Cook was not drunk the night before the election.

In further reply to Mr. Levy, he said that he first heard that there was trouble about the city booth roll at 11 a.m. He was not aware that Mr. Evans swore that the page in the roll was missing. He gave Evans two copies of the roll, and signed them. He naturally concluded that they were the same. He thought it not correct if Mr. Evans said he did not receive his telegram. He sent it. He did not receive a list of names, so he concluded Evans had a list of names, so he concluded that he must have received the telegram. He would not have gone to Sydney but for having to take the complete roll. He thought it advisable then to stay, in case of further trouble. He was not aware that Evans said witness only stayed five minutes. If he said that, it was not correct. The ordinances did not say anything about not having refreshments.

Mr. Levy: They do not say anything about not getting drunk.

Witness, continuing, said that, after the way Evans had acted, he did not consider him qualified, and that was why he remained till closing time. He did not know what distinction there was between a booth and a count scrutineer, but always understood that the latter's duties did not commence till the counting was started, and that was why he asked them to retire.

To the Commissioner: He did not have any drink while the counting was on. He had only tea at supper.

Matthew Carter, cab-driver, stated that he drove Mr. Peek from Rookwood to Bankstown on the night of the election. Peek was sober.

Lawrence Zala stated that on election day he drove Mr. Peek to the various booths and to the bank at Auburn. He did not see him have a drink at any time during the day.

John Palmer stated that he was outside scrutineer for Alderman Scanlan. Mr. Peek asked him to retire. Mr. Peek was sober. He did not see him go out of the room while the counting was going on for the best part of the night. He believed he went out once or twice, and whilst he was out the counting went on. Before the box was opened it was held up, so that the scrutineers could see that everything was all right.

FEDERAL FINANCES.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

For the five months ended November 30 the Customs and excise revenue amounted to £5,908,692, or a sum of £519,985 in excess of the receipts from the same sources for the first five months of the preceding year. The estimate has been exceeded by £158,692.

It is not anticipated that the revenue will be substantially affected by the new tariff.

POSTAL RECEIPTS.

The postal receipts are under the estimate, the total revenue for five months having been £1,540,880, or about £71,000 less than in 1910.

FINANCIAL.

THE INVESTMENT MARKET.

HOW TO READ A PROSPECTUS.

The glorious rains that have fallen during the week have given quite a new aspect to the investment market. Whereas not a little nervousness was beginning to characterise the operations of investors, this has now been allayed, and its place taken by renewed optimism. It is now possible to see much further ahead than was the case a fortnight ago. The week has been featured by the number of prospectuses issued. These we have criticised as they were published, and we now propose to lay down certain principles for the reading of prospectuses generally. First of all, it must be remembered that these may be of two distinct characters, each of which requires rather different treatment. A prospectus may be either:—

(1) Of an entirely new concern; or,

(2) Of the refloating of an existing business.

The Town Planning Company of Australia is an example of the former, the American Picture Show of the latter. It is clear that in considering what is likely to be the return from an entirely new proposition, there is a good deal of scope for the imagination, and that is just wherein the danger lies. A cleverly drafted prospectus that tells just enough to excite the imagination without descending into details is the kind that is apt to snare the unwary. "Many go in quest of wool and come back shorn," the proverb tells us, and this undoubtedly applies to this class of appeal. The first consideration is whether the enterprise is a legitimate one, one which under prudent management would be likely to succeed. Where there are other industries of the same or of a similar character in Australia or elsewhere, it is not usually very difficult to form an opinion. If there are other similar enterprises carried on in this State, will they compete with the one it is proposed to establish; and, if so, has it any special advantages, by way of better facilities, more suitable location, larger capital, special concessions, either in the form of Parliamentary or municipal rights, or patent rights, or secret processes? If it be decided that the industry is a legitimate one, and that there is room for it, then it is necessary to ask whether those who are placing it on the market are the type of men who are likely to make a success of it. This is not always easy to do. If the men are unknown, the only safe course is to turn it down as too risky. If they are known, and favourably known, as men of integrity, who have been associated with previous successes, then it may be well to proceed further with the examination, and see what assets the vendors propose to sell to the new company. First of all, see whether the assets are of a character likely to be useful to the new business, and that they have been valued by some independent while at the same time competent valuator. It is not always wise to pay too much heed to a public accountant's valuation of real estate, however valuable his estimate of book debts may be. A vendor who values his own assets may be perfectly honourable, but it is not well to build too much on his judgment. If the price to be paid to the vendor exceeds the value of the assets properly ascertained, then it is well to consider why this is so. Can there be a goodwill of a new concern? Sometimes an idea may be worth money—much money; but the prudent investor will see that he is not overburdened with assets of this character, which are rarely liquid, and may be illusive. The next point for consideration is as to whether the financial scheme of the proposed company is adequate for the work to be undertaken. Is the capital large enough, or is the concern over capitalised? Are the proportions of preference shares, if any, and ordinary shares, satisfactory? Are there debentures, and if so do these militate against the security? If memorandum and articles of association have been issued, look at the voting power, at the powers of directors, as to whether the company has a prior lien over the shares in respect of shareholders' indebtedness to it, which would tend to rob the shares of their liquidity. Then, are there any contracts? If so, what are these? Are they such as are calculated to benefit the company or hamper it? Finally, have all the statutory requirements of the Companies Act been fulfilled? If they have not, litigation may arise in the future which would be calculated to prejudice the interests of shareholders.

The second class of flotation is much more easy to dissect. The first query is: Why does the company wish to sell? It may have a perfectly legitimate object. Perhaps those who run it may feel that if they could only get a little more money they could materially expand an already profitable business. On the other hand, lured by the signs of great prosperity, they may have designs on the public purse, for

> And that craves wary walking.

If the investor be well satisfied as to the bona-fides of the proposition, then he may proceed to consider what past results have been shown. Past results should cover as long a period as possible, and the period cannot be too long. They should be verified by accountants whose names stand above suspicion, and if the float be a large one then the name of more than one firm of accountants should be associated with it, but not in the character of promoters, for that would at once discount the value of their testimony. In fact, where accountants are promoters their statements should always be supported by other and quite independent accountants of high standing. Even if all these precautions be taken, the investor is liable to be led astray, but if they are applied the proportion of failures will be reduced to a minimum.

Government stocks were not much sought after during the week, both 3½ and 3¾ per cent. easing 5/-. Bank shares were quieter; Bank of New South Wales eased 2/6, A.B.C. rose /3, while Commercial Banking Company of Sydney eased 2/6. Steam shares sold fairly well; Port Jackson at an advance of 4/6, Illawarra at a reduction of 1/3; while Balmain (new) rose /3, Adelaide declined /5, Union /6, and North Coast 1/6; I.O.A. rose /3; other insurance shares being neglected. Gas shares were dull and unaltered. Breweries sold fairly well, Castlemaine and Wood Bros. advancing 1/3, while Tooths are 1/, and Tooheys /3 dearer. Land and building shares were quiet, and unaltered. South Greta Coal eased /9, other coal shares being unchanged. Miscellaneous shares, especially Greater J. D. Williams, came in for a good deal of attention, these closing /7½ higher. Standard Waygood rose /3, Allen Taylor 2/, Goldsbrough, Mort, 3/3, Clyde Engineering /6, Aaron's Exchange /3, Marcus Clark, ord. 7/6; Aerated Bread, 1/9; Australian Drug, /3, W. E. Smith /6, Brown Bros. /4, Winchcombe, Carson /9, Fresh Food /3. Among the declines were:—Colonial Sugar 10/, Henry Jones Co-operative /1½, W. H. Soul, Pattinson, 2/.

THE COMMONWEALTH "GRAB."

"Elgin" writes:—

Sir,—Without entering into the question of the advisability of establishing a Commonwealth bank, I should like to point out the absurdity of the statements which have been so freely made by some of our so-called financiers. First of all, there is the astounding announcement that the Federal Government, in pursuance of its policy of grab, is going to annex some fifty millions of deposits from the States saving banks. How is it going to accomplish this is beyond my comprehension, seeing that nearly the whole of this fairly respectable sum has been spent in the States concerned, with the exception of what may be termed till money. The ordinary man in the street would probably say that the Federal Government was going to take over a liability rather than grab an asset. The States "cannot eat their cake and have it," they have eaten theirs, and have left the doubtful advantage of paying interest thereon and getting a little more to spend when the deposits exceed the withdrawals in any given year.

Considering the magnitude of the sum involved, and the position the States would be in, if, through a recurrence of drought, bad times, or panic, the depositors were to try to exercise their right to withdraw their money "en masse," of course they could not get it, and it would be absurd to see half a dozen State Treasurers rushing off to the London market to try and borrow fifty millions to pay back trust funds they had spent.

It is quite time the whole matter was put upon a secure business basis; and the proper authority to do this is the Federal Government. As a commencement it should take over all the State Savings Bank business. The States would then be debtors to the Federal Government for their respective shares of the amount taken over, and should be charged interest thereon. Secondly, the Federal Government should devise some scheme for converting a large proportion of the existing liability into some form of permanent security, probably on the lines of the French Government Rentes. To allow the matter to remain as it is, under the pleasing fiction that the money is payable at call, is only courting disaster and chaos in the future should any serious crisis arise, owing to internal or foreign complications.

There is some risk, but exactly how serious that risk is it is impossible to say. It is one that most Governments run, including the British Government.

WOOL SCOUR BY-PRODUCTS, LTD.

The prospectus of the above company will be found in our advertising columns. It is only a small proposition, being to form a company with a nominal capital of £5000 in shares of £1 each, of which 600 go fully paid up to the vendors, 2400 are offered for public subscription, and 2000 held in reserve. The object of the company is to conduct the Australian agency of the Malard Suint Potash recovery machines, to extract and market potash salts, obtainable from wool scour water, to manufacture and market potash soft soaps for scouring purposes, and generally to exploit the by-products of the wool industry. Estimated profits of £70 per week are quoted when two machines are in operation. That would mean, say, £3500 a year on a paid-up capital of £3000. It is proposed, after preliminary work has been done, to form other companies in the other States, in which the parent company will retain an interest. Technical reports as to the value of the processes are appended. The provisional directors are Messrs. G. H. Gerber, Victor Haigh, and George Christie.

BANK OF NEW ZEALAND.

WELLINGTON (N.Z.), Friday.

At the half-yearly meeting of the Bank of New Zealand, Mr. Kennedy, acting chairman, said the directors had declared an interim dividend of 6 per cent. on all shares. The advances and discounts for the September quarter were £21,481,660, against £18,177,596 for the corresponding period of last year, of which the Bank of New Zealand was responsible for £8,279,439, against £6,966,601. The assets board's properties now left in the hands of the bank were only a little over a thousand pounds. Those assets, when the board was constituted in 1895, amounted to £2,680,000. The trade of the Dominion showed considerable signs of revival. In regard to the industrial outlook, the lambing had not been as good as usual.

Mr. Kennedy was re-elected a director unopposed.

THE TARIFF.

THE ALTERATIONS ANALYSED.

OPINIONS OF THE TRADE.

PASSING ON THE CHARGES.

The amendments to the tariff imposed by the Federal Government and the new income taxes imposed by the State Government were the chief topics of criticism in commercial circles yesterday, and it seemed to be something more than a coincidence that increased taxation from two sources should be announced at the same time by two different Governments, though it was remembered that the Governments were of the same party. Perhaps the income taxes were the most discussed, because in their case though they will in a large measure be passed on the operation will be more difficult than in the case of the Customs duties, where it is easy to ascertain the extra amount necessary to be charged to the public, an amount which is necessarily always more than the amount of the duty, because something must be allowed for interest on extra outlay.

As regards division 1, "ale, spirits, and beverages," there is practically no alteration in what are always recognised as the alcoholic drinks—ales, porters, and spirituous liquors. The omission of the words "2 per cent. proof spirit" would not affect them, but it was held that it would affect those ales and other beers which contain less than 2 per cent of proof spirit. Hitherto these have paid a duty ad valorem of 20 per cent. Now they will pay 1/6 per gallon in bottle and 1/ per gallon in bulk. With the exception of limejuice practically all the soft drinks are made in Australia, so that the tariff should not alter their prices. But with limejuice the case is different. Hitherto this and other fruit juices and essences, whether in bottle or in bulk, have paid a duty of /9 per gallon. For bulk the duty remains the same, but for bottled lots the duty is increased to 1/6 per gallon. The object, of course, is to favour the bottling of the limejuice locally, and it is a singular fact that some months ago arrangements were made by exporters on the other side for the discontinuance of their export of bottled limejuice to Australia in consequence of their entering into arrangements with a local bottling firm to bottle their bulk beverage from December 1, which, it has turned out, was the day on which the new duties were imposed. The amount of bottled stuff coming in appears to be small. One large firm this year has only imported 45 cases of bottled limejuice.

PREPOSTEROUS ALTERATIONS.

GROCERS' VIGOROUS DENUNCIATION.

Perhaps it is in groceries that the additional charges will be most felt. Vinegar is a typical example. Speaking on the subject yesterday, Mr. J. D. Fisher, of John Connell and Co., Ltd., was sarcastic. "Why," he said, "here is Crosse and Blackwell's vinegar costing us 4s 6d per dozen, less 2½ per cent. Under the old tariff the Customs duty was 1s 2d per dozen, or more than 25 per cent. Was that not protection enough? Yet the Government increases the charge by another 1s per dozen, which means a tax of 45 per cent. On the old charge the local manufacturers were making anything from 50 per cent. to 100 per cent. What will they make with the additional Customs duty? Of course we will not pay the duty; we will pass it on. The public will have to pay. Then there are the tinned fruits. Why should there be any increase of duty on them? I do not suppose that we import more than 1000 cases per annum. Some say not more than 500 cases. All the rest is Australian produced. In order to keep out that thousand cases the taxes are put up 1s and 2s per dozen. On the whole of the produce of Australia the Australian public will have to pay an additional 1s or 2s a dozen tins, according to size. As far as the grocery trade is concerned, the alterations are preposterous."

Another wholesale grocer pointed out that the increased duty on petits pois had been increased from 1s 6d to 2s 6d, while the f.o.b. price this year ranged from 2s 7½d to 3s 3d. This meant that green peas or perhaps dried peas were being protected to the extent of nearly 100 per cent. Was it necessary that our locally grown vegetables should be protected by a duty of nearly 100 per cent. in order to compete with vegetables from France? Even preserved ginger in liquid was being protected, but that was because a factory had been started in Melbourne. In that case the rate worked out at an increase of 1½d per lb. As to the tinned fruit, all that was coming in now was the very high-class American and English productions, and little short of prohibition would keep it out.

Encouragement is given for the grinding of spices into curry powder by reducing the duty on unground spices so used from 2d to 1d per lb. Manufactured curry is unaltered at 30 per cent. or 25 per cent.

DISSECTING THE AMENDMENTS.

"I know little about the new duties on manufactured metals," said Mr. Keep, of Messrs. John Keep and Sons. "My indent department is busy dissecting them, and until that department presents its report to me I do not intend to worry about the matter. The matter is so intricate, as are all the Customs matters, that it does not do for anyone who is not continually dealing with the Customs to offer an opinion." Another merchant expressed the opinion that this was only the commencement of protection bordering on prohibition, and that we should wake up some fine morning, and find that we had protection with a vengeance. An analysis of the list seems to show that in the majority of cases the alterations are merely verbal, or made with a view to rectifying anomalies. Additional protection, however, is given to the manufacture of gas meters, and it would seem as if when a whole machine is admitted free the duty is to be charged on parts imported separate from a machine. Electroliers and gasaliers have gone up 5 and 10 per cent. Zinc plates in large sizes, 7ft by 3ft, or the equivalent, are admitted free, but apparently smaller sheets will be brought under some other item, so as to afford protection to those who cut up the sheets for use of manufacturers of meat safes. As to cement, the alteration seems not to affect cement itself, but manufactures into which cement enters.

In fire and glazed bricks there is an additional 5 per cent. levied. Granite is included as a dutiable article at 10 per cent. No alteration has been made in the impost on plateglass.

TAXING A LOCAL INDUSTRY.

The most important change in oils has been reclassification, whereby the vegetable oils are divided into three classes, viz., vegetable oils edible, including salad and cooking; vegetable oils denaturated; and vegetable oils used for paint. By this means the duty on rapeseed has been increased from /6 per gallon to 2/, so that it now pays the same rate as olive oil, cottonseed oil, and China oil when pure. The object, of course, is to protect the local production of olive oil. It has been known for some months that importers were making use of rapeseed oil as a low-grade salad or cooking oil. It passed the required tests, and though originally of not too inviting appearance it could be so used by mixture as to partake of a good appearance. Being cheaper than cottonseed and paying a lower duty, it was in favour as the cheapest substitute for olive. Hence the increase of duty did not surprise those acquainted with the facts, and to back their opinion they indented large quantities, most of which arrived before the duty came into force. Paint oils and oils denaturated are unchanged. Some local kalsomines are on the market, hence the duty of 4/ per cwt on kalsomines, water paints, and distempers, a new charge. It is doubted whether it will affect the production, as without the duty the local industry was doing fairly well in certain grades of cold water kalsomines. On crude barytes, which enters into the manufacture of all paint material, the duty of 2/ per cwt is unchanged. But ground barytes, which was formerly charged the same rate, is now advanced by 1/ to 3/. The paint-makers are indignant at the charge. Mr. William Houston, the managing director of one of the largest paint works, gave voice to the discontent at the action of the Government. "Protecting local industry!" he said. "Why, it is actually discouraging local industry. We must have the barytes for paint. I pay 47/6 per ton in England for the material, and here the Government puts on a duty of 60/ per ton. That is protection for the man who grinds the barytes to powder with a vengeance." Mr. Houston also wants to know why the Government did not make provision for denaturating colza, a form of rape-seed oil. It is a burning oil, and should be admitted on the same duty as other burning oils if denaturated—that is to say, /6 per gallon. Of course, it would be a better oil for burning without denaturation. Some importers incline to the belief that turpentine is included in the list of articles on which new duties have been levied, but it seems sufficiently plain that turpentine substitutes only are provided for at the rate of ¾d per gallon. Why were substitutes specially singled out? it is elsewhere asked.

KAURI PRICES ADVANCED.

The Minister for Customs, in introducing the amendments into the House of Representatives, pointed out that beyond allowing the importation of New Zealand white pine in certain sizes free, for use in butter box-making, there was no alteration in the timber duties. The timber merchants believe that they have caught the Minister tripping. They contend that the deletion of the sub-item (b) of item 303, "New Zealand pine, undressed, of all sizes, per 100 super feet, 6d," and the substitution therefor of the new item:—

> (b) New Zealand white pine, undressed, for butter boxes, in sizes not less than 9in x ⅝in, nor exceeding 12in x 2in, but not cut to shape, subject to departmental by-laws, free."

throws all other New Zealand pine, kauri, and rimu under sub-item (d),

> "Timber, undressed, n.e.i., etc., per 100 super feet, 2s 6d."

They acted promptly on their discovery yesterday, and advanced the price of New Zealand timbers other than white pine as follows:—On ½in timber, an additional charge of 1s per 100 super feet; on ⅝in and ¾in, an additional 1s 6d; on 1in and over, an additional 2s.

Our Melbourne correspondent telegraphed last night:—"The Comptroller-General of Customs, Mr. Lockyer, explained that the duty on kauri had been raised. He points out that under the old tariff there was an item, New Zealand pine, 6d per 100 ft. This included kauri under the new tariff. This has been deleted, and kauri has to pay the same duty as the other timbers, which is 2s 6d per 100ft for undressed in sizes less than 7in x 2½in, or its equivalent."

CHEAPER BUTTER BOXES.

When seen yesterday afternoon, Mr. Hanson, manager of the Co-operative Butter Box Factory at Balmain, expressed himself as thoroughly satisfied with the new tariff. "It will enable us," he stated, "to give the factories the boxes ½d per box cheaper. We have recently had a 12½ per cent. increase in the pay-sheet, and the taking off of the duty on the raw material will just about level matters up." Mr. Hanson went on to say that in recent years a large amount of New Zealand white pine had been used for building purposes, as it only carried a duty of 6d, as against 2s 6d in the case of Oregon. "But the new tariff will put an end to that," said he, "as only wood which is to be used exclusively for the production of butter boxes is to be admitted free."

TAXING THE CHILDREN.

"As far as I can see," remarked a leading fancy goods merchant, "this new tariff simply means a further rise in some commodities. Take dolls. They have put on a duty of 25 per cent., whether dressed or undressed. What will be the result? Instead of the youngster being able to get her doll at, say, 6d, she will have to pay 7½d or 9d, or else be satisfied with a smaller toy at 6d. Then, again, we have gramophones. In the past they have been free, but now they are to carry a general duty of 35 per cent., with a preference duty of 30 per cent. when the value of the machine exceeds £5. Seeing that gramaphones are in a way educational, in that they make available to the poorer classes—in fact, all classes—the music of the world, the increased cost seems a pity."

Mr. Day, of the Australian Drug Company, is of opinion that heavy chemicals will be unaffected. As regards leather goods, a similar opinion was expressed. The new tariff makes no material alteration.

HIGHER PRICES FOR PIANOS.

"It will make a difference of several thousand pounds a year in paying more duty and losing business," said one of the salesmen of Messrs. Paling and Co. when asked how the tariff revision would affect his firm. Continuing, he said that the price of pianos would correspondingly increase. It would mean they would have to discharge several of their men. Although this gentleman believed in supporting Australian industries, he was of the opinion that it was ridiculous to impose such high duties on foreign pianos when there were only two makers in the Commonwealth.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

J. C. Williamson, Ltd., has increased its capital from £130,000 to £300,000.

The Cootamundra Machine Brick and Tile Company, Ltd., has been registered with a capital of £5000, in shares of £1 each, to manufacture bricks, etc. The first directors are:—Messrs. George H. THE MARKETS.

The import market yesterday was chiefly concerned over the increased income tax and the amendments to the tariff, and the alterations which the latter would make in prices. There were differences of opinion as to the interpretation of the tariff, chiefly as concerns turpentine and New Zealand timber. Business was practically at a standstill so far as the market was concerned, though a large distributing trade was noted in all departments except heavy metals and chemicals. The price of tin ingots was increased by /2 per lb owing to the increase of costs cabled from London. Yesterday a price of 206/ per cwt was given for tin in quantities. Otherwise there was no change in the metal prices. A new list was advised for imported nettings.

Some excitement was produced in the oil market by the additional duty on rapeseed, making it 2/ per gallon in place of /6. Seventy-five cases sold at 4/ per gallon, an advance of /9 on the previous sale of a parcel, and prices were then increased to 4/6. Fifty drums of boiled linseed oil, B.S. and Co.'s, sold on spot at 5/. Distributing quotations were down to raw 4/11, double boiled 5/1 per gallon.

In the tea market there was a very active inquiry from the other States, as well as from local buyers; but prices were still above the ideas of blenders, who, however, it was thought would be forced to pay the higher range within a short time. At the auction competition was good, but vendors would not let anything go under costs. Of 510 packages of Ceylons offered 240 were sold up to /9½, and of 350 packages of Javas offered 240 sold, prices ranging up to /8½.

In Eastern produce the increase in the price of cinnamon in Ceylon given effect to locally during the week puzzled importers, as no reason could be assigned for it. Formerly the price was 1/2 per lb for parcels; now it is 1/6. Coffee was strongly held, and with the advances cabled prices locally must go higher. A Brazilian coffee which was landed here two years ago at /6½ per lb could not be obtained now under /10 per lb. In consequence of the amended duty there was expected to be further trade done in locally ground curry.

The jute market held a course similar to that of Thursday as far as cornsacks were concerned. Buyers of parcels were about at 5/3, but the sacks were difficult to obtain at that price. Country buyers were purchasing freely at 5/3½ to 5/4. Branbags had a free inquiry from the country, and further lots were sold at 4/8, but the largest holder would not let any go under 4/9 for spot; and for January delivery he wanted 4/8. From Calcutta the c.i.f. quotation prompt shipment was given as 3/11, equal to a landed cost of 4/1½. Woolpacks were sold at 2/3½ to 2/4 each.

On account of their interpretation of the amendment to the tariff the Sydney and Suburban Timber Merchants' Association have increased the price of kauri and rimu in amounts varying from 1/ to 2/ per 100 super feet, according to size.

BREADSTUFFS.

THE MARKET DULL.

The wheat market yesterday was without interest. Farmers had stopped selling on the lower prices being offered. Shippers maintained 3/6½ as their quotation ex trucks Sydney. There was no business doing in the parcel trade, either in old or new wheat. The London market was cabled dull and uninteresting, and our own cables speak again of the excellent crop prospects in Argentina rendering the London and Continental markets stagnant.

Flour was quiet at £8/15/ per ton, delivered, as quoted by the association.

At Darling Harbour yesterday 1177 tons of wheat and 160 tons of flour were manifested to arrive.

ADELAIDE, Friday.

The wheat market was dull and weaker. Farmers' lots eased to 3/5½, trucks Port Adelaide. There was very little movement in parcels. Old were worth about 3/7, f.o.b., new about 3/7¼. Flour was quiet to £8 for export to £8/10/ delivered. Bran and pollard were firm at 1/1½ to 1/2. Feedstuffs were steady at late rates. Values for produce at auction showed a wide range, owing to the varying quality of forwardings. Best factory sold to 1/3½. Best dairy to 1/1½, best stores to /98. Eggs firmed to /9 for hen, /9½ for duck. Bacon, cheese, honey, and almonds were steady at late rates.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

Wheat was inactive at 3/7½. Flour brought £8/10/. Bran and pollard were firm at £5/10/. Oats were firm and inactive. Milling Algerians were quoted at 2/3, nominal, feed 2/6 to 2/8. Maize had fair sales at 3/7, ex wharf. Peas brought 3/ to 4/. Chaff had an easier market. Oaten, prime to choice, made 80/ to 85/; wheaten, 80/ to 85/. Hay, manger, 80/ to 110/; sheaves, 60/ to 85/; straw, Victorian 30/ to 35/; Tasmanian, 50/ to 55/. Potatoes, old were lifeless at 15/ to 40/. New were firm up to £6/5/. Onions were scarce. Good business was doing in Queensland tinned pineapples, and some sellers look for a further advance, owing to the tariff revision. Fair business was done in cream of tartar and tartaric acid. Quotations for imported bulk vinegar were raised by /6 per gallon, and cased vinegar by 1/ per dozen. Cornsacks were quoted at 5/5 for ordinary lots for the country, and about /1 less for parcels. Branbags made 4/6. Good forward business was done in linseed oil and white lead.

PRODUCE.

DAIRY.

EGGS UNSETTLED.

There was a great diversity of opinion in Sussex-street yesterday morning as to what should be the price of eggs. One firm stated that they were getting above the published quotations, and produced documents to prove that as high as 1/1 had been obtained for new-laid suburban, while railways had realised to /11, and North Coasts to /10. However, these prices were only reported by one house, and we have no hesitation in saying that the quotations published hereunder are the correct market valuations, although there may certainly have been isolated cases in which "fancy prices" were obtained. The Kyogle brought 96 cases from the Clarence, and the Cavanbar 12 cases from Byron Bay.

Another heavy shipment of cheese was to hand from the South Coast per the Merimbula. The quality showed a distinct improvement over recent consignments. Prices were steady at the previous day's quotations.

Bacon was firm, and an excellent demand prevailed for prime quality meat. In fact the selling agent for one of the leading brands stated that so rushed with orders were they that deliveries were being put back until Monday.

There was again a keen inquiry for prime western honey, which, as previously mentioned in this column, is none too plentiful. Of dark, candied, and watery sorts there is an abundance, but these the grocers refuse to touch.

Sales of butter at the advanced rates were well up to the average, retailers operating freely at 120/ per cwt. However, if the hot weather and high prices continue next week a falling off in the sales may be looked for.

Following were current quotations:—

FORAGE AND GRAIN.

HUNTER RIVER ONIONS £9.

Yesterday being the first of the month a much improved volume of business was transacted in the forage and grain departments of the "street."

A further advance was recorded in maize, which once again reached the 4/ mark. The Kyogle brought 170 bags from the Clarence River, while some 1000 bags were received at the railway market.

Hunter River onions were fully 30/ per ton dearer, choicest samples realising £9. The Victorian Globes were worth £8. Reports from Melbourne indicate that supplies of brown Spanish varieties show a rapid diminution; in some instances local buyers having to go short. This gap is not being filled with silverskins or Globes, both of which crops in the Brighton districts are said to have suffered from blight and the results of hailstorms. Under these circumstances the market in the southern capital has gained strength, and from 65/ to 70/ is wanted for old brown Spanish, the other varieties indicated commanding up to £5 10/ per ton.

The Wakatipu landed over 3000 bales of Tasmanian derrick straw. This, of course, had the effect of weakening the market for this commodity, and primest wheaten descriptions were to be had at £3/5/, while oaten cleared at £3/2/6.

The same steamer also brought about 1000 bags of oats and 30 or 40 bales of oaten hay. The oats were in good request at late rates.

From the Clarence the Kyogle brought a shipment of 2000 bags of new potatoes. Generally speaking, the quality was not good but nevertheless the best samples realised £5. Two further consignments are looked for on Monday.

Advices to hand, dated Christchurch, November 22, state that the weather in New Zealand during the last few weeks has been changeable, but on the whole favourable for the growing crops. Stock is still very backward, and Canterbury factories will not open until the middle of December, or a month later than last year. Wheat is weaker, but stocks are now very small. Oats are very firm, but as the new crop will shortly be available in the early districts in Canterbury, business is only of a hand-to-mouth character. New potatoes are coming to hand in the North Island. The demand for old varieties is now very small, and as there are a good many offering the market is weak.

FORAGE.

Chaff.—Victorian: Wheaten, £4/10/ to £4/15/; oaten £4/10/ to £4/15/. Adelaide: Wheaten, £4/10/ to £4/15/. Tasmanian: Oaten, £4/5/, nominal per ton.

Derrick Straw.—Tasmanian: Wheaten, £3/5/; oaten, £3/2/6. Victorian, Wheaten, £3/2/6 to £3/5/; oaten, nominal.

Lucerne Hay.—Local: Hunter River, prime dry green 60/ to 65/, brown sweated 50/ to 55/, medium 40/ to 50/ per ton.

Oaten Hay.—Victorian: £4/10/ to £5 per ton.

GRAIN AND BY-PRODUCTS.

Barley.—Victorian: Cape for seed or feed 3/, good 2/10 to 2/11; English malting, 4/6 to 5/, feed 2/9 to 3/ per bushel; values almost nominal.

Broom Millet.—Prime long hurl, £24 to £25, extra choice £26, short and self-working, £21 to £24; discoloured and crooked, £17 to £21 per ton.

Maize.—Northern River, prime dry yellow, 3/11 to 4/, white southern 3/11 to 4/. Queensland: 3/11 to 4/ per bushel.

RAILWAY MARKETS.

OATEN CHAFF DEARER.

A medium number of buyers was present at the Railway Produce markets on Friday, when the consignments placed in position for sale totalled 55, and included:—Chaff 22, hay 5, straw 1, maize 16, wheat 5, potatoes 5, and turnips 1. All these trucks, however, were not offered. For instance, out of the 16 trucks of maize only four were auctioned, and not one was sold.

The qualities of the chaff were again exceptionally good, and for both wheaten and oaten buyers were, judging by the competition that prevailed, in need of these commodities. Wheaten chaff brought prices corresponding to the previous day's rates, but the market for oaten rose 2/4. Out of 15 trucks of chaff only one was passed in, and that at 5/. Prime wheaten realised from 5/ to 5/3, and medium 3/9. Oaten chaff of prime quality brought from 4/9 to 5/3 per cwt.

A good demand existed for lucerne hay on Thursday, but on Friday competition for this commodity ruled dull, and very few bales were sold. Prime small found a purchaser at 4/7, whilst medium small exchanged hands at 3/9. A consignment of rye straw was purchased at 2/6 per cwt.

Prime milling wheat had sale at 3/6. No maize was sold by auction, but one consignment of prime quality was bought privately at 3/10½. The offers refused at auction were 3/10, 3/10½, and 3/11. Maize manifested to arrive consisted of 703 bags. Many of the buyers of maize are asking "Where is all the maize going to?" and "why are the prices so high?"

Old potatoes were sold at low rates, whilst new lots met better sale, but at prices which were not equal to the rates obtained last season. Good old tubers were disposed of at 1/1, whilst prime new had quittance at 5/6, and good new at 4/9. Good turnips realised 2/6 per cwt.

The produce manifested to arrive included:—Chaff 16, hay 5, maize 5, wheat 3, turnips 2, and potatoes 1.

THE CREMATORIUM.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—On August 15, 1911, the secretary of the Cremation Society received the following letter from the Under-Secretary:—

> Sir,—With reference to previous correspondence I have the honour to inform you that the Acting Chief Secretary has approved of a sum of £5000 being placed on the Estimates for consideration in connection with the erection of a crematorium and chapel.
> I have the honour to be, Sir,
> Your most obedient servant,
> J. COGHLAN,
> Under Secretary.

So runs the Government's promise. There is no mention of draft estimates that may be subject to revision, but the wording is simple and clear.

Such a promise would be binding in any ordinary transaction between man and man, and would also be enforced by the law of the land. Yet the Government, which has the confidence of the people, and is placed in its dignified position to act justly to all sections alike, waves its written promises lightly to one side without any reason. There is a strong, healthy body of public opinion in favour of cremation, and even some of the Ministers of the Crown themselves have in the past been working for the realisation of this reform.

Is the Government afraid that such expenditure would not pay? Then I may refer to Dr. Creed's letter, in which he encloses a balance-sheet of the Crematorium Company in London, which is paying 10 per cent. on all shares. Perhaps the Government is afraid that a crematorium offends the religious sentiments; then I may quote some leading clergymen in the Church of England; for instance, Dr. Gore, Bishop of Birmingham, writes: "What I should desire when I myself die is that my body should be reduced to ashes, so that it may do no harm to the living. Then, in accordance with the Christian faith, it should be laid in the earth, ashes to ashes, dust to dust, with the rites of the Church. I do not see that there is any serious Christian argument against such a practice, and from a sanitary point of view cremation has enormous advantages."

His Holiness the Pope has permitted the Roman Catholic clergy to be cremated, and in Italy there are no less than 34 crematoriums. Only a few of the most narrow religious sects who are always in the vanguard of advanced ideas do we find protesting against cremation.

At the present time there is seating accommodation for 1500 persons, but the management expects shortly to provide room for double that number. Rows of vari-coloured electric globes hang from the trees and around the gardens. MINING.

LONDON LESS BUOYANT.

COMMONWEALTH EXCHANGES AFFECTED.

The market yesterday morning was a difficult one to guage. The quotations of the London Stock Exchange on Thursday indicated less buoyancy in Australian silver and copper stocks. Contrary to expectations, this did not have much effect upon the tone of the Sydney Stock Exchange, for silver shares at the morning "call," except in the case of British (old), which showed signs of sagging. Other Barrier stocks, however, were steadily quoted, even from the buying point of view. In the case of copper stocks, Mount Elliotts eased in consequence of less buoyancy in London, the same being the case with Mount Morgans, but Hampdens commanded very firm offers.

Holders of Broken Hill Proprietary, Broken Hill Block 10, B.H. Junction North, B.H. Souths, paid and contributing, Sulphide Corporation, and Amalgamated Zincs, maintained a firm attitude, and the buying offers disclosed a fairly steady tone all round. Shortly before noon, however, the position became complicated, by reason of a sudden selling movement of British (old) in the Adelaide Stock Exchange. Locally sales started at 63/ and 62/9 for cash, followed by business for ordinary delivery at 62/3 and 62/6. Prior to this Broken Hill Proprietary sold firmly at 50/, and Broken Hill Junctions at 4/, whilst other Barrier stocks were quoted at steady rates from the buying side; but the retrograde movement in British (old) caused buyers to moderate their offers.

Outside firm forward sales in Hampdens, and steady offers for Chillagoes, paid and contributing, there was not much strength in the calls for copper shares. Indeed, Mount Elliotts weakened along with London, but holders of Mount Morgans would not concede the demands of buyers. Great Fitzroys were held firm, but buyers quoted easy.

Buying commissions from Adelaide had the effect of moving Bullfinch Proprietary from 8/6 to 9/, whilst steady sales were booked in Black Range West (contg) and Sandstone Gold. In the case of tin stocks, buyers of Tongkah Harbour Tin had to bid to 57/ to get served, whilst Vegetable Creek Tin and Great Britain Sluicing were also in request.

Extreme quietness ruled during the afternoon, with values practically unaltered in all sections. In gold stocks, Bullfinch Proprietary again sold on the up-grade, whilst silver and tin stocks were represented by very firm sales in B.H. Proprietary and Tongkah Harbour Tin.

MINING NOTES.

The Black Range Company (W.A.) has declared a dividend of /9 per share, payable on December 21.

At the Strathbogie tin mine boring was carried on continuously during the week, No. 1 hole being sunk from 52ft to 82ft through hard basalt. As soon as a supply of drill steel comes to hand, a second shift will be put on.

The No. 2 dredge of the Araluen Central Company obtained 17oz of gold for the week's run. The Araluen Redbank dredgemaster writes that they have completed work in connection with the new boiler, and resumed dredging on November 28, but, owing to a short week, did not wash up.

The Broken Hill Proprietary Company, Ltd., has received a cable message, dated London, November 30, giving the following quotations:—Silver, 2/1 9-16 (official quotation); lead, £15 13/9 (buyers' price); company's shares, £2/9/6 (buyers' price); spelter, £26/15/ (buyers' price).

The Chillagoe Company reports:—"We are advised that for seven hours ending 9 a.m. November 28 no further rain fell at the Big Reef dam. On the Etheridge field 4.50 inches fell, and the dam is quite full, but did not overflow. The Einasleigh rainfall to November 28 was 5 inches, and caused the Copperfield and Einasleigh rivers to run bankers."

For the past week the eastern leading drive of the Vegetable Creek tin mine carried an average of 18in of wash, worth 90lb. Crosscutting will not be carried out until the drive is well advanced and the ground drained. Indications point to this make of wash being an extensive one. At 361ft a crosscut driven 25ft carried an average of 20in of wash, worth 80lb. Short crosscuts are now being put out in the eastern end to cut up the wash, and permit of quantities being measured. The western leading drive met an increased flow of water, and driving was suspended for a few days until the road is regraded. Three tons of tin oxide were obtained during the week. At Chandler's shaft the crosscut has been advanced 9ft to 131ft. The face seems to be gradually getting softer, and seams of grit are more frequent.

GREAT COBAR, LIMITED.

DECLINE IN GRADE OF ORE.

The "British Australasian" of October 26 gives the following digest of the operations of the Great Cobar, Limited, culled from the first quarterly report, issued in London on October 21:—

Tons of ore treated	101,427
Tons of blister copper produced	1,880
Ozs. of gold contained in above copper	9,774
Ozs. of silver contained in above copper	37,502
Estimated value of metals produced subject to costs of refining and realisation	£158,194

Expenditure for quarter, as follows:—

Mining	60,415 18 8
Smelting	36,979 1 1
Converting	8,718 2 10
Freight and cartage, Sydney	2,248 7 7
Development	6,008 10 11
Ore purchased	7,186 8 10
Construction	4,568 11 1
	£117,120 0 7

This leaves a gross profit for the quarter of £36,073 19s 5d, and the directors give no estimate as to what the net profit is likely to be, but (says the journal in question) we think the following figures will be found to be approximately correct:—

Refining and realisation charges on 1,880 tons of blister copper, at £7 per ton	£13,160
London expenses, directors' and engineers' fees, etc., for the quarter	2,500
Debenture interest for quarter on £750,000 6 per cent. debentures	11,250
	£26,910 0 0

"Deducting this amount from the gross profits shown above, there would remain a net profit of £9165 19s 5d for the quarter, or at the rate of £36,656 per annum, but as the trust deed provides that at least £100,000 shall be set aside out of profits each year on account of debenture sinking fund, it is evident that shareholders are a very long way from receiving any dividend.

"A year ago the creation of 20,000 new shares of £5 each was sanctioned, and 15,000 of these shares have been issued. The proceeds were to be applied towards liquidating the debenture debt; but, assuming the shares to have been sold at par, the proceeds would only amount to £75,000, so that £25,000 of profits would still be required to make up the £100,000 to be provided. While the market price of the shares is far below par, the remaining 15,000 shares cannot of course be issued.

"The worst feature of the report is the heavy decline in the yield of copper per ton of ore, which is only 1.85 per cent., as compared with 2.25 per cent. for the period covered by the last annual report issued, and this is rather surprising in view of the developments reported by the manager from time to time. However, the fall in grade may be partly accounted for by the fact that about 25 per cent. of Cobar Gold Mine ore has been smelted. This ore contains only 1 per cent. of copper, and the remaining 75 per cent. of Great Cobar and other ore may therefore have yielded 2.14 per cent. The total value of the yield per ton of ore for the quarter was only 31s 2d, which leaves a very small margin above working costs to provide for debenture interest and sinking fund. The costs for 1909 amounted to 28s 7d per ton, and the costs for the past quarter, which are only partially published, amount to 23s 1d per ton, without charging anything for refining and realisation, depreciation, and London expenses, so we do not think they will show much reduction on the 1909 total. Turning back to the directors' circular of October 29, 1909, we find Mr Bellinger's estimate quoted as follows:—

"'With the existing conditions, I am confident that the entire cost for mining, smelting, converting, charging up the proper amount of depreciation, maintenance, interest, etc., will be brought down to well within 14s per ton of ore.'

"How ridiculous this estimate was is demonstrated by Mr. Bellinger's own figures for the past quarter, now published by the board."

TONGKAH HARBOUR TIN-DREDGING.

A BIG PROPOSITION.

Early this week the "Herald" was able to give a digest of the annual report of the Tongkah Harbour Tin Dredging Company, an advance proof having been received from the Hobart secretary of the company. The official report, as issued to the shareholders, was received yesterday, and, in addition, shows photographs of the dredges at work, as well as a plan of Tongkah Harbour. The plan explains at a glance the amount of work done, as well as where it was executed by the different dredges during 1910 and 1911.

The reader also gets a clear idea of the immense area of ground, or, rather, sea bottom, embraced in the concession. The latter embraces an area of 5350 acres, and of that amount only 96 acres have been dredged from March, 1908, to September 30, 1911.

The exact position is disclosed by the following figures:—

	Tons.	Cwt.
Area of concession	5350 acres
Total area dredged March, 1908, to Sept., 1911	96 acres
Tin oxide produced prior to Sept., 1910	1247	6
Tin oxide produced during year ended Sept., 1911	1142	13
Total production	2389	19
Values tin oxide produced prior to Sept., 1910	£105,628
Values tin oxide produced during year ended Sept., 1911	117,487
Total Value	£223,115

MINING IN THE STATE.

DUNGOG, Friday.

A local syndicate, which has been working at the mine at Monkerai for some time past, has struck a well-defined quartz reef showing gold freely.

DIVIDEND AND BONUS POSSIBLE.

HOBART, Friday.

It is generally understood locally that the Tongkah Harbour directors intend to give shareholders a dividend of 2s per share, also a bonus of 2s per share, at Christmas. On inquiry at headquarters, however, information was officially given that the directors have not even considered the question of a dividend.

ROYAL EASTER SHOW.

NEW AGRICULTURAL HALL.

At the monthly meeting of the council of the Royal Agricultural Society on Wednesday, Sir Francis Suttor presided. The most important business was the opening of tenders for the new Agricultural Hall at the Show Ground. Six tenders were received, and the contract was secured by Mr. R. P. Blundell at £10,988. The final reports of the section committees, who had revised the schedule for the Royal Show, were adopted. The secretary reported that the contracts on the Show Ground were now proceeding satisfactorily, also that preparations for the Royal Show had been commenced in the office, and that the prospects were very bright. The R.A.S. annual was just about to go to press, and would shortly be issued to members of the society.

Mr. S. Hordern was elected a member of the horse section committee in place of Mr. H. Dawson, who had resigned.

The birthrate in the metropolis last month was the highest for November since the year 1895. It was 8 per cent. above the average for the previous five years. The births numbered 1518. There were also 537 deaths. The mortality rate is below the average for the five years. The infantile mortality was 74 per 1000 births—25 per cent. below the five years' average.

SPORTING.

THE TURF.

Patrons of horseracing will have an outing this afternoon at Warwick Farm, while those who prefer pony and galloway racing will be catered for at Victoria Park. Sandown Park will be the sporting rendezvous for Victorian racegoers, and Brisbane racegoers will assemble at Ascot, where the Q.T.C. opens its summer meeting.

A busy time is promised at the office of the A.J.C. on Monday, when the general entries for the December and Summer meetings close with the secretary, Mr. C. W. Cropper, at 4 p.m. For the five minor events on the card for the December meeting on the 23rd instant the added money aggregates 1250 sovs, equally distributed, and the items include a Nursery Handicap and a special w.f.a. race for three-year-olds and upwards, run over nine furlongs. The four minor races on the programme for the summer meeting on Boxing Day are similarly endowed, and the items include a handicap for two-year-olds.

Warwick Farm will this afternoon be the rendezvous of lovers of horseracing, and an attractive bill of fare has been prepared for the occasion. The transit arrangements include special trains, starting from the Central Railway Station at 11 a.m. (horses and attendants), 12.22, 12.40, 12.51, 12.56, 1.6, and 1.20 p.m. The track, owing to the late favourable weather, is first-class going, and the general arrangements at the course are up to the customary standard. The sport commences at 2.10 p.m., with the Flying Handicap, in which the places may be filled by Truxton King, Malt Rose, and Lady Maltster. Olive Green, Maltee, and Ravonia may get home as named in the Farm Stakes; while Brown Dave, Lord Hybla, and C.H. may divide the honours in the Liverpool Mile. An interesting contest is promised for the Juvenile Stakes, and Lady Royal, Florentina, and Regula may claim the judge's attention. Haze, Locomotion, and Potosi may pass the post in that order for the Warwick Handicap, while Ulmus, Blue Flyer, and Malt Rose may occupy the situations in the Welter Handicap.

Entries are invited up to 4 p.m. on Monday by the secretary, Mr. W. L. Davis, for the half a dozen events on the card for the Canterbury Park December meeting on the 16th instant. The prizemoney aggregates £500, of which £100 endows the Canterbury Handicap, and £80 each of the other races.

The weights for the A.J.C. Villiers Stakes and Summer Cup should see the light next Monday.

The cup meeting of the Victoria Park Racing Club opens this afternoon, on the well-appointed racecourse at Zetland, and the bill of fare to be discussed is of more than ordinary interest, inasmuch as owners of "small horses" have a prize of £550 to be run for in the cup race, which is further subsidised by a trophy value £250, for the owner of the winner. The track is in splendid order, and large fields may be anticipated. Special trams will convey visitors to the racecourse gates, and the ordinary service to Zetland will also be available. A further attraction to the trysting place is an exhibition of aviation by the Australian aviator, Mr. Hart, who will give a series of short flights during the afternoon. The first race is timed to start at 2 p.m., and results of the racing may be anticipated as under:—Maiden Handicap: Lord Murillo, Dalhazel, Listen. Fourteen Hands Handicap: Lady Fairy, Pantomime, Lady Triem. Hurdle Race: Goldfinch, Perdition, Burleigh Merv. Victoria Park Cup: Santiago, Leticia, Doughboy. Fourteen-one Maiden Handicap: Miss Canby, Dormer, Decima. Fourteen-two Handicap: Odd Sock, Ethel B, Berne, Espenelge. Novice Handicap: J.M., Wio, Miss Voyou.

The meeting to be held under the auspices of the New South Wales Trotting Club on Monday next at Epping brings together a number of high-class performers, and the sport promises to be of a very interesting character. The customary means of transit to the racecourse gates will be in vogue.

The following horses will be offered for sale by Messrs. Wm. Inglis and Son at their Bazaar, Pitt-street, at noon on Monday next:—Ch g Pomfrey, by Flavus (imp.)—Voma, 5yrs; ch c Blue Berry, by True Blue—Shimmer, 2yrs; ch f Prudential, by Prudent King (imp.)—Aviary, 3yrs; br f Paanopa, by Brakpan—Gloriosa, 3yrs; and b f Gladwyn, by St. Alwyne (imp.)—Contort, 2yrs.

The shipment of horses that arrived in port on Thursday, by the steamship Kish, from Seattle, U.S.A., was landed at Pyrmont yesterday morning, and entrained forthwith to Ingleburn, where, on the Leppington Estate, which has been proclaimed a quarantine area for the time being, the draft will be detained during the period prescribed by the Government Stock Department. During the voyage across the Pacific four mares and a foal died, but the others came to hand in fairly good condition.

First acceptance for the A.J.C. December Stakes falls due at 4 p.m. on Monday, and all horses remaining in after that hour incur the full liability for the stake.

Trundle Jockey Club (December 26), Lawrence Jockey Club (January 26), Dungog Jockey Club (December 9), and Wollongong Jockey Club (December 16) race meetings have been granted registration by the A.J.C.

The following withdrawals were recorded yesterday at the office of the A.J.C.:—A.J.C. December Stakes: Ancram, Flute Player, Sheffield, Dona Beatriz, Marpopple, Carell, and Fleet Queen; St. Leger Stakes, 1912, Duke of Roxburghe.

The scratchings notified yesterday in connection with the Warwick Farm December Meeting were Cherry Blossom and Fleet Queen out of the Juvenile Stakes: Miss Mona out of the Welter; Selah out of the Liverpool Mile; and Monie out of the Flying Handicap.

At the annual meeting of the members of the Burrangong Picnic Race Club on Saturday last the following office-bearers were elected:—Mr. F. H. Tout, president (re-elected); Messrs. R. W. Burstal and D. H. M'Farlane, vice-presidents; Mr. F. A. Selden, hon. treasurer; Mr. C. H. Ellerman, hon. secretary; committee, Messrs. J. Parkman, S. Taylor, B. W. Marina, J. H. M'Farlane, R. O. Breden, H. E. Barritt, and Cyril Robertson. The date of the next annual race meeting was fixed for Thursday, April 18, subject to the approval of the S.D.R.A.

Advices from New Zealand are to the effect that the well-known trainer R. J. Mason is about to remove to Randwick, where he will follow his profession. Mason trained for the late Mr. G. G. Stead, and in the meantime for Mr. G. D. Greenwood, for whom he will act at Randwick.

The offer made by Mr. W. C. Roberts, to give £50 on condition that a similar sum would be subscribed by the members or patrons of the Murrumburrah Turf Club, for a £100 cup race, to be included in the programme for the annual meeting of the Murrumburrah Turf Club, was promptly accepted, and the amount required is now in the hands of the treasurer. This generous action will give the club a good lift, and for the two days' annual meeting, which takes place on February 7 and 8, the sum of £350 added money has been provided, distributed over a dozen events. The principal events are the Roberts' Cup of £100, and the Club Handicap of £50.

The following are the foalings recorded at the stud of Mr. Wm. Pearse, Plashett, Jerry's Plains:—Venus (Sweet William—Sea Foam), b c, by Fucile; Lady Ripon II. The br c by Princhester—Memento and br f by Tragedy (Butler—Reality) are dead. Wildflower (Cobbitty—Wildrose) died foaling.

Mr. Wm. Pearse, of the Plashett Stud, Jerry's Plains, has just leased a trio of thoroughbreds to the Sydney trainers, T. M'Gowan and J. Tomlinson. The former has taken in hand a two-year-old filly by Fucile from Wildflower; and Tomlinson will look after Golden Mite, by Goldreef (imp.) from Kilmorey (imp.), and a two-year-old filly by Grafton (imp.) from Bandrol.

The full programme containing the minor handicaps for Tattersall's Club annual race meeting on December 30 and January 1 is announced, and those interested should not forget that the general entry closes with the secretary, Mr. J. B. Olliffe at 4 p.m. on Monday, the 11th instant. The added money for the five events on the card for the first day carry an aggregate of 1050 sovs, of which 250 sovs goes to the Juvenile Stakes, a handicap for two-year-olds, and 200 sovs to each of the other items; while for a similar number on the second day 1125 sovs has been provided, of which 275 sovs goes to the Nursery Handicap, and 250 sovs to the New Year's Gift, run over a mile.

The scratchings recorded yesterday in connection with the Victoria Park Cup meeting were The Rose out of the Novice Handicap, Sir Moorefield out of the Fourteen Hands Handicap, and Merrie Time out of the V.P. Cup.

GOLF.

The match between the Australian and Concord clubs this afternoon at Kensington is likely to result in an easy win for the metropolitan club. Concord is without the services of several of its leading players, and on paper is not playing a very strong team. The open championship and handicap foursomes at Manly will be an interesting event, as, though the entry is not quite as large as is usual at Manly, many of the leading golfers are playing.

Bonnie Doon Golf Club.—Mixed foursomes.

The function at Randwick will be on a large scale. During the year the sward was enlarged, and its area is now sufficient to accommodate eight rinks. Over 200 invitations have been sent out. The proceedings will be enlivened by music from a band, and afternoon tea is to be provided for the ladies.

SAILING.

ROYAL PRINCE ALFRED YACHT CLUB.

OCEAN RACES.

Sir Rupert Clarke, who is giving the prizes for the Royal Prince Alfred Yacht Club's ocean races to-day, has come to Sydney to witness the contests. The course is the same for each event, namely, from Fort Denison to a mark five miles to windward (or leeward) of South Reef, and back to the finishing-line.

The entries in Class A (8 metres and under 10) are Yeulba, A. L. Mullens, and Petrel, C. Trebeck, both scratch; Rance (R. W. Pritchett), 5m; Acme (A. Wadsworth), and C. E. Fleming's, 8m; Sirrung (J. L. Milson), 11m; Rawhiti II. (F. Albert and E. E. Sayer), 22m. Starts at 2.30 p.m.

Class B. (10 metres and over).—Rawhiti (F. Albert and E. E. Sayer), scr; Thelma (C. Lloyd-Jones), 1m; Culwulla III. (W. M. Marks), 4m. The start will be at 3 p.m. Handicaps will be given at the commencement. The rounding mark will be laid by Captain F. J. Daydon, R.N.R.

The club steamer J. W. Alexander, will leave Fort Macquarie at 2.30 p.m. to follow the races.

SYDNEY FLYING SQUADRON.

18FT CHAMPIONSHIP AND TEST RACE.

The Flying Squadron's 18-footers' championship and second test race for the trip to Western Australia this afternoon is being looked forward to with a good deal of interest, and those who turn out to see the contest will be more than satisfied if it is anything like that which was put up for the Sydney Club's blue riband recently, when Nimrod, sailed by C. Hayes, won from Golding, in charge of Chris Webb, with Hero (W. J. Duncan) third. That race was the first of the tests to select a boat to go to Western Australia in January, and Nimrod, Golding, and Hero scored 5, 3, and 1 point respectively towards selection. Some doubt existed during the week as to whether C. Hayes's injured leg would permit of him sailing Nimrod, but he yesterday announced his decision to steer the speedy "eighteen," and this boat, together with Golding, Hero, and Acme (which carried away in the Sydney Club's race), should have most to say in the settlement of the contest. There is always the possibility, however, of some of the others springing a surprise, but in any case the race should be worth going a long way to see. The entries and skippers—there are 16 in all—appeared in Wednesday's "Herald." The usual Lightship course, starting and finishing at Clark Island, will be sailed for prizes of £30, besides the customary pennant and a trophy for the skipper of the winning boat.

Three steamers have been engaged to follow the race, and are advertised to call at the usual wharfs, and finally leave Fort Macquarie at 3.10.

CREMORNE CLUB.

The Cremorne Club will hold a race this afternoon over the Pilelight Course. The handicaps are as follow:—Lena (K. L. Morris), Kestrel (A. Marshall), Rip (S. Hordern), and Vim (M. Allworth), scratch; Desdemona (W. Roberts), 2m; Hiawatha (B. Rose), 8m; Witch (D. Carver), 10m. The race will start at 2.45 o'clock from Musgrave Point.

SWIMMING.

FIXTURES.

Association Clubs.

Leichhardt: Annual carnival at Leichhardt baths.
Sydney: 50yds handicap and interclub contest at Manly baths.
Manly.—50yds handicap and interclub contest at Manly baths.
East Sydney: 100yds handicap at Rushcutter Bay.
Rose Bay: 100yds handicap at Rose Bay.
Lane Cove: 150yds general handicap at Woolwich.

League.

Interstate professional carnival at Domain baths.

THE PROFESSIONAL CARNIVAL.

Messrs. Harris Bros. will hold the second gala in connection with the interstate professional carnival this afternoon at the Domain baths, when a number of important events are to be decided. Every arrangement has been made with a view to receiving a big crowd. The championship events are the 220yds and quarter-mile all-comers' races, and both promise to provide excellent contests between O. Dickman (N.S.W.), A. R. Harrower (Queensland), Geo. Read (N.S.W.), and A. Moir (South Australia). The prizes for the championship will be awarded to the competitor who secures most points in the above two contests, together with those already to the credit of the swimmers in connection with the 110yds race last Saturday, when Dickman secured 3 points, Harrower 2 points, and Read 1 point.

The finals of the Harris and the opening handicap will also be decided, and the heats and finals of the £10 handicap, ladies' handicap, booby handicap (for swimmers who have not secured a prize during the two carnivals), and the mixed doubles, in which a lady and gent each swimming 110yds form a team. A number of novelties are again included, and comprise the following:—Salome race, three-legged race, fancy costume, all clothes' race, nightshirt and candle, and grab the apple.

LEICHHARDT AMATEUR CARNIVAL.

ATTEMPT ON RECORD BY LONGWORTH.

The first amateur carnival of the season will be held this afternoon, at 3 o'clock, at the municipal bath, Leichhardt, under the auspices of the Leichhardt Amateur Swimming Club. The most noteworthy event is the 150 yards first-class handicap, in which W. Longworth and A. Wickham are competing, and in which the former intends to make an attempt to better the record for the distance. The Australasian figures are to the credit of Cecil Healy, who swam 1m 54s on December 5, 1910, at Rushcutter Bay, in a 50yds course, whilst C. M. Daniells, of New York Athletic Club, holds the world's best, viz., 1m 32 2-5s, put up at Manchester on July 8, 1908, in a 25yds course. Longworth will swim in a 50yds course, so that he will be under the same conditions as those which existed when the Australasian best were recorded. Another important event is the 880yds President's Cup Handicap, in which Messrs. E. Brenicle and F. Grose (Rechabites), G. Wild (Rose Bay), L. V. Hind (Manly), H. Milne (Leichhardt), Tas. Jones (East Sydney), and T. Adrian (Manly) are entitled to compete. Altogether 27 entries were received for this event, and the preliminary heats were contested last Tuesday. The club championships, both senior and junior, are to be decided, and an interclub handicap, for which 70 swimmers have entered, the final of a club handicap, and a number of novelties and diving displays, which should prove most attractive, are also to be held.

INTERCLUB CONTEST.

SYDNEY v MANLY.

At Manly baths the Sydney and Manly clubs will engage in an interclub contest, besides each holding a 50yds handicap for its members. The contest will comprise a mile teams relay race (17 men swimming), 100 yds each, and the last swimmer completing the balance); polo match, and diving competition. The Manly B Company of the compulsory training squadron will also decide four events at the same baths between 2 and 3 p.m.

MISS GLADYS TATE v MISS JOSEPHINE LIDDLE.

Miss Josephine Liddle, the lady champion of Queensland, has been matched to swim Miss Gladys State, of the New South Wales League of Swimmers, over a distance of 440yds. The stake-money (£10) has been posted. The race will take place at the Domain Baths this afternoon.

ANGLING.

BRISBANE WATER.

F. Clarke writes protesting against the offer of Mr. Batchelor to pay a substantial sum for permission to net fish in Brisbane Water being accepted. He asks where Mr. Batchelor would draw his boundary lines.

Our correspondent need have no fears. Brisbane Water is closed against netting by Act of Parliament, and has been set apart as a great public fishery for years. Hand-lining and rod-fishing are permitted in it, and many hundreds of people secure a good living at Woy Woy, Point Clare, Blackwall, Gosford, and other places on the shores by catering for the accommodation of visitors. In fact, the whole district largely depends upon the piscatorial attractiveness of a great nursery for marine fish. No offer of an annual sum for permission to net the area can be entertained by anybody, and Mr. Batchelor's proposal is merely a sporting one. It would certainly pay him to contribute £1000 annually to the State revenue as rent for the exclusive right to net Brisbane Water. He would take out at least £150 worth of fish per week. Mr. Batchelor, as one interested in the sale of fish, would undoubtedly like to have Brisbane Water to draw upon for his supplies; but there are at least 50,000 people who visit Woy Woy for fishing who also have rights in the matter. Mr. Batchelor's interest is financial and personal, and the others is personal and not in the same sense financial. The public want to catch and eat the fish themselves, and cheerfully pay railway fares and boarding expenses and for tackle and bait. The professional man wants to catch the fish in a wholesale way and sell them back to the people who own them.

At the present time Brisbane Water is full of good fish, and the public can hardly avoid catching them.

BOXING.

READ v SULLIVAN.

The contest at the Stadium to-night will be one of 20 rounds between Jack Read and Sid Sullivan. The men are very equally matched. They will be in the ring at 8.30.

MURRAY v STONE.

At the Gaiety Athletic Club to-night Peter Murray, of Marrickville, will meet Jock Stone, of Newtown, in a 20-round contest.

M'FARLAND v MURPHY.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 1.

"Packy" M'Farland won a decision over "Harlem" Murphy in a 20-round bout last night. There were 6000 spectators present. M'Farland badly injured his right hand in the twelfth round. It was a hard, slogging battle throughout, and much punishment was meted out on both sides.

RITCHIE v WELSH.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 1.

Willie Ritchie stayed 20 rounds against Welsh here last night. Ritchie, at 24 hours' notice, was substituted for Wolgast, who is suffering from appendicitis. He put up a wonderful battle. Welsh was groggy on several occasions, but won the decision.

TRADES AND LABOUR.

BAKERS' WAGES.

PERTH, Friday.

The Arbitration Court has fixed £3 3s as the minimum wage for competent bakers. The new rates represent an increase of five per cent.

EARLY CLOSING BILL.

ADELAIDE, Friday.

An early closing bill providing for a compulsory Saturday afternoon holiday in the metropolitan area was on Thursday sent on to the Legislative Council by the Legislative Assembly.

WOLLONGONG, Friday.

The Southern Collieries Wages Board has fixed Wednesday next for a hearing at Helensburgh, and Thursday next at Bulli. Helensburgh matters are principally a claim for shovel filling system or for payment for slack, and a claim for increase for surface hands. Mount Kembla claims are that miners taken from the face to the wheel be paid according to average earnings in their working places instead of the minimum rate for sinnets—10s 6d. There is a claim from North Bulli that the stonemen's hours be reckoned eight from bank to bank. At present they work nine.

NEWCASTLE.

ASSISTANCE FOR STRIKERS.

MINERS' FEDERATION STRIKES LEVY.

NEWCASTLE, Friday.

The delegate board of the Colliery Employees' Federation recently decided to assist the strikers at Lithgow and Collie (Western Australia). It has been considered advisable to strike a levy of one shilling per week per man. The federation to-day wired £100 to the strikers at Lithgow, and a similar amount to the men on strike at Collie. The levy will be continuous while the strikes last, and it is the intention of the federation to forward this amount every week.

COAL INDUSTRY.

The men working on the surface at the collieries in the Newcastle and Maitland districts are endeavouring to obtain better wages. An attempt is being made to arrange a conference with the proprietors. The agitation emanated from the Maitland district, but the top men in the Newcastle district are also affected and any claims put before the proprietors will be on behalf of the top men of both districts. The men intend to place before the proprietors the claims lately placed before the wages board of which Judge Sholes was chairman and Mr. Forsyth and Mr. Paterson proprietors' and men's representatives respectively.

Mr. D. Watson, president of the Colliery Employees' Federation, states that the wages of some of the top men in the Newcastle district are as low as 5s per day. When broken time is taken into consideration this does not constitute a living wage.

HOUSES AND LAND FOR SALE.

YOU CAN BUY TO-DAY

at the same prices as were realised at our sale last Saturday. We are making this offer as a special inducement to those who stayed away from the sale of WARRINGAH ESTATE owing to the wet weather. To further assist intending purchasers we have arranged for TWO SALESMEN TO BE IN ATTENDANCE, who will accept deposits and arrange for Sales on the Ground, from 2 to 5 p.m. You can leave the Mosman tram at Mandalong-road, or the Spit tram at Awaba-street, and walk right down in a minute or two to the Estate.

WARRINGAH ESTATE, BALMORAL,

has all the requisites for a comfortable and beautiful home. It is accessible, being only a minute or two from the Spit or Mosman trams. It is in direct communication with the City by Ferry-boat. Every Block has a charming outlook, both of sea and land. It is a favourite resort for boating and bathing. The beach is the cleanest and whitest in all Sydney, and there is over half a mile of it. The locality is select, and fine houses are to be seen on all sides. We often hear it said, "See Naples and die," but this is a case of "See Balmoral and buy," and you certainly will want to, after a visit to this beautiful locality.

FROM 40/- PER FOOT.

WARRINGAH ESTATE, BALMORAL,

runs right down to Edwards Bay, and some 80 roomy allotments are still available. Some of these have the foundations of houses already built upon them. These foundations are in stone, and will prove the greatest value to the investor who wishes to build. Frontages from 50 feet at 40s per foot. Fancy, land at Balmoral from 40s a foot. Terms, 5 per cent. deposit, and balance over 5 years. Torrens Title. Plans and Booklets from

THE RUSH FOR OUR BANKSTOWN FARMING AREAS STILL CONTINUES,

And judging by the great inquiries from both local and country buyers, we expect to clear out the balance of the GEORGE'S RIVER FARMLETS within the next month.

SMALL FARMS MEAN BIG PROFITS

these days, and given that the soil is fair, and the prospective farmer not afraid of work, the profits will commence with the first year's labour. We can offer you (while they last) small areas of rich soil just four miles from BANKSTOWN Station, from £7/10/ per acre, and on our easy terms of £1 down and 10/ month for each £20 purchased. These Blocks are known as the

and we can honestly recommend this property to would-be farmers and poultry raisers. We advise intending purchasers to make an early inspection of the estate, on account of the rush that has set in for these Farmlets. Write direct to our Department H, and let us know when you will inspect, and we will arrange to have you driven from Bankstown Station. Lots from 2 to 7 acres. Prices from £7/10/ acre. Torrens Title. GREAT BARGAINS IN LAND.

MITCHELL ESTATE, ON THE HEIGHTS OF BEAUTIFUL ROSE BAY.

The Unsold Lots of this Magnificent Estate are to be sold by private contract at Very Low Prices, viz., 40/ to 80/ per foot. The Title is Torrens. The Terms 10 per cent. deposit, and the balance in equal monthly or quarterly payments, extending over 5 years.

Those who would secure a Building Site or Buy as an Investment in this Beautiful and Progressive Locality should seize this last opportunity of doing so. Nearly all the land at Rose Bay has been cut up and sold. Prices must therefore greatly advance in the near future. The Mitchell Estate is within 4 miles of the G.P.O., and is situated between Dover-road and the Convent, the best position on the Watson's Bay tramline. Water and Gas are on the Estate. First-class roads, finished with blue metal, have been made by the vendors at great expense. The money has been voted by Parliament and tenders accepted by the W. and S. Board for the sewerage of the locality. The tram service is excellent, the Ocean and Harbour views are very fine, and the surroundings most charming. The facilities for boating, swimming, golfing, and other pastimes are adjacent. There is abundance of first-class building stone on the Estate, thus cheapening the cost of building. Notwithstanding all these advantages, the owners have decided to realise at what will soon be regarded as ridiculous prices. Plans, Booklets of Views, and full particulars will be posted free on application to the Agents.

Intending Buyers can make appointment per letter or 'phone to the Local Agents to meet a representative on the ground, who will point out the unsold lots at any time.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE.
Have you been reading the Articles in the Telegraph on the Progress of Bexley? BEXLEY THE BEAUTIFUL is coming at last. You cannot talk of Bexley, however, without reference to the ALSTON PARK ESTATE, for it is the pride of Bexley. While there is a lot of it left, the good and cheap land in Bexley has not gone. WHAT THEY THINK IN GERMANY ABOUT

BEALE High-grade PIANOS.

The London "Musical Opinion and Music Trade Review," an important trade journal published in Great Britain, says (July, 1911):—

"A Hamburg trade journalist, who has just returned from the Antipodes, states that the pianos manufactured by the Beale Company in Sydney greatly resemble in touch and in tone those turned out at the best German factories. The Beale is sold at forty-five pounds and upwards, and enjoys a good reputation, not only in Australia, but in India, Java, South Sea Islands, and other colonial countries with hot climates. The 'Hamburger' fears that if these British colonials extend their piano manufacturing operations there will be little room left for Continental makers in the musical instrument line."

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS.

SLIGHTLY USED PIANO BARGAINS AT PIANOLA HALL.

There is always an excellent assortment of Pianos by leading makers, such as Steck, Bechstein, Rosbach, Lipp, Bluthner, and others, available at enormous reductions at Pianola Hall. The reason, and the only reason, they have been exchanged is the desire of their owners to replace instruments they could not play with others which they could play. For the first time in the history of the Piano business, Pianos which were entirely satisfactory have been exchanged by their owners. They have come from some of the best houses in Sydney, and are remarkable for their excellent condition as well as their uniformly high grade.

The PIANOLA PIANO (Steck or Steinway Piano) represents an entirely new thought in musical instruments. Its advantages for the accepted type of pianoforte are so manifest that thousands of Pianos heretofore satisfactory are destined to be disposed of to make room for this 20th Century production.

THE PIANOLA COMPANY are manufacturers of the Steck and Strond (ordinary Pianos) as well as the Steck Pianola Piano. They control the largest producing factories in the world, making last year over 20,000 Instruments. All Instruments sold by the Australasian houses are manufactured expressly to meet Australian climatic conditions. They are shipped direct from our factory, and are sold throughout Australia with but one profit added to the cost—that of the manufacturer, thus saving the profit of the home exporter and Indentor. We invite you to visit our showrooms, where we carry large stocks of Steck and Strond Pianos, Steinway and Steck Pianola Pianos, besides a huge selection of Slightly-used and Second-hand Pianos. The Steck is represented in Burr Walnut, Circassian, Walnut, Rosewood, Mahogany, and Waxed Oak from a small Upright Piano to a Concert Grand.

OUR SPECIAL EASY TERMS OF PAYMENT SYSTEM IS WELL WORTH INVESTIGATING.

JUST ONE POUND.

That is all you will need to secure a lot on Carroll's Estate, Kogarah. Just a pound by way of deposit for any purchase up to £30 and instalments from 10s per month. It requires very little self-denial to put away such a small amount every month, and there is no other means of investing it that will give the same amount of satisfaction—the same amount of return for the same outlay.

These Kogarah Sites are good. Good soil, good locality, good outlook. They are accessible, and handy to town. They have the benefit of the cooling, health-giving breezes from Kogarah Bay, and offer just the inducements as Home Sites that appeal most to the man whose day is spent in the closed-in city.

CARROLL'S ESTATE,

The Subdivision forms part of the extensive property of some 125 acres, known as Carroll's Estate, and includes some of the best Building Sites in the district. The present property consists of some 25 acres, subdivided into handy-sized blocks, many of which face the Kogarah Bay-road.

Many of the lots command fine views of Kogarah Bay—the whole property has an easterly aspect, and is a most desirable one from any point of view.

PROFESSIONS, TRADES, ETC.

A START IN LIFE.

This announcement is made especially for YOU. It points out the road that will enable you to get a start in life. Money and influence are not necessary to success, but training is.

BUSINESS IS CALLING YOU.

Will you answer the call through us? If you would succeed in the Business World you must seek such a training in Business subjects as is given at Stott and Hoare's Business College.

THE COLLEGE IS TWENTY-SIX YEARS OLD.

It has trained thousands who have climbed the ladder to SUCCESS. It numbers among its graduates a host of prominent men; men who have achieved honour and won distinction in public affairs, professional callings, and business enterprises. We are prepared to give you a business training which will be a stepping-stone to prominence in the business world.

WHEN TO ENROL.

The College is in session all the year. Students may enrol at any time, their terms dating from entry. Nothing is gained by waiting for the New Year before enrolling. Allowance is made for all holidays. The College office is open daily. Call and see the Principal to-day.

THOUSANDS OF POSITIONS.

Since its inception, 26 years ago, the College has secured thousands of lucrative appointments for its students. During the month of October, 1911, one hundred and thirty-four positions were offered to its students, eighty-two of whom have secured GOVERNMENT APPOINTMENTS since January of this year.

THIS IS A WORLD OF BUSINESS.

Competition is keen. To succeed you must have preparation. Don't deceive yourself with believing that you will succeed somehow or other without the necessary preparation. Your future rests with YOU—not with luck or fate.

MEN AND WOMEN IN POOR POSITIONS

are there because they failed to qualify themselves for a successful business career. Don't become one of the large army of unskilled labourers.

THE BEST POSITIONS

in the Commercial and Professional world are now being held by Students of STOTT and HOARE'S BUSINESS COLLEGE. You can do as well as they have done if you realise that a business education is an INVESTMENT FOR LIFE and NOT AN EXPENSE.

WHEN TO ENROL.

You may enrol at any time, but the best time is NOW.

INSTRUCTION BY CORRESPONDENCE.

Do you want to improve your position?

Are you aware that you can qualify for any position by studying at your leisure in your own home? By means of instruction by correspondence we can reach students far removed from educational centres. They may be prepared for all University, Local Government (Shire Clerks, Auditors, Engineers), Public Service, or other competitive examinations. They can be coached to become Bookkeepers, Accountants, Auditors, Surveyors, Architects, Electrical, Mechanical, or Civil Engineers, Sanitary Inspectors, Draftsmen, School Teachers, Shorthand Writers, Typists, etc.

EXAMINATION SUCCESSES.

At the last Commonwealth Clerical Examination the five country students who were prepared by our instructors succeeded in passing high on the list, and the one who sat for the last Junior Examination at the University was successful. The result in both cases was 100 per cent. of passes. Twenty-two Postal Students have qualified as Shire and Municipal Clerks, and a large number of students have been successful in passing Accountancy Examinations.

A further number of passes have been secured by postal students who competed in examinations for admission to and promotion in the Teaching Profession; also by students who sat for the recent examination for Forest Guards, Lady Telephonists, etc.

ART OF PRESENT-GIVING.

Some people—well meaning, and generous people, too—have an unhappy knack of giving you the very thing that is of the least possible use or interest to you. The fact of the matter is, they buy in haste, and the unhappy recipient, whilst outwardly appearing pleased, repents at leisure.

To assist those who wish to give presents during the approaching XMAS SEASON, we have completed a most useful Booklet, which is fully illustrated with drawings made from our actual stock, and selections made from it will be sure to meet with the fullest appreciation of the recipient.

There are GLOVES, HANDKERCHIEFS, BAGS, PERFUMERY, LACE NECKWEAR, NOVELTIES, HAT PINS, BUCKLES, and many useful articles, most suitable as gifts, fully described and priced.

WASH THE CLOTHES BY BOILING ONLY WITH

NO-RUBBIN, 3d PKT.

There is absolutely nothing to equal "No-Rubbin." It has wonderful clothes-washing properties, quickly gets rid of the dirt, makes the clothes snow white, yet does not harm either the skin or the most delicate fabrics. "No-Rubbin" does NOT contain anything at all in the way of injurious chemicals, neither has it such adulterants as silicate of soda, which imitators of "No-Rubbin" are so fond of using. Just put "No-Rubbin" into the copper with the clothes and BOIL THEM ONLY. Use this wonderful working clothes washer, but be careful to get "No-Rubbin." 3d packet.

If your Grocer or Storekeeper does not stock "No-Rubbin," write us, enclosing his and your name and address, and we will forward you a full-size packet FREE.

THE BEST-DRESSED WOMEN.

It is universally admitted that actresses as a class are the most stylishly attired women in the world. They pay particular attention to their figure, not only because it enables them to dress well, but also because they realise that the face can never attract so much as the form, and therefore you never see an actress unbecomingly corpulent, because she knows full well that and upon the first sign of increased weight, a carton of these pleasant little tablets is obtained, and the slim, graceful figure so essential to her professional success, is easily retained. There is another reason why "Formettes" are so popular among leading professionals. It is that not only must they retain their beauty of figure, but, in doing so, must also see that their health does not suffer.

THE SECRET OF LOOKING COOL.

"The secret of looking cool in hot weather," says Mlle. Rubinstein, the Viennese Complexion Specialist, "is to treat the skin in the right way, and use suitable preparations. The naturally moist skin becomes red and greasy in a high temperature, and the dry skin uncomfortably dry, with sometimes a painful burning sensation. I deprecate the use of soap and water in such cases. VALAZE LIQUIDINE is ideal for cleansing the face in hot weather, and the daily use of VALAZE SKIN FOOD whitens, refreshes, and removes the sallow, dull look, that spoils so many faces.

"Many a woman much admired for her fine complexion, uses VALAZE SKIN FOOD (3/6 and 6/6), VALAZE LIQUIDINE (5/ and 8/6), VALAZE POWDER (2/, 3/, and 5/), and VALAZE SNOW LOTION (3/6 a bottle); while many ladies who constantly motor find NOVENA SUNPROOF CREME (3/6 and 2/) a necessary protection for the skin. But as it is a creme, VALAZE POWDER should be used as a finishing touch. As this creme absolutely safeguards from freckles and sunburn, we send quantities of it to tennis players and ladies at the seaside. The eyes, when red or inflamed from seaside glare and motoring, are soothed and cleared by VALAZE EYE LOTION (2/6).

"VALAZE POWDER is especially adapted for greasy, over-moist skins, while NOVENA POUDRE is excellent for dry and normal skins. Both are the same price. VALAZE SNOW LOTION is a delightfully cooling liquid powder, which refreshes and softens the skin, overcomes greasiness, coarseness, and over-moistness, refines the skin's texture, and imparts a soft, cool, fresh appearance to the skin.

"For undesirable blemishes—such as blackheads, pimples, enlarged pores, acne, VALAZE BLACKHEAD and OPEN PORE CURE is a perfect remedy. It cleanses, braces, and stimulates the skin, keeping it healthy and free from impurities. It is 2/10 posted."

Mlle. RUBINSTEIN has the methods of the cleverest Continental beauty Specialists at her fingers' ends, and the years of experience as a complexion specialist enable her to give freely advice to every woman on the improvement of her looks.

Housewives everywhere have proved it—chefs of repute "swear" by it. Don't be content until you get

BAKING POWDER,

The tin with the patent lever lid—a new improved style, and a very convenient shape—is obtainable at all leading Grocers and Storekeepers for 6d and 1s.
